RUSSIAN WHEAT DEAL DEFENDED BY PIT LEADERS

Sales Not Intended to Lower Prices, Fish Inquirers Hear.

WITNESS ADMITS HE KNEW OF BUSINESS

Embargo Soviet Trade, Is Suggestion, if It Is Not Wanted.

LEWIS BRANDS REDS MENACE TO MINERS

Congressional Quiz Moves to Seattle Friday; Full Report in December.

Chicago, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The congressional committee on Communist activities concluded its inquiry into Russia's short-selling of wheat today after hearing Chicago Board of Trade executives describe it as a "hedging" operation rather than an attempt to depress prices.

Representative Hamilton Fish, jr., of New York, chairman, said after the one-day meeting in Chicago that his committee had all the facts it considered essential and that its report on the wheat sales as well as other Soviet activities would not be made until December.

Throughout the day the committee had heard from one grain man after another that Russia's sale of 7,500,000 bushels of wheat in the futures market was not contrary to any government or exchange rule then existing and that it had no semblance to a "bear" drive.

Soviet Profit Unknown.

Meanwhile the wheat market sagged as much as 1½ cents under Saturday's finish but partly recovered on reports that Russia was buying in some of its wheat.

This report was confirmed before the committee by Joseph W. Badenoch, chairman of the board's business conduct committee, who said he knew that Russia had bought between 400,000 and 500,000 bushels on the futures market.

Badenoch said he did not know how much profit the Soviet government made on the part of its deal it had consummated. John A. Bunnell, president of the board, had previously testified that if Russia had bought all of the 7,500,000 bushels today the profit would have been approximately $525,000 as the price of wheat had dropped between 7 and 8 cents since the short sales.

Capital Session Cited.

The Board of Trade directors, after a conference between Secretary of Agriculture Hyde and board representatives, recently passed a resolution prohibiting its members from making short sales of wheat to any foreign government.

Several witnesses, asked why the resolution was passed if there were nothing wrong with the Russian transactions, replied that it was the result of the conference in Washington.

The principal witness of the afternoon, Joseph P. Griffin, enlarged on this by saying that it was "probably passed at the behest of Washington authorities" and that it was very dangerous to allow any government to enter a market.

Defends Russian Deals.

Griffin, a former president of the board and partner in one of the firms which handled the Russian trades, said "any government, with its great resources, might wreck a market. We had a good example during the World War when European nations were long instead of short on wheat."

Although he agreed with the directors in prohibiting further short sales, Griffin said at the time the trades were executed there was "no legal or moral reason" why his or any other firm should not deal with Russia.

Griffin suggested that if the United States Government did not want business men in this country to trade with Russia it should pass a law to that effect and that the law should apply to all exchanges and all types of business. He said he thought it the Government's responsibility rather than the board of trade's.

Knew of Dealings.

Griffin said he knew the trades his firm—J. S. Bache & Co.—were executing were for the All-Russian Textile Syndicate on September 10, several days before that fact was disclosed by the Secretary of Agriculture. It was not necessary, according to law, to report this to the grain futures administration or any other agency, he said, and he saw no reason to disclose the fact to any one.

"Nothing about the transaction seemed irregular or of an ulterior motive," Griffin said. "It had all the earmarks of a bona-fide hedging transaction.

"If Russia had wished to break the market, it would have handled the deals on a different basis. It would have placed its orders to sell at any

Calvin Coolidge

Says: Practically all nominations and all platforms to be voted upon in the November elections have been completed. Men have made great sacrifices of blood and treasure to secure the privilege and right of self-government. We have extended the franchise to women. All who are eligible should register and vote.

The foundation of popular government depends upon the affirmative action of the people at the polls. The judgment of the voter should be an informed judgment. The purpose of a campaign is to educate the voters on the issues and the ability and character of the candidates.

Elections are the most serious business in which our citizens engage. On their results depends not only the welfare of the people but the demonstration of their ability to govern themselves with safety and justice to each other. The greatest peace-time test of the moral power of a people is the ability to cast a disinterested, unselfish and patriotic vote. At the present time the country needs the most conscientious thought it can give in choosing officers. Only such decision is worthy of a free people.

M'CORMICK CHARGE LIBELOUS, IS CLAIM

Senate Committee Issues Warning to Press on Publication.

FOUR SIGN STATEMENT

(Associated Press.)

The Senate campaign funds investigating committee yesterday issued a statement characterizing the wire-tapping charges of Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican senatorial nominee in Illinois, as "false and libelous" and served notice that a repetition of their publication would be regarded as "willful and malicious libel."

The committee's denial of the charges made by the woman senatorial nominee, who has been under inquiry bristled with pointed words and was signed by four of the five members, two Republicans and two Democrats.

The statement complained that "Mrs. McCormick has the effrontery to continue to make statements which are not only false in fact, but which she herself must know to be false."

Senator Nye (Republican), North Dakota, the committee chairman, issued the statement, which also was signed by Senators Dale (Republican), Vermont; Dill (Democrat), Washington, and Wagner (Democrat), New York. Mr. Nye explained that Senator Patterson (Republican), Missouri, the fifth member, had not signed it "because he wanted to adhere to his original position that he would make no commitments on any phase of the investigation with which he has not been closely affiliated as in this one."

The committee statement follows:

"Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick continues to make false and libelous charges that members of the Senate investigating committee put detectives at work to break into her private premises, to ransack her personal correspondence, to pilfer her files and records, and to tap her telephone wires.

"Newspapers have been induced by Mrs. McCormick's well-organized publicity to misrepresent activities of the committee, distort news of its proceedings and repeatedly print false statements from the tongue and pen of Mrs. McCormick in apparent disregard of libel laws. This has been carried to such a point that there are publishers today who seem never to have seen denials of these charges issued to the press in times past.

"We have said and we repeat that these charges are totally and utterly

WAR ON "ENEMIES" RAPPED BY DARROW

Chicago Vagrancy Drive Against "Public Foes" Called Outrage.

ACTS FOR UNION MAN

Chicago, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Chicago's campaign against "public enemies" by use of vagrancy laws was attacked today by Clarence Darrow, noted criminal lawyer. He appeared in court for the first time in two years. He is representing George ("Red") Barker, business agent for the Teamsters Union.

Barker and William ("Three-Fingered Jack") White, both listed by the Chicago Crime Commission as "public enemies" and both charged with vagrancy, were accompanied by Darrow when they surrendered in Municipal Court.

They were released a few minutes after their surrender on real estate bonds worth $100,000.

"I broke my resolve to keep out of criminal practice because I feel that this vagrancy campaign is outrageous," explained Darrow. "The law provides that a man charged with vagrancy shall be released on a regular bond of $100, which can be approved by any police captain. Yet men are being taken into Municipal Court, charged with vagrancy and required to furnish $10,000 bonds. It is unlikely that any of them ever will be tried on vagrancy charges.

"If authorities wish to harass the lawless they should indict them and try them on charges of which they may be guilty. I agreed to represent Barker because I have always been close to unions. My services were solicited for that reason, I suppose. I am not attorney for White.'

Barker and White, State investigators declared, have "muscled" their way into the Chicago Coal Teamsters and Helpers Union.

Charles E. Lounsbury, assistant State's attorney, today revealed a plot to assassinate Judge John H. Lyle, who issued vagrancy warrants against the 26 "public enemies" and has carried on a streffuous warfare upon hoodlums.

A negro, whose identity was kept secret, appeared at the State's Attorney's office and related overhearing conversations of three men in a west-side restaurant last Saturday, when they were discussing a plan to murder the Judge, Lounsbury said.

During the day it was reported that a true bill, charging extortion, had been voted by the grand jury against

EMPIRE STATE DRYS PUT THIRD TICKET IN FIELD

Secret Meeting Decides to Back Dr. Carroll, of Syracuse.

THREE-HOUR SESSION CALLED HARMONIOUS

Full Slate Is Not to Be Nominated, Says Mrs. Colvin.

MAY PICK OPPONENTS TO WET REPUBLICANS

Papers of Governorship Candidate Are to Be Filed Monday.

New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The conference of dry organizations of New York State held a three-hour secret meeting today at which plans were formulated for the support of Prof. Robert P. Carroll, of Syracuse University, as independent candidate for governor.

The petition for Dr. Carroll already has been circulated and probably will be filed on Monday, naming him as gubernatorial candidate of the "law preservation party."

"Are Real Republicans."

After the meeting, which was presided over by Fred E. Victor, State superintendent of the Antisaloon League, Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, State president of the W. C. T. U., said that in backing an independent candidate the Republican drys did not feel that they were splitting from the Republican party.

"We feel," she said, "that we are the real Republicans."

Representatives of dry organizations who attended the secret meeting said afterward that there had been entire harmony and that a spirit of optimism prevailed. Some of them even predicted a Carroll vote of 500,000.

Will Oppose Wets.

Mrs. Colvin said the drys would not put a full ticket in the field, but in a few instances would probably run dry candidates against wet Republicans.

Among those present at the meeting besides Mr. Victor and Mrs. Colvin were W. E. Nicholson, associate State superintendent of the Antisaloon League; Canon William Sheafe Chase, O. R. Miller, superintendent of the New York Civic League; Stanley High, editor of the Christian Herald; Dr. Herbert LaFlamme, of the Greater New York Federation of Churches, and Charles Simmons, of the Prohibition Education League.

Looter of Liquor In Jail Punished

Judge Williams Presides at September Court in Berryville.

Special to The Washington Post.

Berryville, Va., Sept. 29.—Judge Philip Williams opened the September term of circuit court here this morning, and of the 21 true bills which were returned against as many defendants by the grand jury last week the following were disposed of:

George Smallwood, on three charges, illegal possession of liquor, breaking into a room while in jail where seized liquor was stored and drinking the evidence, received 90 days in jail and $75 in fines and costs; Ralph Cooper, colored, possession of liquor, second offense, four months in jail, fined $50 and costs; George Fiddler, who broke into the garage of William Grubbs and stole a lot of tools, four years in penitentiary, and for breaking jail with John Wright, colored, on September 6, six months in jail; John Wright, colored, who, Fiddler claimed, did the actual work of loosening the bars so they could escape, received one year in jail, and for possession of ardent spirits, one year in jail and $50 fine.

Frank Carter, for operating a still, three months and $10 fine and costs, but his sentence was suspended until he could get in his corn crop.

CANNON SILENT ON CHARGES AS HIS SHIP DOCKS

Bishop Takes Train for Washington From New York.

FLASHLIGHTS BOOM, BRIDE IS HYSTERICAL

Photographers Asked to Clear Passageway of Cleric's Cabin.

INTERVIEW GRANTED ON PROHIBITION LAW

Believes Temperance in U. S. Has Advanced Under 18th Amendment.

New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Bishop James Cannon, jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, returned to the U. S. today to face charges filed against him by four clergymen of his denomination.

He arrived with his bride of three months and former secretary, Mrs. Helen McCallum Cannon, on the liner American Legion from Brazil and left the pier in a taxicab, presumably to entrain for Washington.

At first he declined to see newspapermen, but later granted an interview on prohibition, refusing, however, to discuss the charges against him.

Nothing to Say on Charges.

On that point, he said:

"I will say nothing until I have had an opportunity to read the official documents in the case. I have already outlined my position in a statement to the Associated Press (radioed from the American Legion Friday) and I have nothing further to say."

The Bishop declined to pose for photographers and Mrs. Cannon kept to her stateroom while the bishop was clearing their baggage through the customs. She then attempted to leave the ship by a freight gangway, but was greeted with a bombardment of flashlights. She took refuge behind the backs of ships' officers and workers on the pier and waited until the bishop drove up in a taxicab. She entered the cab, pulled down the curtains and it drove away.

Mrs. Cannon Hysterical.

Previously, when the flashlight bombardment first started aboard the ship, she apparently appealed to the captain, for the first officer asked photographers to leave the passageway outside the Cannon's stateroom.

"Mrs. Cannon is hysterical," he said. "The captain has requested me to ask you gentlemen to leave so she can regain her calm and then you can approach her on the dock or after she leaves the ship."

Bishop Cannon, who is a bishop of Brazil, had been there for several weeks aiding in formation of the Methodist Church of Brazil and giving temperance lectures.

He said there was a considerable movement in Brazil for restriction of privileges of saloons.

"My addresses (on prohibition) were well received," he said, "and given wide publicity in the leading Brazilian papers."

Gives Prohibition Views.

Among other comments on prohibition the bishop made were these:

That he admired Dwight W. Morrow, who urged repeal of the eighteenth amendment, for his sincere stand, which he believed consistent, in that Mr. Morrow declared for enforcement of the prohibition laws so long as they were in force; that he believed the United States, except for great cities containing a large foreign population, was more temperate than it was before the eighteenth amendment; that there was no doubt there was a great deal of bootlegging, and he believed that the breweries of the country probably were disposing of much illegal beer, and that he opposed Alfred E. Smith for the Presidency, not because of his religion but because of his views on prohibition.

In speaking of the sentiment

HATCHET AND PISTOL PURCHASE IN CAPITAL IS TRACED TO CREECY

Weapons for Assault and Suicide Were Bought Saturday.

SALESMEN IDENTIFY REMAINS OF OFFICER

Investigation of Case Leaves Motive Only Undetermined.

NO EVIDENCE BACKS THIRD PARTY THEORY

Operation on Wife Removes Pieces of Bone Crushed Into Brain Tissue.

The revolver and hatchet used by Lieut. Col. Richard Bennett Creecy in the attempted murder of his wife, Mrs. Louise Creecy, and his suicide were purchased by the officer early Saturday in Washington stores, it has been established by police.

After an exhaustive investigation, the only point remaining to be cleared up in the tragedy is the motive that prompted the officer to hack his wife with the hatchet and then kill himself in their room in the Mayflower Hotel early Sunday morning.

The motive, however, may never be definitely learned, since the woman is near death in Emergency Hospital, suffering from multiple fractures of the skull. Little hope is held by physicians for her recovery.

Inspector William S. Shelby yesterday revealed that an investigation by Lieut. Edward J. Kelly showed that Col. Creecy had purchased the .38-caliber Colt revolver in the Sport Mart, at 914 F street northwest, between 9 and 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning.

Salesman Makes Identification.

Edgar T. Grigsby, the salesman, identified the body of Col. Creecy as that of the man to whom he had sold the weapon which was found under his body when Mayflower Hotel officials entered the room.

At the time of the purchase, Mr. Grigsby said, the officer said he wanted the revolver to take to the tropics as he "needed something heavy to stop those fellows." The weapon has been identified as that sold to the officer. In making the purchase Col. Creecy gave his correct name and his address as the Mayflower Hotel.

He also purchased 50 cartridges for use in the gun at the Sport Mart. None of the bullets, with the exception of those found in the chambers of the gun, have been recovered by police.

Dovetailing with Lieut. Kelly's investigation were the facts unearthed by Detective Sergt. John A. Flaherty and James C. Collins, who traced the purchase of the hatchet to the hardware store of Barber & Ross, at Eleventh and G streets northwest.

Identified as Hatchet Buyer.

Paul Heister, of 1420 Floral street northwest, a sales clerk, said that he had sold the hatchet to a man who answered the general description of Col. Creecy. The purchase took place on Saturday, but he could not set any definite time.

Sergts. Flaherty and Collins took the clerk to the undertaking establishment of Norval K. Tabler, at 928 M street, where he identified Col. Creecy's body as that of the buyer.

In his description Mr. Heister told the officers that the purchaser had worn a light suit. Police learned that the officer had worn a light suit on that day. This was later found in his room.

Sole Agent in City.

The instrument was a "Black Raven" hatchet, made by the Kelly Axe Co., of Charlestown, W. Va., and it was also ascertained that the Barber & Ross firm is the sole agent for the manufacturer in this city.

John Lepre, another clerk in the store, identified stock and price mark-

Scores 'Commercialized' Tourneys, Prefers to Play for Prizes.

By ALAN GOULD

New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—George Von Elm, long recognized as the American amateur golfer ranking second only to Bobby Jones, today amplified his decision to withdraw from all future amateur competition by identifying himself as "a businessman golfer, neither amateur nor professional," who expects to take the profits from open prize money and yet maintain his own private business.

The only player who has beaten Jones in a 36-hole match in the last seven years of American amateur championship competition also signalized his farewell to simon-pure ranks by attacking the United States Golf Association, which at one time disbarred the blond star for alleged violation of the amateur rules.

Von Elm characterized the championship tournament as a "highly organized commercialized project," a show for which $50,000 is paid in, but nothing contributed to the expenses of the players.

At Merion last week, Von Elm was runner-up to Jones for medal honors and was eliminated by Maurice McCarthy, jr., of New York, in a record-

METHODIST CLERGY CHOSEN FOR POSTS

ROANOKE IS 1931 CITY

Changes in the pastorates in eleven churches in the Washington District and appointment of its entire list of clergymen in Virginia, Maryland and the District yesterday marked the closing session in the annual convention of the Baltimore Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church South.

Final convention business included approval of assessments totaling about $100,000, a reduction of $17,000 being effected after a spirited discussion, and the announcement that the Rev D. L. Blakemore, pastor of the Frederick Avenue Church in Baltimore, has been appointed a presiding elder to succeed the Rev. G. W. Richardson, who was named to the Middleburg (Va.) Church. The Rev. Mr. Blakemore was assigned over the Lewisburg District.

Roanoke, Va., was selected as the 1931 convention city at the invitation of the Methodist Preachers Meeting of Roanoke extended by F. B. Thomas, a layman. The date was set for the last week in September.

Bishop William B. Beauchamp, of Richmond, as presiding officer of the conference, formally confirmed the appointment of Dr. William Arthur Shelton, of Emory University, near Atlanta, Ga., as pastor of the Mount Vernon Place Church, scene of the convention sessions, to succeed Dr. W. A. Lambeth, who has served the church slightly less than seven years. Dr. Lambeth will be transferred to the North Georgia Conference.

Calvary Church here was assigned to the Rev. D. A. Beery, late of the Covington, Va., Church, to succeed

WILBUR WELCOMES QUIZ ON OIL LEASES

Secretary Refuses Resignation of Accuser and Calls for Data on Charges.

LONG STATEMENT GIVEN

(Associated Press.)

A full investigation of the whole oil shale question was welcomed yesterday by Secretary Wilbur after charges had been made by Ralph S. Kelley, head of the General Land Office at Denver, that the Interior Department had shown favoritism to large oil companies in administering Western oil shale lands.

Kelley, who has held Land Office posts at Salt Lake City and Denver for 25 years, made his charges Sunday night when he announced his resignation in a statement to the press.

Secretary Wilbur yesterday defended his oil land policy in a lengthy statement. He said he had declined to accept Kelley's resignation because of the seriousness of his charges, but had suspended the Denver official and directed him to file immediately the names of the companies he claims have been favored, "with the dates and nature of the transactions mentioned."

The resignation came as a surprise, Secretary Wilbur said, because Kelley had been ordered on July 7 to come to Washington to take charge of the "very work" he criticized and had not yet reported to the Secretary. He did, however, come here about August 5 and worked approximately a month at the Land Office during the Secretarys' absence, Wilbur said.

Kelley asserted Sunday that for the last five years large oil companies, "because of great political and other pressure brought to bear on the Secretary," had received favorable con-

Ecuador President Quits, Seeks Harmony for Nation

Col. Guerrero, Just Named Minister of Interior, Is New Leader.

Quito, Ecuador, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—President Isidro Ayora of Ecuador, who has governed the country since 1926, submitted his resignation to Congress this evening.

Col. Carlos Guerrero, justappointed minister of the interior, which is equivalent to being prime minister, automatically assumes the powers of chief executive. He is also minister of war.

Dr. Ayora, in sending in his resignation, declared it was irrevocable, and asked Congress to act on it as quickly as possible. He said he considered it in the best interests of Ecuador because the nation needed political harmony.

Col. Guerrero, as minister of the interior, succeeded Julio Moreno, whose resignation over the week-end precipitated the cabinet crisis.

President Isidro Ayora was appointed to his office in April, 1926, by a military board that had assumed powerfrom a seven-man junta. The junta, by a coup d'etat in July, 1925, had taken over the government and dissolved congress.

He was constitutionally elected president in March, 1929.

Robert Buck Runs Out of Gas and Fights Wind on First Day.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Robert Buck, 16-year-old Elizabeth, N. J., aviator attempting to set a new junior transcontinental flight record, landed his plane here early tonight for an overnight stop. He started from Newark, N. J., this morning, and made stops at Martin's Ferry, Ohio, and Columbus.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Attempting to set a new junior transcontinental flight record, Bob Buck soared westward tonight after a refueling stop here this afternoon. Seeking to break the speed mark established recently by Eddie Schneider, 19, of Jersey City, he landed here at 3:18 p. m. (E. S. T.), and departed at 4:03 with St. Louis as his next scheduled stop.

Headwinds delayed Buck from Newark to Columbus. He ran out of gasoline and was forced to land at Martins Ferry, Ohio, at noon. Unable to obtain the fuel there immediately, he did not get away for Columbus until 2:05.

From St. Louis, Buck planned to ings on the handle of the hatchet as his writing.

Each of the weapons was microscopically examined at detective headquarters yesterday, but the only markings found were bloodstains on the hatchet and other stains on the hammer of the pistol where the colonel had evidently touched it.

Lieut. Kelly, who made a comprehensive investigation of the scene on Sunday, learned that the couple had registered September 9, had checked out September 16, and had reentered September 23.

Visited His Parents Saturday.

On Saturday night the couple were entertained at the home of the officer's parents from 8 to 10:30 o'clock in the Gordon Hotel. They were apparently in the best of spirits at that time, said the parents.

Where Col. Creecy spent the time between the purchase of the weapons and the entertainment at his parents, has not been ascertained.

Saturday Col. Creecy had reservations made for himself and wife on a train that was to leave for New York City at noon Sunday. In their personal effects was found a letter from the Hotel McAlpin in New York City notifying them that reservations had been made for them for September 28.

In the room were two handbags which had been packed for traveling. On Saturday night, Col. Creecy had left a request to be called at 7:15 o'clock on the following morning. Evidence in the room appeared conclusive that no one could have entered it.

Thumb Lock Was Fastened.

The only key to a thumb lock on the inside of the door is held by hotel officials. This was used when the couple failed to respond to telephone calls and the rapping of hotel employes on the door.

The window to the room is 60 feet above the kitchen of the hotel. One window is nearby. Screens in the window of the Creecy room had apparently been untouched. There were no prints on the white-painted sills that would indicate that any one could have entered by that means.

Col. Edward W. Creecy, the 84-year-old father of the dead man, said yesterday that his son had an income of approximately $20,000 a year and had no financial troubles. His son's wife, he said, was also well to do.

Marine Board of Inquiry.

A Marine board of inquiry will be given all the evidence uncovered by police. This board convened yesterday. Maj. Gen. Ben H. Fuller, commandant of the Marine Corps, selected the following to make the inquiry: Col. Louis McC. Little, Col. Thomas C. Turner and Liept. Comdr. George R. Carr.

This board reported yesterday that its investigation had just begun and could ascribe no reason for the tragedy.

Police have advanced the theory that the woman may have been reluctant to return to the tropics with Col. Creecy, whose furlough to this country would have expired on October 9. He was assistant commandant of the Marine Corps in Haiti.

Wife Is Operated On.

Dr. Daniel Borden performed an operation on Mrs. Creecy and removed several pieces of skull bone. Each blow of the hatchet cut through her skull and imbedded fragments of bone in the brain tissues. In all there were three deep incisions in the right side of her head above the ear, each of which penetrated the bony tissue of the skull.

Not much hope is held for her recovery by the physicians. She lost a large amount of blood during the twelve hours that she laid unconscious on the floor of the bedroom. Since the attack on her she has not had a conscious moment.

Authorities are in constant touch with the hospital in the remote hope that she may regain consciousness and tell them the underlying motive for the attempted murder and suicide.

Funeral to Be Held Tomorrow.

Funeral services for Col. Creecy will be held tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock in the chapel at Fort Myer. The burial will be in Arlington Cemetery. Full military honors will mark the funeral. The Rev. Sidney K. Evans, United States Navy chaplain, will officiate. Meanwhile the body is at Tabler's undertaking establishment, 928 M street northwest.

Pallbearers at the funeral will include Brig. Gen. Rufus Lane, Lieut. Col. Charles R. Sanderson, Lieut. Col. Walter Hill, Lieut. Col. David M. Randall, Lieut. Col. E. A. Randall and Maj. William Bevan, all of the Marine Corps.

Humphries Loses On Habeas Corpus

Justice Adkins Denies Plea Filed by Counsel of Fraud Suspect.

When Justice Jesse C. Adkins in District of Columbia Supreme Court yesterday denied the petition for habeas corpus filed on behalf of William Mayo Humphreys, his attorney, T. Morris Wampler, immediately noted an appeal. Justice Jesse C. Adkins, before whom the petition was heard, refused to set an appeal bond, but it was indicated that one would be set later when the attorney is prepared to present his case to the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

Humphries, who was arrested here several weeks ago, has been in jail since his arrest despite the fact that Justice Oscar R. Luhring in signing the original writ of habeas corpus reduced the bond of $20,000, assessed by the commissioner, to $15,000.

Humphries is under indictment in New York City on a charge of using the mails to defraud in connection with his alleged act in collecting $136,000 from the Royal Bank of Montreal on a false draft. He also is alleged to be affiliated with a huge "wire-tapping" outfit which is said to have made its headquarters in Canada, but which unfortunately permitted part of its mail matter to circulate as far south as New York City.

Richard Burnett, in police court yesterday, was fined $10 and costs, total $50.50, and sentenced to three months in jail on a charge of violating the prohibition law. The arrest was made by Sergts. Sims and Padgett, who testified they found two bottles of champagne in Burnett's place, at the corner of King and West streets, and also nine half-gallon jars of whisky in a woodshed in the rear of the property. Burnett claimed that he had possessed the champagne since before the enactment of the prohibition law and disclaimed ownership of the whisky. An appeal to the corporation court was entered by his attorney and Burnett furnished $1,000 bond.

In the corporation court yesterday, Joseph Dudley, Negro, under indictment for the killing of Ernest Lloyd, alias "Mutt" Grooms, Negro, pleaded guilty to involuntary manslaughter and was sentenced to one year in jail.

George Coburn, indicted in the same court for the alleged stabbing of James Seagraves July 18, was acquitted by the jury after three minutes' deliberation. The case is understood to have been the outcome of a quarrel over a pet rabbit. Coburn was represented by Attorney Frederick L. Flynn, while the prosecution was conducted by Commonwealth's Attorney Albert V. Bryan, assisted by Attorney Robinson Moncure.

Bodies of two unidentified men who were killed while riding on top of a freight car which was brought into the Potomac freight yards the night of September 18, will be buried this morning in Alexandria's Potters Field. The railroad authorities and police believe that the men were stealing a ride from Baltimore to Washington, and when the car on which they were riding passed under a low bridge at Savage, Md., they were struck in the head and both instantly killed.

Strenuous efforts were made by Police Capt. Campbell to locate the relatives of the dead men, without success. He was assisted in this work by J. Herbert Taylor, chief of the identification bureau of the Navy Department, and by the Washington police.

Edward Carter, Negro, living at 313 North Henry street, was fatally injured about 8 o'clock yesterday morning while at work at the plant of the American Agricultural & Chemical Co., when lumps of acid phosphate fell on him, breaking his neck. He was taken to the Alexandria Hospital, but died within an hour. Dr. T. Marshall Jones, city coroner, issued a certificate of accidental death.

The work of widening Mount Vernon avenue which has been in progress for several months and which was delayed by the removal of the Hume Spring House, was completed yesterday, but not opened to traffic. The road within the city limits of Alexandria is 28 feet wide.

SALE OF ALEXANDRIA GAS PLANT FINISHED

Council Appoints Committee to Handle $750,000 Received in Deal.

LEGION EXHIBIT OPENS

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 323.

The city council, at a special meeting yesterday, cleared up the last detail in the sale of the city gas works to the Alexandria Gas Co., prior to the actual turning over of the plant. This final action will be taken at another special meeting tomorrow.

The action yesterday consisted in the appointment by council of five trustees to receive and disburse the $750,000 to be received for the plant. These trustees are Mayor Carroll Pierce, Councilmen Arthur Herbert and Edmund F. Ticer; L. H. Dudley, vice-president and cashier of the Alexandria National Bank, and George E. Warfield, cashier of the First National Bank. The five trustees as a body will furnish bond of $25,000.

Of the purchase price of $750,000, seven-eighths, or $656,250, will be used for the redemption of outstanding municipal bonds, and the remaining one-eighth, or $93,750, will be turned over by the trustees to the city treasurer, to be placed in a separate account and to be used, for the present at least, as a reserve fund to be "loaned" to the general fund for current expenses of the city in anticipation of the collection of taxes, or to meet emergencies, such loans to be repaid to the reserve fund. The ordinance authorizing the sale provides that this one-eighth may be used for permanent improvements if the council should so decide, but so far it appears that the reserve is preferred by the council.

A force of meter readers will start out at 7 o'clock this morning to read all meters for the city, preparatory to the taking over of the plant tomorrow. The work must be completed by sunset today, and City Manager Wallace Lawrence has requested all users of gas to have their meters accessible so that there will be no delay to readers. The bills will be made out by the city in accordance with today's reading, and all future bills will be rendered by the Alexandria Gas Co.

The fourth annual Trade Exhibit and Style Show of Alexandria Post 24, American Legion, opened last night at 7:30 o'clock when Mayor Carroll Pierce turned on the lights at the Armory. J. Birrell was master of ceremonies at the exhibit, and the armory was crowded to capacity for the opening. The exhibit and style show will be continued throughout the week. The Golden Castle orchestra, of Fort Humphreys, furnished the music for the show, as well as for the entertainment and dancing which followed.

One of the features is the booth of the American Legion Auxiliary, where a service sale is being held of articles made by disabled veterans in the various government hospitals. The entire proceeds of this sale will go to the men who made the articles, and in many instances the small sums which they will receive for their handiwork will constitute their entire income.

The 126th semiannual meeting of the Piedmont Convocation will be held in St. Paul's Episcopal Church here today and tomorrow.

The program for today will include Holy Communion at 11 o'clock, followed by the convocation sermon by the Rev. Robert Allan Castleman; at 12:30 p. m., organization of the convocation; 1 o'clock, lunch in the parish hall; 2 o'clock, business session; 3 o'clock, essay by the Rev. Alexander C. Zabrieskie; at 6:30 p. m., dinner will be served in the Grace Church parish hall, the clergy being invited guests. Laymen intending to attend have been asked to notify the Rev. Percy Foster Hall, rector of St. Paul's Church, so that reservations may be made for them. It is expected that 100 men will attend the dinner.

On Wedensday the program will begin with a quiet hour, conducted by the Rev. Edgar Carpenter, rector of Grace Church; business session will be held at 11 o'clock; luncheon at 1 o'clock, and business session resumed at 2 o'clock; at 3 o'clock "advance work," with the Rev. Charles W. Sheerin, speaker.

Clerical members of the convocation are the Right Rev. H. St. George Tucker, D. D., Bishop of Virginia; the Rev. A. C. Langston, Accotink; the Rev. Edgar Carpenter, the Rev. Percy F. Hall, the Rev. William J. Morton, D. D., the Rev. George Vest, the Rev. S. A. Wallis, D. D., of this city; the Rev. W. Francis Allison, Brandy; the Rev. Edwin S. Hinks, Casanova; the Rev. Charles B. Sparks, Cherrydale; the Rev. C. C. Graves, M. D., Cherrydale; the Rev. Henry J. Miller, Clarendon; the Rev. Kensey J. Hammond, D. D., Culpeper; the Rev. Robert Allan Castleman, East Falls Church; the Rev. Thomas S. Russel, Fairfax; the Rev. William F. Carpenter, Haymarket; the Rev. Alexander Galt, Herndon; the Rev. A. Stuart Gibson, Manassas; the Rev. John G. Sadtler, McLean; the Rev. S. S. Ware, McLean; the Rev. Hugh McDonald Martin, Rapidan; the Rev. Berryman Green, D. D., Theological Seminary; the Rev. Thomas K. Nelson, D. D., Theological Seminary; the Rev. Alexander C. Zabriskie, Theological Seminary; the Rev. Paul D. Bowden, Warrenton; the Rev. Henry Heaton, Widewater.

The Rev. Paul D. Bowden is dean; the Rev. W. F. Allison is sceretary, and the Rev. P. F. Hall is treasurer.

G. O. P. HEADS CITED AS FOES OF HOOVER

Preelection Statements of Leaders Are Quoted in Michelson Talk.

CURTIS, WATSON NAMED

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The Democrats put their reputed ventriloquist, Charles Michelson, on the radio last night and, lo and behold! instead of putting slanderous words in the mouths of Democrats, as the Republicans have charged him with doing, he did tricks with bygone utterances of such illustrious Republicans as Vice President Curtis, Senators Watson, Fess and Borah and Chairman Will Wood, of the congressional campaign committee.

It was one of the diversions of the 1930 political melodrama, but highly important to the general plot.

Mr. Michelson is the one whom the Republicans charge was employed as the Democratic publicity director by Mr. Raskob to smear Mr. Hoover. All of those cunning statements which have been showered upon the Republicans the past year in the greatest Democratic publicity drive in history, and purportedly made by senators and members of the House were in reality just Mr. Michelson's work, the Republicans have charged.

Cites Senator Fess.

Michelson described this as pure fiction, and, anyway, he said, the Democratic attack has been confined to the "President's official sins of omission and commission. There has been no assault on his character."

"Perhaps you have seen doubt expressed as to Mr. Hoover's Americanism," he said.

"The utterance was not that of a Democrat, but of Senator Fess, of Ohio, now the Republican national chairman. You have perhaps noted the statement that Mr. Hoover is the most expensive luxury that was ever fastened upon this country. That was the estimate of Representative Will R. Wood, of Indiana, now chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee. You may have read that Mr. Hoover's indorsement of Woodrow Wilson's plea for the election of a Democratic Congress should be sufficient to condemn him in the minds of all men as being unfit for responsible position of trust. That also came from Representative Wood, and is duly recorded on Page 1354 of Volume 57 of the Congressional Record.

Held Ignorant of Taxpayer.

"You may have noticed some comment on the President's indecision and lack of definite views on great public questions. It was National Chairman Fess who said that the Republican party will demand a leader whose Americanism is not in question and whose political views are not a matter of speculation.

"Senator Borah, of Idaho, told the Senate one day back in 1919 that whatever may be the great ability of Mr. Hoover, there is one individual whom he does not know exists in this country, and that is the taxpayer. On this occasion Senator Borah referred to the scandalous extortions of some of the corporations during the war period under the administration of Mr. Hoover, and added: I do not want any man to operate a trust fund by vote who thinks that those figures represent decency or honesty.

"Of course, these quotations are from 2 to 10 years old. Some of them were made in 1920 when Mr. Hoover was not sure whether he was a Republican or a Democrat, whether he was wet or dry, or whether he was a high tariff or a low tariff man. Some of them represent the views of Republican statesmen who sought to prevent Mr. Hoover's nomination in 1928.

Statement by Goff.

"I recall that at the Kansas City convention, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, now the Republican candidate for senator from Illinois, took charge of a sort of coalition press headquarters, which was devoted to showing the unwisdom of nominating Mr. Hoover. She made public a great many telegrams, among them one from Senator Glenn, of Illinois stating that 'it is felt that it would be suicidal to the party's chances in the coming election to nominate Hoover as the leader.' Another telegram was from Republican State Chairman of Indiana E. O. Rogers, in which he said that his people felt that the nomination of Hoover would lose Indiana to the Republican party. It was at this same period that Senator Goff, of West Virginia, who decided not to be a candidate for reelection this year because Republican prospects in West Virginia are at such a low ebb, announced relative to Mr. Hoover's candidacy that 'No man who lived for 25 years under the union jack can love the Stars and Stripes.' And Senator Watson, the Republican leader in the upper House of Congress, who opened the campaign in his State the other day, was voicing equally unflattering views of the caliber and character of President Hoover. We have never assailed the personal integrity of the President—the only intimation of anything of that sort is to be found in Representative Will Wood's speeches in Congress of a decade ago. Mr. Hoover has many social virtues. I am quite sure that in his individual character he is quite incapable of the shifty obliquities of his political course, but it is with the political phase of his character that we are concerned."

Mr. Michelson said it was his observation that Presidents did not change after assuming office, adding:

"If Herbert Hoover was the kind of man ten years ago described by the words of Senator Fess, Senator Moses, Representative Wood, Senator Watson, Vice President Curtis, and various others high in Republican circles, the chances are he is still that kind of a man.

"If he was not the reprehensible character described by these eminent Republicans then, how much attention should we pay to their testimony of today?"

DEMOCRAT CHIEFS AT CONVENTION

BOTH PARTIES CLASH AS TEXTBOOK RIVALS

SAYS TARIFF CUT PRICES

(Associated Press.)

The political campaign reached the handbook stage yesterday at Washington with both the Republican and Democratic national committees issuing textbooks for 1930.

The Republican national committee published two pamphlets, one by Senator Hebert, of Rhode Island, entitled "Democrats Deliberately Obstruct Relief Plans" and the other by Senator Hatfield, of West Virginia, headed "Prices Decrease Under Republican Tariff."

The Democratic national committee handbook was of 60 pages and was entitled "Democratic Summary of Campaign Issues of 1930." It declared in the opening sentence, "The dominant issue in the congressional campaign of 1930 is the failure of the Republican administration, now well on its second year, to fulfill the promises on which it based its claim for election in 1928."

Lists Five Maneuvers.

Senator Hebert's article charged "the Democratic high command undertook five definite manuevers to keep pessimism alive and prevent full recovery of the Nation before the November elections."

He listed the "maneuvers" as follows:

"1. Delay of the enactment of the tariff.

"2. Systematic propaganda to make it appear that the Government was helpless.

"3. Holding up legislation to assist in relief program.

"4. Instilling fear into the minds of the people as to the unemployment extent, and

"5. Claims that foreign trade would be destroyed and factories closed."

Indiana Democrats Confident.

The Democratic handbook asserted in one of its subtitles that "Democratic Federal Reserve Act Ends Republican Panics," and it added that "prosperity was the watchword of the Republican campaign."

The Republicans offered to give their pamphlets to party workers, but the Democrats impose a charge of 25 cents each for theirs.

The Democratic committee also made public today a statement from R. Earl Peters, chairman of the Democratic State committee of Indiana, expressing the opinion that Indiana would elect this year "a practically solid Democratic congressional delegation."

Rock Shelter Dedicated On Appalachian Trail

A stone shelter on the Appalachian Trail, near Pricelands, Va., presented to the Potomac Appalachian Trail Club of Washington, was dedicated yesterday in the presence of approximately 75 persons who visited the site on foot and horseback.

The building, known as Sexton Shelter, was donated by Dr. and Mrs. Roy Lyman Sexton and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hickman, all of Washington. It will serve as an overnight stopping place for hikers on the scenic trail.

NEW TARIFF BOARD ADOPTS PROCEDURE

Applicants Are Required to Submit Statements on Desired Changes.

(Associated Press.)

Preparing to expediate action on tariff revision application, the new Federal Tariff Commission yesterday adopted rules of procedure requiring applicants to submit statements of information on desired changes before investigations are undertaken.

Chairman Henry P. Fletcher said that the new rules were expected to result in quick action by the commission. Under the procedure the burden of proof of needed revisions is expected to fall on applicants.

Previously the commission investigated revision applications and included its preliminary findings in a statement of information before it undertook further action. The applicants' statements of information, which will include evidence of domestic and foreign costs of materials, production, and transportation and of competition, would give the commission a concrete basis on which to make its investigations.

In addition, the new procedure calls for public notice of all revision applications and dates for hearings, in order to give all proponents and opponents opportunity to present evidence.

The six-member commission was completed yesterday when Lincoln Dixon, an Indiana Democrat, took the oath of office and President Hoover announced the selection of Thomas H. Page, of Virginia, as vice chairman.

Leland Harrison, of New York, who recently resigned as Minister to Uruguay, was appointed chief of the international relations division of the commission, succeeding Benjamin B. Wallace, who resigned in January.

Mr. Harrison has been in the diplomatic service since 1907, serving in nearly all of the important European posts.

STATE DEMOCRATS FAVOR DRY REPEAL

New York Convention Goes on Record to Fight Law as Slate Is Named.

HOOVER RECORD SCORED

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 29 (N.Y.W. N.S.).—The Democratic party in New York tonight declared itself in favor of repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act, without qualification. It brushed aside the substitute amendments to the Federal Constitution advocated by Charles H. Tuttle, Republican candidate for governor and his platform, by Dwight W. Morrow, by Alfred E. Smith in 1928, and by Gov. Roosevelt himself in his expression of his personal views.

It pledged its support in this State to the legislation banishing the saloon and insuring home rule for smaller localities and derided the Republican prohibition plank as a "hypocritical disclaimer" of the party's former principles.

Prohibition and Republican "hard times" were thrust to the front today as the issues of the fall campaign by speeches and a platform, which obviously are directed not only to the national congressional elections this year, but to the presidential election of 1932.

United States Senator Robert F. Wagner, the key noter, and John W. Davis, presidential candidate in 1924, who spoke as permanent chairman tonight, etook proper note of the accomplishments of the Roosevelt administration but shot their heavy stuff at President Hoover.

Tammany Corruption Scored.

Senator Wagner took note of the Tammany corruption issue and aligned himself with Gov. Roosevelt by declaring that the Democratic party is "ruthless in its demands that the courts must be kept pure and undefiled," and that every dishonest office holder and political leader must be driven from public life and the party. He said this over the protests of many of the leaders of Tammany Hall, who insisted that the present scandals in New York City be ignored.

The full ticket, which will be nominated tomorrow, is:

For governor, Franklin D. Roosevelt, of Hyde Park.

For lieutenant governor, Herbert H. Lehman, of New York.

For comptroller, Morris S. Tremaine, of uffalo.

For associate judge, Court of Appeals, Cuthbert W. Pound (Republican), of Lockport.

The relationship between Gov. Roosevelt and Tammany is curiously mixed. Outwardly all is harmonious. Curry has been called into all the important conferences along with the other leaders, but he is not making the decisions. They are being made by Roosevelt. Al Smith is at his right hand, though he, like the others, is not more than an adviser.

Leaders Stew Inwardly.

Beneath the surface the Tammony leaders are stewing with resentment against the governor.

The prohibition plank follows:

"The Democratic party in the State of New York demands the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act.

"We advocate restoration to each Sovereign State of the fundamental right to dttermine for itself whether alcoholic beverages may be manufactured, sold or transported within its borders.

"Following the repeal of the eighteenth amendment the Democratic party of the State of New York pledges the adoption of such regulatory measures by an din our State as will promote temperance, definitely and effectively banish the saloon and recognize the principle of home rule in all localities.

"The Democracy of New York State has consistently opposed national prohibition as un-American, productive of widespread disrespect for law and a prolific source of corruption, hypocracy, crime and disorder. The Republican party, which is responsible for these deplorable conditions, now attempts at this late date to deceive the people by a hypocritical disclaimer of its former principles."

"We dislike honoring these charges by repeating our denials, but Mrs. McCormick has the effrontery to continue to make statements which are not only false in fact but which she herself must know to be false.

"Newspapers which have been induced to print Mrs. McCormick's libels are now expressly notified that any future repetition of them will be regarded as willful and malicious libel for publication of which they have no justification, but must assume individual responsibility, and this notification is given without waiving any right of the committee or any individual member of it or any employe of it to bring action for what has already been said and published of a libelous or slanderous nature."

Chicago, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick tonight offered no comment when told of a statement made in Washington today by the Senate campaign funds committee characterizing as "false and libelous" her charge that telephone wires in her home and office had been tapped and her private correspondence rifled.

Two Held, Beer Seized In North Capitol Raid

Two men were arrested, and a quantity of beer and liquor confiscated, yesterday when Sergt. J. M. Leach's squad raided premises on North Capitol street near Randolph street. The men gave their names as Edward George Williams, of the North Capitol street address, and Willis Abbott, of V street near Third northeast. Both were held at the Second Precinct on charges of possession.

Five hundred and thirty bottles of beer, 9 quarts of whisky, 12 quarts of gin and 60 gallons of mash were reported seized.

Doll House Will be Given Girl Scouts by First Lady

Miniature Building Is Patterned After Home of John Howard Payne; Mrs. Hoover to Attend Convention in Indianapolis.

(Associated Press.)

A unique doll house, the gift of Mrs. Herbert Hoover, will precede the President's wife to Indianapolis last night for the sixteenth annual convention of the National Girl Scouts, which opens here tomorrow.

It is an exact reproduction of the Girl Scouts little house in Washington and will be exhibited throughout the week.

Mrs. Hoover will spend two days at the convention, which lasts until Saturday. She probably will give an informal talk, although she is not on the program. The first lady will wear the cotton stockings, grey green uniform and green felt hat of the Girl Scouts.

It is the first time a President's wife has attended such a meeting. Mrs. Hoover, accompanied by Miss Mildred Hall, one of her secretaries, will travel in a drawing room on a regular train.

The doll house, about 24 inches high, faithfully reproduces the little White House in Washington, even to the paper on the walls. It was made at national Girl Scout headquarters in New York, after a craftsman had visited the little house here. The dolls in it are dressed in scout uniform.

After the Indianapolis convention the house will be sent over the country to various Girl Scout camps.

The little house is patterned after the old home of John Howard Payne, author of "Home, Sweet Home." With its green shutters, white woodwork, shining brass knocker and harmonious furnishings, it has become nationally known.

The President's wife often drops in for a cup of tea in the retsful colonial living room with its outlook on the rock garden which she helped plan.

sideration in attempts to gain possession of valuable oil lands.

Wilbur said no leases for oil shale had been issued under his administration and that the majority of claims on shale land not invalidated by the coming into force of the general leasing act of 1920 were held in the name of "individuals or associations of individuals, made up largely of local people in the immediate vicinity" of the deposits.

"Whether so-called large oil companies purchased these claims after patent is a matter over which the department has no information or control," the Secretary added.

He said further that President Hoover's conservation policy did not extend to claims located under the old mineral leasing act and that this law left intact such claims so long as they were maintained in accordance with that law.

Prior to 1920, he added, several thousands of these claims had been located in Colorado, Utah and Wyoming, covering more than 3,000,000 acres.

The department, under both Secretary Work and himself, he continued, has followed the policy of insisting on performance by claimants of $100 assessment work a year on penalty of defaulting their claim. While the department lost recently in the Supreme Court in a test case, Wilbur said the decision left open the question whether it had the right to forfeit claims if forfeiture were demanded before the locator resumed assessment work.

As a result, action was taken against all claims in default upon which work had not been resumed and 5,700 notices were posted during the past season. These claims are now awaiting adjudication.

In addition, proceedings were directed against 3,081 other oil shale placer locations, Wilbur said, of which 2,078 have been adjudicated as null and void by the department.

Wilbur said claims have been allowed to go to patent only in cases where the Supreme Court decision declared the rights of claimants still in good standing and "then only after careful field examination as to compliance with the law's requirement of $500 worth of development work."

Denver, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Representative William R. Eaton declared today the proffered resignation of Ralph S. Kelley, as chief of the field division of the Federal Land Office in Denver, indicated Kelly's inability to justify rulings he made in Denver on oil shale claims.

"Mr. Kelley's resignation is the logical outcome of the investigations started by the subcommittee of the public lands committee of the House of Representatives into the oil shale situation," said Representative Eaton, who is chairman of the subcommittee.

"Mr. Kelley never asked this subcommittee for a hearing after he made a complaint to the Secretary of the Interior about a report made by the supervisor of the General Land Office upon an investigation of Kelly's office last April. The last meeting of the subcommittee was held June 17. Kelley was recalled to Washington early in July and no doubt was given an opportunity to justify the arbitrary rulings he made in his official position as chief of the field division of the inspection service of the General Land Office at Denver."

Wilbur Called to Show Cause in Permit Denial

Justice Wendall P. Stafford, in District of Columbia Supreme Court, yesterday signed an order requiring Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur to show cause October 20 why he should not be compelled to issue an oil and gas prospecting permit to S. C. Canary, of Tulsa, Okla.

Canary states that under the act of February 25, 1920, he filed his application for a permit to prospect on land in Alfafa County, Okla. The commissioner of the general land office rejected the application on July 10 and shortly afterward Secretary Wilbur sustained the rejection.

Attorneys Manton M. Wyvell and T. S. Plowman, who filed the application for Canary, in a letter accompanying it told the Department of the Interior that they were doing so because the District Supreme Court recently held that the Secretary of the Interior could not refuse to issue prospecting permits despite the Hoover conservation edict. In returning the application the department, according to an attached exhibit, advised the attorneys that the decision was being appealed from and that no permits would be issued until after the appeal had been acted on, and only then if the action of the lower court is reversed.

Ohio Legionaires Plan Unknown Soldier Honor

Accordnig to annual custom, the Ohio Department of the American Legion will pay tribute to the Unknown Soldier today. At 2 o'clock this afternoon, Louis Laeger, Chillicothe, Ohio, vice commander of the Ohio Department of the Lefion, will place a wreath on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington National Cemetery, on behalf of the Buckeye State Legionnaires.

Mr. Laeger will be accompanied to the tomb by a delegation composed of members of the District of Columbia Department of the Legion by Dr. B. C. MacNeil, local department commander.

MORROW TO SPEAK FRANKLY ON LIQUOR

Senatorial Candidate Not Expected to Soft-Pedal on Rum Issue.

LUNCHES WITH HOOVER

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Contrary to reports, Dwight W. Morrow is not going to soft-pedal prohibition in his campaign for the United States Senate in New Jersey. Having taken a bold stand for repeal, he may be expected to discuss prohibition fully and frankly when he goes out on the stump.

This was the impression gained yesterday when Mr. Morrow came here to hand in his resignation as Ambassador to Mexico, preparatory to launching his senatorial campaign in New Jersey. He made it clear that he had authorized no statement to the effect that he would evade the prohibition question, and he left his interviewers to draw their own inference as to what he planned to do.

The inference generally drawn was that Mr. Morrow, having thought prohibition of sufficient importance to devote an entire speech to it in opening his campaign for the Republican nomination last May, is hardly likely to ignore it when he goes into the hustings next month.

Theory of Politicians.

The theory of politicians like Charles H. Tuttle, Republican candidate for Governor of New York, is that, inasmuch as both parties in the State are for repeal, there is no sense in discussing prohibition any further. But this does not satisfy rabid wets. They see in this kind of "strategy" an attempt to work both sides of the street, an attempt to win over the dry voters simply by trying to make them forget the candidate's wetness.

Certainly it would be a disappointment to wets if Mr. Morrow adopted such a course, not only the wets of New Jersey, but those throughout the land.

For by his bold declaration last May, Mr. Morrow attracted national interest to his candidacy.

Lunches With President.

Upon his arrival here yesterday Ambassador Morrow visited the State Department and later had luncheon with President Hoover at the White House. His letter of resignation and the President's letter of acceptance are expected to be made public in a day or so.

In his letter of acceptance President Hoover is expected to pay a glowing tribute to the little banker and diplomat for the fine job he has done at Mexico City.

J. Reuben Clark, of Salt Lake City, was being prominently mentioned last night as a probable successor to Mr. Morrow as Ambassador to Mexico. Clark was at one time Undersecretary of State. More recently he has been assigned to do special work for Ambassador Morrow in Mexico City.

Yesterday Ambassador Morrow talked for two hours with Secretary of State Stimson and Undersecretary Cotton. He is expected to renew his conference with them today.

Complaints Bring Quiz Into Schall Campaign

(Associated Press.)

The Senate campaign funds committee intends to investigate the many complaints which have been made against the conduct of Senator Schall's campaign in Minnesota. Senator Schall is the Republican nominee in Minnesota. Senator Nye said he did not know when the committee would have an opportunity to make the Minnesota investigation. "So many complaints have been made against the conduct of Senator Schall's campaign," said Mr. Nye, "that we must investigate it."

Officials in Dry Bureau Must Buy Own Papers

If officials of the recently reorganized Prohibition Bureau want newspapers they must buy them out of their own pockets, according to a ruling yesterday by Comptroller General Charles McCarl.

Attorney General Mitchell recently asked if Government money could be used to subscribe to some fifteen daily papers for the research and education division of the bureau. Mr. McCarl, however, decided that the law did not permit such expenditures.

Wood Claims Money Given G. O. P. Contributors Was Honest Accounting.

DEALS ARE HELD LEGAL

(Associated Press.)

Representative Wood, of Indiana, chairman of the Republican congressional committee, said last night he was not surprised at the statement Sunday night by Representative Garner, of Texas, the Democratic leader, that a number of contributors to the 1930 Republican campaign fund had received tax refunds from the Government.

"Naturally," Mr. Wood said in a statement, "it would seem incredible to a Tammanyized Democrat that a department of the Government should give a taxpayer an honest accounting without somebody getting 'a hand-out.'"

The statement added:

"Mr. Garner failed to state the refunds referred to were made according to law and under court decisions. He failed to give the names of hundreds of Democrats who have been granted refunds. He failed to state that all such refunds were considered, allowed and approved by Democratic lawyers and officials in the Internal Revenue Bureau as well as by Republicans.

"Above all, he failed to state that he is a member of the joint congressional committee, established largely as a result of his own agitation, which passes upon all of these large tax refunds before they are paid by the Treasury. He failed to state that three other Democrats, Senators Simmons, of North Carolina, and Harrison, of Mississippi, and Congressman Collier, of Mississippi, also are members of this special committee.

"I fear that Brother Garner is being rapidly Tammanyized and may be induce dto say anything calculated to help Mr. Raskob in his scheme to capture control of the next Congress.

"And that reminds me that Mr. Garner could have just as well included John J. Raskob, the chief underwriter of the antional Democratic party, in his list of those receiving large tax refunds."

Scout Leaders Hear Educational Director

An address by Walter MacPeek, educational director of the local Boy Scout Council, featured the monthly Scout leaders' meeting last night in the Burlington Hotel. Approximately leaders of District units were present.

"Scouting is not merely a membership, not merely a series of influences," Mr. MacPeek declared. "Youth of America is on a quest, searching for adventure, new knowledge, new skills and new friendships." Dr. Paul H. Furfey spoke on the "Nature and Needs of Boys."

Cooper Describes Passion Play.

William Knowles Cooper, who recently returned with his family from a tour of Europe, last night described in detail a presentation of the Passion Play that he witnessed at Oberammergau before an audience at the Y. M. C. A.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

ASSUMING for the time being that the Republicans are in for a severe licking this fall because the people are depressed and in a mean mood and that when they are in this mood their tendency is to kick out the established order, why isn't it logical that the reverse of the situation will work out in New York resulting in the Democrats getting the licking?

The Democrats are the established order there. That state is a Democratic oasis in the vast Republican desert. They have the State government.

It is probably not wrong to say that among those vast numbers of foreign-born in New York City there are thousands who have never heard of Washington and Mr. Hoover. The government they know is at Albany, or closer yet, down at Mayor Jimmy Walker's City Hall.

* * * *

THE whole theory underlying the predictions of Democratic success is without regard to the merits of charges that the Republicans are responsible for the depression. It is that regardless of who or what is responsible people are inclined to blame the party in power.

Now, if elsewhere over the country the Republicans are the ones to be blamed and the ones to be punished for present conditions, it would seem to follow that the natural development in New York would be to blame the Democrats and elect the Republicans.

If one accepts this possible working of the mass mind then add the scandals in New York City to the Republican assets that have been revealed and it is easily seen that the well laid plans of some Democratic men may very well go awry.

* * * *

THE failure of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt to be reelected would be politically something. Down would go the man whom it is quite apparent the New York wing of the Democratic party intends to run for the Presidency in 1932.

This wing seems quite determined to control the nomination, and with Roosevelt, the best bet, eliminated, some one else would have to be developed and advanced quickly to the front. Longing eyes might possibly return to former Gov. Smith.

This is all quite fanciful, of course, and yet not so far-fetched at that.

* * * *

THE very friendly New York World opines that Gov. Roosevelt has one very difficult path ahead. The New York City scandals have reverberated throughout the country. The Republicans are making a national issue out of them.

One will be able to tell more about just how effective the Republican opposition will be when the independent prohibition movement shapes up.

This movement was sufficient in 1926 to defeat the very capable Senator Wadsworth. It may be the thing this year that will save Gov. Roosevelt and his Democrats.

SMITH CO. JANITOR SOUGHT ON WARRANT

Government Holds He Knows of Destruction of Some of Firm's Papers.

HIDDEN, NOW IS CLAIM

Government efforts to round up all witnesses wanted for the trial of conspiracy charges against four F. H. Smith Co. officials were forwarded yesterday when Department of Justice agents and United States Attorney Leo A. Rover obtained from Justice Joseph W. Cox a bench warrant for the arrest of Joseph Howard, Negro janitor of the Smith Co. building on Fifteenth street northwest between H and G streets.

In petitioning the court for the bench warrant, Mr. Rover and Assistant United States Attorney Neil Burkinshaw declared that Howard "is a most material Government witness in the prosecution of the indictment." The indictment names G. Bryan Pitts, former chairman of the board of the Smith Co.; Samuel J. Henry, former president, and C. Elbert Anadale and John H. Edwards, jr., former vice presidents, as defendants.

Howard is alleged in the Government's petition to have "detailed knowledge concerning the burning of certain records." These records, the Government contends, would have revealed the alleged acts of embezzlement which are charged in the indictment naming the four former officials.

Mr. Burkinshaw led the way for the Government's application last week when he declared that the defense in the case had hidden out at least two important witnesses. At that time Burkinshaw declared that the two witnesses were being hidden in Florida. Neither of these were supposed to be Howard.

Yesterday Mr. Burkinshaw, as representative of Mr. Rover and the Department of Justice, revealed that the Government is seeking Howard.

Howard, the Government contends in its petition, is now the personal servant of Mr. Pitts. Efforts, it is alleged, have been made to serve him with a subpena but to no avail. Even now, it is charged, he is in Florida with Mr. Pitts.

In addition, the Government charges that Howard is being maintained in various unknown residences in order that he may escape Federal subpena and it is alleged that he is being maintained by funds provided "for the express purpose of avoiding subpena."

Mr. Burkinshaw at the time the bench warrant was issued stated that if Howard is apprehended he will be held under $15,000 bond for appearance at the trial which is scheduled for October 8. If he fails to make bond he will be jailed until that date, it was stated.

Supreme Court's Members Return

Chief Justice and Others Have Been Working in Recess on 350 Cases.

(Associated Press.)

With vacations behind them, the members of the United States Supreme Court are gathering in Washington this week to be in attendance October 6 for the opening of the court's new term.

All have been working during the recess on approximately 350 cases. The court soon after it reassembles must decide whether the controversies involved in these are within its jurisdiction and they present questions which must be reviewed.

Chief Justice Hughes has called a conference of Federal circuit judges to meet here tomorrow to investigate the condition of business in the Federal courts with the object of removing any congestion. This conference will be concluded, however, before the Supreme Court begins its new session next Monday.

Missing Children Wire for Money

Son and Daughter of Takoma Professors Now Sought in Cumberland.

Police of Cumberland and Hagerstown, Md., have been asked to look for two children who disappeared from their homes in Takoma Park, Md., Saturday evening. The children were last heard from yesterday morning when they wired the Takoma Park Bank for money.

Vivian Fishel, 16, and Aleta Blue, 15, son and daughter of professors at the Washington Missionary College at Takoma Park, the two children, left home Saturday evening, it is believed, on a trip to Ohio. The first word heard from them was yesterday when the bank received a telegram from the Fishel boy asking that money be sent him at Hagerstown.

The bank notified the parents and they in turn called in Sergt. Earl Burdine, of the Takoma Park Substation, Montgomery County police, who sent out a lookout. The children had not been located last night.

THOM LOSES $5,000 IN STREET ROBBERY

Railway Executives' Counsel Discovers Theft After Walking to Bank.

SUSPECT TRIO HUNTED

While walking around the corner from the Riggs National Bank to the American Security & Trust Co., at Fifteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue yesterday afternoon, Alfred P. Thom, general counsel of the Association of Railway Executives, either lost or was robbed of personal bonds and stock valued at approximately $5,000.

Mr. Thom had taken the bonds from the Riggs Bank to place them in his safety deposit box at the American Security & Trust Co., he told police. When he reached the latter bank he was compelled to push through a group of men standing at the entrance, he said.

Upon reaching his deposit box the envelope containing the bonds, which he had carried in his inside coat pocket, was missing.

Some of the bonds are negotiable, Mr. Thom told police. He listed them as 100 shares of Continental Can, registered but not indorsed; one New York Central bond valued at $1,000; six Fourth Liberty Loan bonds valued at $50 each and other bonds valued at $2,600.

Mr. Thom said that he suspected three men, about 30 years old and dressed in gray suits, who were leaving the American Security Bank as he entered. A reward of $500 was offered for recovery of the property.

Will Provides $50,000 For Training Priests

Fifty thousand dollars will be received by the Dominican House of Studies here upon the death of Dr. James J. McDevitt, of Worcester, Mass., according to the will of the late Mary E. Taylor, filed for probate yesterday in Boston. Mr. Taylor was the widow of Senator William Taylor, for many years identified with the Boston Post.

Dr. McDevitt, the testatrix's brother, will have the income from the $50,000 during his lifetime, but upon his death the sum will be used for educating young men for the priesthood at the Dominican House in Brookland. Mrs. Taylor bequeathed several thousands of dollars to charitable institutions.

$80 Robbery Reported In Northwest Residence

Mrs. Mary Meares, 1617 Nineteenth street northwest, last night told police of the Third Precinct that jewelry and personal effects valued at $80 had been stolen from her home during the afternoon.

The thief entered, she said, through a back door that had been left unlocked. Among articles reported stolen were three broaches, a number of old coins and an antique hour glass.

TWO MONTGOMERY FIRMS ARE ROBBED

PRIMARY REPORTS MADE

Two safe robberies were reported to Montgomery County police yesterday, with the total loot said to be about $404.

Four hundred dollars were taken from the strong box of the Standard Oil filling station at Kensington, Md., according to Samuel Nowlan, manager. Entrance was gained by opening a window in the rear of the building, and the safe apparently had been opened by use of the combination.

County Policeman E. R. Jones, who investigated the crime, said that the window showed no marks of being jimmied and that there were no signs that force had been used on the safe. The robber entered between midnight Sunday night and 6 o'clock Monday morning, when the robbery was discovered. The money taken was the week-end receipts of the station.

The other theft occurred at the Potter Radio Co., in Silver Spring, Md., where $3.98 was taken and the safe relocked. This strong box, also, showed signs of having been opened by the combination.

Reports on receipts and expenditures of the two Democratic factions in the recent Montgomery County primary were filed yesterday with the clerk of the circuit court at Rockville in accordance with the election laws.

The reports show that the organization Democrats, in their organization known as the Montgomery Government Club, collected a total of $7,890 and disbursed $8,085.50, leaving a deficit of $195, and that the Progressive Democratic party collected a total of $2,904.82 and still owe liabilities of $381.

The Montgomery Government report, filed by Alton C. Beall, treasurer, shows that $6,987.50 was spent for transportation of voters to the 41 polling places and $1,098 for watchers, challengers and checkers of voters lists at the polling places. The largest contributors to the party war chest were Maj. E. Brooke Lee and Parsons Newman, each of whom contributed $1,500.

The Progressives' report shows that E. H. McLachlen, of Chevy Chase, was the largest contributor, with $163, with Dr. Eugene Jones second with a contribution of $130. The Progressives' report was filed by Robert L. Tolson, treasurer.

Plans for the coming campaign were discussed at a meeting of the Democratic Women's Club of Montgomery County, held yesterday at the county building in Bethesda. It was decided to hold a mass meeting in October, the date to be announced later, each of the twelve constituent branches to hold smaller meetings in its own territory.

A dance for the younger people also was planned for the latter part of October at Kensington. Mrs. Charles Roach, the president, presided at the meeting, which was held in executive session.

Montgomery County police have inaugurated a drive against dumping trash along the public highways. Complaints have been received for some time that parts of old automobiles and other junk was being strewn along the main boulevards of the county.

William McPherson, colored, of Washington, driver of a truck belonging to Roy D. Schlegel, Connecticut avenue near G stsreet northwest, was arrested yesterday by County Policeman Joseph Nolte, of the Silver Spring substation, on the complaint of Samuel McCeney, State roads commission inspector. McPherson is alleged to have dumped a load of old auto parts on the side of Sixteenth street extension just beyond the District line.

He was charged with violation of Section 475-A of the Code of Maryland which prohibits the dumping of trash on the public highways and was released on collateral of $750. The fine in such violations is from $5 to $50.

Racing trucks in Bethesda on the Wisconsin avenue stretch have brought forth so many complaints that county police of the Bethesda substation are making a special drive on trucks which violate the speed regulations. Many of the 5-ton trucks are said to be engaged in hauling gravel for the new courthouse at Rockville.

Carl Edgar Bean, of Washington, was arrested yesterday by County Policeman Oscar Gaither on a charge of exceeding a speed of 25 miles an hour. The truck was proceeding at the rate of 50 miles an hour, police say.

A cow belonging to William Sullivan, of River road, Bethesda, was returned to him yesterday by Montgomery County Policeman James Shoemaker, of the Bethesda substation. The cow had been stolen and carried to a farm near Baltimore, where it was sold.

The policeman traced the cow by locating the trucker who hauled her to the farm.

Danville's Tobacco Market Opens Today

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Sept. 29.—The first outward evidence of the approach of the opening of the Danville tobacco market was on Saturday, when the first load of tobacco arrived in the city—more than two days in advance of the opening. The load of 2,500 pounds was brought here by J. N. Crabtree, of Cedar Grove, N. C.

The stage has been set for the opening on Tuesday morning. Two sets of buyers instead of the customary four will be in evidence, the two additional sets to be added within two weeks after the opening. The curtailment was decided on in view of the lateness of the crop caused by the drought. A Federal and State grading service will be provided growers this season.

Danville Girl Is Bethrothed.

Danville, Va., Sept. 29 (Special).—Announcement was made Saturday by John Roswell Bowles, sr., of the engagement and approaching marriage of his daughter, Ella Mae Bowles, to Warde W. Moseley, of Lynchburg. The wedding will take place in November.

Gas Station Manager Hurt by Hurled Rock

Struck by a large rock thrown by one of two colored men in a fight near Four Corners, Md., John Faircloth, of 18 K street northeast, last night was taken to Walter Reed Hospital, where it was feared that he had a fracture of the hip.

The fight occured at a gas station in the Maryland town. Faircloth's assailants fled, but a warrant has been sworn out, for them, and their capture is expected at any time. Faircloth had told the men to leave the premises and turned to go into the gas station when he was showered with stones. Several of them struck him, but only one seriously hurt him.

FLAT RATE TAXICAB METERING DELAYED

District Chiefs Decline to Amend Police Rulings for P. U. C.

LAW MAY BE CHANGED

The District Commissioners yesterday refused to pull the public utilities commission's chestnuts out of the fire and in consequence flat rate zone taxicabs may continue to operate indefinitely.

The District Commissioners formally advised the utilities commission that they would not amend police regulations to require all taxicabs to install meters.

Adoption of such a regulation was requested by the utilities commisison and considered by the District commissioners last week and again yesterday. William W. Bride, corporation counsel, told the District Commissioners that in his opinion such a regulation would be beyond their province inasmuch as it dealt primarily with rates of a public utility rather than having to do with the health, safety and convenience for which the Commisisoners are empowered to enact police regulations.

The utilities commission indicated yesterday that it intended to let the meter question rest for the time being, inasmuch as one of its regulations dealing with its requirement of compulsory insurance for taxicabs now is under challenge in the courts. New legislation is to be asked of Congress to provide the Commission with more power. Under the present law the only punishment for violating a utilities commission order is a fine of $200 for each day of violation, but this fine must be collected through civil suit in the courts, a tedious and unsatisfactory process of doubtful success.

took off at 7:10 a. m. today from Newark Metropolitan Airport in an attempt to break the junior transcontinental speed record.

Unfavorable weather conditions forced Buck to postpone his take-off five times today. He was promised advantageous winds after he left Columbus, Ohio. He planned to stop also at St. Louis, Wichita and Albuquerque, flying from there to Los Angeles.

Elizabeth, N. J., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Robert Nietzel Buck, who took off today from Newark to try for junior transcontinental records, is believed to be the youngest licensed pilot in the country.

He started his flying career last January 29 on his sixteenth birthday, when he obtained a student pilot's license. Three months later he won a private pilot's license.

The youngster's flying course was paid for by his father, Dr. A. O. Buck, of Hillside, N. J., as a Christmas present after the boy had shown interest in aviation and had helped build a glider at the Westfield Airport. He attended the Westfield High School and the Pingry School at Elizabeth.

Swanson, anounced that the move to call a special grand jury to investigate racketeering had been "deferred for several days." Reports were current in the Criminal Court building that insufficient evidence has been gathered so far.

John H. Alcock, acting police commissioner said that he had not yet completed his investigation of charges that certain detective bureau men were serving as spies for Capone interests. The inquiry was started when a secret detective bureau order, listing 41 hoodlums for arrest, was found in possession of Tony Tagenti, Capone bondsman.

Man Pays Fine of $15 For 16-Year-Old Permit

William Miller, Negro, whose driver's permit expired more than three years ago, made an impassioned plea yesterday when arraigned in Police Court on a charge of driving without a permit.

Miller pleaded that the permit he obtained in 1914 still was readable and that it was not creased or otherwise defaced. "It's a good permit," he told Judge Isaac R. Hitt.

Judge Hitt differed and after telling the man that he should have known that a permit expired after three years, said: "No sign of even new age nor anything else makes a permit good after expiration. Yours expired more than three years ago. So I'll fine you $15 and advise you to obtain a permit immediately before again attempting to drive a motor car."

WARRANT IS SOUGHT FOR JILTER OF GIRL

Bride Left Waiting at Altar Has Disappeared Also, Her Father Says.

WIFE ALREADY, CHARGE

George Economon, father of Catherine Economon, 18 years old, Sixth street northwest near F street, who was left waiting at the church several days ago when Charles Hondras, the groom, failed to show up for the marriage ceremony, yesterday sought a warrant from the United States attorney's office, explaining that his daughter also had disappeared.

The father of the girl told the assistant United States attorneys in Police Court that since the groom had disappeared he had learned that the man had a wife and several children living at Portsmouth, Va.

Still later in the day the father visited the District Supreme Court and after looking over the marriage license records declared he would obtain a warrant charging perjury. Then the man went back to Police Court and after revealing his further information was told that the question would be considered further.

Records in the office of the District Supreme Court clerk show that the license was issued September 21. Economon declared that there had been a celebration for 40 days before the ceremony was to be performed but that when the hour rolled around the bridegroom failed to respond.

He wrote a book, "The Log of the Columbia," and also books on euchre and bridge.

ECUADOR PRESIDENT TO RESIGN SHORTLY

His regime has been marked by efforts to arbitrate boundary disputes with both Peru and Colombia. With the latter Ecuador broke off relations in 1925.

Through the advice of Prof. E. W. Kemmerer, of Princeton University, and a commission of experts, Dr. Ayora has attempted to put Ecuador on a sound financial basis. His direction of the country's affairs before he was elected president was marked by great unrest. In 1927 he was held prisoner during an insurrection that was suppressed finally by loyal troops.

In 1928 he was host to President Hoover during the latter's South American tour.

Budgetary difficulties have been on the increase since 1929 in Ecuador. Dr. Ayora has attempted to curtail expenses, but his recent efforts to reduce the army budget met with much disfavor in the cabinet and roused discontent in the army.

As a result budgets of other ministries, such as public instruction, have suffered from a shortage of funds.

Economic depression has hit Ecuador, a chiefly agricultural country, harder than most other South American nations. The government, unable to get foreign aid, has been faced with increasing expenditures and reduced revenues.

Most of the American advisers who attempted to carry out the recommendations of Prof. Kemmerer's commission have either resigned or been dismissed.

Chapels' Corner Stone Shattered by Thieves

Special to The Washington Post

Marlinton, W. Va., Sept. 28.—The ultimate in thievery is reported from the Beard community, whose residents have posted a $50 reward for apprehension of the thieves, who were also vandals.

So hard pressed were these robbers for loot that they resorted to the expedient of cracking the corner stone of the Beard Chapel in order to get about $15 in coins placed in the stone with articles of historic value when it was laid.

The stone was an expensive piece of marble and it was shattered with blows from heavy hammers.

New York Woman Held On Bogus Check Charge

Katherine Elizabeth Morgan, 27 years old, giving her address as New York City, yesterday was arrested by Headquarters Detective B. W. Thompson following complaints of passing bad checks in Washington and also evading a hotel bill.

She was arrested in another hotel and is said to have admitted the charges. She was sent to the House of Detention and bond, which she was unable to procure, was set at $3,000.

Canada Farmers Marketing Grain

Lake Elevators Bulging, but Not One Bushel Moves by Boat.

Winnipeg, Manitoba, Sept. 29 (Canadian Press).—Not a bushel of grain budged out of the lake-head ports today by boat as wheat prices shrivelled to unheardof levels on the Winnipeg market. Farmers continued to draw their grain to market in large quantities and grain trains rumbled toward the widespread lake-head yards as terminal storage increased and prices fought to climb from rock bottom.

More than 2,300,000 bushels of grain were marketed on the prairies yesterday and more than 1,500 cars were loaded with grain for movement eastward, but no grain moved out of the lake-head harbors, where elevators now hold 72,804,000 bushels.

Awaiting unloading at the lake-head are 6,500 cars, and more than 9,000 cars are on the way East.

Lamont Predicts New Construction

Estimates $50,000,000,00 Will Be Spent in Home Building in 20 Years.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Lamont estimated yesterday at least $50,000,000,000 will be spent on new residential construction in the United States during the next 20 years and in addition about $500,000,000 a year during the same period on maintenance and repairs of houses. He was discussing plans for a national conference on home building and home ownership which President Hoover has called.

"With recent drops in prices of building material, an ample number of highly skilled building workers available, contractors anxious to obtain work and mortgage money available at reasonable terms," the Commerce Secretary continued, "conditions are now favorable for home builders who have the resources and intend to build to go ahead. In general, conditions are also good for going ahead with repairs, alterations and improvements."

A special study made last week by the committee planning for the conference, of which he is chairman, the Secretary added, had given him the views expressed.

Army Officers Given Dismissal

Capt. Johnson and Brady Violated Articles of War.

Two United States Army officers recently convicted of violating articles of war have been dismissed from the service by order of President Hoover, it was announced yesterday. They are Capt. Joseph S. Johnson, jr., First Tennessee Infantry, recently stationed at Fort D. A. Russell, Wyo., and Capt. William H. Brady, Fourteenth Field Artillery, stationed at Honolulu, Hawaii.

Capt. Johnson was convicted of driving while drunk in December, 1929, "and as a consequence thereof did cause the death of one Louise H. Early."

Capt. Brady was convicted of cashing worthless checks in Honolulu. Both officers served with distinction during the World War.

TEXAS SETS TOADS UPON MOLE CRICKET

Prevention Sought Against Destruction of Harvests by Insects.

APPETITE IS INSATIABLE

Austin, Tex., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—No more sleeping in corner stones for toads in Texas.

They're now expected to work toward prevention of millions of dollars in insect crop damage.

Giant Surinam toads are being brought into the State from Porto Rico to rid the lower costal regions of the mole cricket, one of the most destructive insects of the region.

The cricket does most of its damage underground in the daytime, but comes to the surface at night. The Surinam toads, which sleep little, are expected to catch the pests when they come out of their holes.

But crickets are not the only insects that Porto Rican toads thrive on. The imported pest-catcher is expected to aid materially in extermination of May beetles, boll weevils, white grubs, cockroaches, fleas, melon beetles, leaf hoppers, millipedes, house fly pupae, centipedes, land snails and catespillars.

The toad's appetite seems insatiable. Tests show it is fond of 83 different kinds of insects, most of them detrimental to crops. One toad has caught 128 flies in less than a half hour.

Experiments with the Surinam toads are being watched closely by the Texas State department of agriculture, and it is probable that a campaign will be started to introduce the toad into all parts of the State. Experiments so far have been confined to Jefferson County near Beaumont. J. F. Combs, agricultural extension agent, is in charge of the work.

First tests with the toads were made in 1929 to determine their adaptability to American soils and climate. A dozen were kept under observation during the winter and they suffered little although slightly protected from the cold.

Recently a shipment of 89 was received, and this number is expected to care for the needs of Jefferson County, so fast do the toads multiply. The production from the spawn of one female is estimated at between 1,000 to 2,000 a year. Combs asserts that a single toad will be worth $19.80 a year because of the cutworms it will kill.

The toads are about twice the size of the native American toad.

Finds Traffic Demands Cut Too Many Trees

New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The automobile is causing cutting of more city trees than it ought to, says Robert D. Kohn, president of the American Institute of Architects.

"Major street plans," he says, "are everywhere causing the cutting down of great avenues of trees for street widenings and extensions. In many cases these tree cuttings are needless and avoidable."

PIANO TONE COLOR DUE TO PRESSURE

Degree Depends Upon How Hard Artists Will Hit the Keys.

SOCIETY MAKES REPORT

Chicago, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The tone "color" which the touch of a Paderewski imparts to piano music is wholly a matter of simple loudness.

That is, the difference between a mediocre piano player and an artist, or the difference between great artists, al depends on how hard they hit the keys.

This discovery of a single source for tone color is reported to the Acoustical Society of America by Dr. William Braid White of the acoustic laboratory of the American Steel & Wire Co., a subsidiary of United States Steel.

It was made with an osiso, an instrument which turns sounds into pictures of wavy lines.

These pictures add to, rather than detract from, the marvels of a fine musical "touch." For they show that the whole color difference comes from the skill to impart an unbelievably small difference in pressure at the finger tips.

The touches of John Powell, Rudolph Ganz and numerous other artists were analyzed by the pictures. Ganz obtained from one key of a piano 18 differences of loudness, each with its own "color."

"These investigations," Dr. White says, "are throwing valuable light upon the art of piano playing.

"It is perfectly correct to say that what the pianist may describe as a wrist movement, as opposed to an arm or finger movement directed at the key, may have virtues of its own as a producer of tone from a piano—but it is necessary to remember that this is simply another way of saying that he has learned to impart various velocities to the hammers of the piano.

"He may find it hard to believe that all these reduce themselves to so many devices for controlling hammer velocity, that is to say, loudness of sound.

"Yet it should be a sufficient consolation to him to be able to say, as he may, that each difference of loudness involves a difference, however slight yet distinct, of tone color.

"This does not in any way detract from the beauty of the art, since it shows what extreme delicacy of control is called for, and to what an extent a great artist is able to bring command over his mental and physical powers."

price rather than at a limit. It would have gone to a smaller market, where that big transaction would have had more effect. Furthermore, Russia at the same time it was short futures here, was a liberal seller of actual cash wheat in European markets."

Lewis Denounces Reds.

The committee deviated from the path in and out of the wheat pits long enough to hear John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, tell of Communist activities among coal miners and to hear M. S. Winder, executive secretary and treasurer of the American Farm Bureau Federation, describe the work of Soviet agents among American farmers.

Lewis said Communist agents had tried for some time to disrupt his organization and to gain control. He said they were particularly active in regions where there was unrest due to strikes, layoffs and walkouts.

The mine union chief denounced the Communists' efforts to spread their doctrine to this country and he also flayed American organizations, including the Chicago Board of Trade, which dealth with Russia.

West Coast Hearings.

Lewis said he was not in favor of a secret Federal police to combat communism, because of the "maladministration which would be possible." He suggested stricter enforcement of existing passport and immigration laws.

Winder testified that his organization had been informed three months ago that Communist propaganda was being spread among farmers in North Dakota, South Dakota and Iowa.

Reports of investigators were being awaited, Winder said, but he was confident communism would never make serious inroads in farm circles.

Representative Fish said his committee would hold hearings in the near future in Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Phoenix, Ariz. The Seattle hearing would probably open October 3, the chairman said.

Soviet Wheat Dumping Is Deplored by Legge

(Associated Press.)

Chairman Legge of the Farm Board said yesterday Russian dumping of wheat at European ports can not continue for a great while longer if it is kept up at the present rate.

He described the hurried marketing of the Russian crop as the most disturbing factor on the grain exchanges today and blamed it for the recent downward movement.

The latter was caused by tremendous Russian shipments and the Soviet's plans for the immediate future, he said, as revealed in its chartering of ships for the movement of its grain.

He said he could not understand Russia's reasons for dumping its wheat at once and added that if it had been marketed a little at a time, in an orderly manner, the Soviet's financial return would have been greater.

Asked his opinion of the British Conservative party's plan for wheat purchases on a quota basis of 25 per cent home grown, 66 per cent imported from the Dominion and 9 per cent from all other countries, Legge said it was a logical proposal.

The scheme seeks to accomplish, he said, what other European nations are doing through their tariff barriers. Whatever the British do, he added, he sees no hope for an improvement in American wheat exports to Great Britain.

HUGE SCENIC CAVE NEAR DEATH VALLEY

Four Men at Great Peril Descend Into Mammoth Depths of Rocks.

HEAT AT 130 DEGREES

Tonopah, Nev., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—A new mammoth cave has been found by four men who dared stifling heat and humid, stale air to descend into hitherto unpenetrated depths of a cleft of rocks on the fringe of Death Valley.

Letson Balliet, consulting engineer of Tonopah, and his associates climbed down several hundred feet with the aid of a 500-foot rope.

Balliet's study of the formations convinced him that the cave extends to water level of Death Valley, which would make the place about a mile deep, since it begins at the end of an abandoned mining tunnel 4,200 feet above sea level.

The explorers found heat of 120 to 130 degrees at the point where their descent began. They said the heat increased until it become difficult to breathe.

Rare beauties in stalactites were found. Masses of them were covered with needle-like crystals, almost like hugely exaggerated frost patterns. Balliet said he believed they were formed under water.

Balliet thinks the upper part of the cave once was the floor of a sea. He said indications that the earth had lifted were shown by limestone strata, 8 to 20 feet thick, piled like timbers, but standing at angles, due presumably to earth upthrust.

One area resembled a subterranean forest covered with white, frost-like needles. Here also were bulb stalactites which form in hollow gourd and other rounded shapes.

American Autos Score.

Lome, Togo Mandated Territory, Africa, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—American automobiles have been found best adapted to local needs and most of the 35 machines imported in the first half of 1930 were from the United States. Only 23 French cars were sold.

Former Teller's Wife Charged With Forgery

Charged with forgery, Mrs. Blanche H. Kinloch, wife of Roy H. Kinloch, former teller of a bank at Albany, N. Y., was arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage and was ordered held for grand jury action under bond of $500.

The warrant on which the woman was arraigned and testimony was to the effect that under the name of Virginia Hamilton she is alleged to have forged the name of Virginia Hamilton to a check for $780. Detective Sergeants Keck and Thompson effected the woman's arrest.

Capital Realty Broker Files for Bankruptcy

E. Roy Lewis, a real estate broker with offices at 1627 Connecticut avenue northwest, yesterday petitioned the District Supreme Court to adjudge him a bankrupt.

Through Attorneys R. B. Dickey, Lewis lists assets of $5 and liabilities of $58,846.21. He explains that he was the organizer and operator of the Maryland Golf and Country Club and that the venture was a financial failure. He also explains that the majority of his debts were accrued as a result of that venture.

Two Men Arrested In Police Liquor Raid

Two colored men were arrested yesterday by the police vice and liquor squad following a raid on a house in Twenty-sixth near R street northwest.

The men, who said they lived at the Twenty-sixth street address, were Albert P. Overton, 21 years old, and Theo Ainsworth, 24 years old, who were both charged with illegal possession of what police allege was 16 gallons of liquor. Both were held at the Eighth Precinct.

Man, 68, Is Recovering From Effects of Gas

Charles G. Eluto, 68 years old, of 4723 Eighth street northwest, was found in an unconscious condition early yesterday by his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Eluto, lying on the kitchen floor of their home with an open gas jet on the stove going full blast.

An Emergency Hospital ambulance took Eluto to the hospital, where he later regained consciousness, although he was admitted to the hospital for treatment. It developed, police later said, that the man had attempted to turn the gas stove on without knowing that a pilot light on the range was not working. Hospital attaches say he will recover.

GASOLINE TAX SHOULD NOT BE INCREASED.

Increase of the gasoline tax to supplement the inadequate revenues of the District would not be advisable. This tax has become an important source of revenue for the highway department, and will continue to be so. There is no justification for increasing it because revenue from other sources is not sufficient to meet the expenses of the District government.

The gasoline tax was originally adopted to supplement funds available for highway construction. As such it became very popular, furnishing funds for road improvements that otherwise would have been impossible. Every State now levies a tax on gasoline for the benefit of its highway department. A considerable share of the cost involved in building and maintaining highways is thereby charged directly against those who use the roads. This is equitable and fair.

But the gasoline tax is so easily collected and it has proved to be such an excellent source of revenue that public officials are constantly tempted to increase the tax and divert the funds to purposes other than highway construction. This amounts to exploitation of motorists for the benefit of the State. At present prices the tax in some States amounts to more than one-third as much as the cost of gasoline. Should the District double its present tax of 2 cents, motorists would be forced to pay a 29 per cent tax. No one can deny that this would be excessive.

During the fiscal year 1930 the gasoline tax yielded $1,400,000, which is almost enough to pay the entire cost of highway grading and paving in the District. Should the tax be doubled it would also pay the entire cost of street repairing and maintenance. Even the States with the most exorbitant rates do not finance their highway programs solely from gasoline taxes. Last year only about 30 per cent of the money spent by the highway departments of the 48 States came from the gasoline tax. Motorists of the District are already paying through gasoline taxes for a far larger share of the expense of highway construction and maintenance than are motorists of the average State.

In addition to the gasoline tax motorists must buy automobile tags and drivers' permits. Should these fees also be increased, as some officials are advocating, the direct tax on motorists would no doubt exceed the total budget of the highway department.

It is clear that the deficiency in revenue which the District Commissioners are attempting to forestall is not the result of any excessive drain of funds from property tax receipts into the highway department. There ought to be no increase in the gasoline tax merely to make up for the deficiency of the Federal contribution to the District budget.

INCREASE OF CRIME.

Despite the widely advertised war on crime, which supposedly is being waged with especial vehemence by the police departments of all American cities, the volume of crime of all classifications continues to mount. This much is proved by the first bulletin of a crime survey embracing "all offenses known to police" covering 772 cities in 44 States, recently published by the Department of Justice. The period embraces January to August of this year, and the increase is shown despite the fact that New York rendered only a partial report and Chicago made no returns for August. The study reveals that petty larceny accounted for 43.6 per cent of all crime; automobile theft, 25 per cent; burglary, 19.9 per cent; larceny of sums over $50, 9 per cent; robbery, 5.3 per cent; aggravated assault, 4.6 per cent; murder and nonnegligent manslaughter, 0.6 per cent, with other minor classifications completing the total. The increase of criminal activity in August was listed as "slightly less than 10 per cent" over the figures for July as tabulated by the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

Eliminating New York and Chicago, the report lists Detroit as leading in crime, with 2,280 reported offenses in August. Los Angeles came next with 2,183 offenses; Cleveland third with 1,645, following which were listed San Francisco, with 1,503; St. Louis, with 1,323; Philadelphia, with 1,243, and Newark, with 1,117. The partial figures for Chicago showed that with 39 murders in August the Windy City had a three to one lead over all other large cities in this respect. Thirteen murders were reported in Philadelphia; 11 each in Detroit and Cincinnati; 10 in Cleveland; 9 in Jacksonville and New Orleans; 8 in Chattanooga and San Antonio, and 7 in Baltimore.

On a population basis, however, the listing would have to be considerably revised. The number of murders per 100,000 population in Chicago, for example, was 1.3, whereas Cincinnati reported more than 2 for a similar population unit. Similarly, the statistics on other crimes are misleading unless they are reduced to a population basis. It is no great disgrace for a city to lead in the number of crimes if it is well down the proportionate list.

NO OVERPRODUCTION.

It has become popular to diagnose every economic maladjustment as overproduction. The country is repeatedly compared to a reveler who has been surfeited with food and has indigestion. The farmers are told that they are producing too much. Great manufacturing concerns are producing less than they did last year without any official advice. Millions of workingmen are idle and their families in want because the world has too large a stock of goods.

To one unversed in academic economics it is strange that a surplus of the necessities of life should cause want. Why should an addition to the wealth of the country bring about distress? The answer is, of course, that a surplus of goods depresses their price and makes their production unprofitable, which in turn results in unemployment and hard times. But this answer is incomplete. In the common sense of the term there is no such thing as overproduction. There has never been a time when the world has been able to produce more than it is capable of consuming. What is meant by overproduction is simply that the amount of certain commodities offered for sale is greater than the purchasing power of the prospective consumers.

During recent years world-wide production of raw materials and foodstuffs has increased more than twice as fast as population. Does this mean that the world is producing too much? Certain fields of industry, particularly agriculture, are overcrowded, but to say that this country or the world is turning out more useful commodities than it should is absurd. Hundreds of comforts could be added to the average home, vast quantities of additional clothing could be used, and the number of automobiles in use might be trebled without exceeding the legitimate needs of the people. The capacity of people to consume is inexhaustible. The limitations which give rise to this condition, called overproduction, apply to the capacity to purchase and not the ability to consume.

The world is not producing too much, but the economic adjustment is such that the people are not able to pay for all that is being produced. What is needed is greater purchasing power. The United States has done more to expand the purchasing power of its people than any other nation. Operation of industry at the modern rate would be impossible in a civilization with a lower living standard. If the standards of other peoples should suddenly be raised to the American level, there would be a serious underproduction of goods and consequently a widespread stimulation of industry.

European nations have suffered from the current depression far more than the United States because of their shallow domestic markets. A large part of their goods are sent abroad, because the working classes are not paid sufficient to develop extensive domestic demand. In the United States industries produce for the local market and send the surplus abroad. American foreign trade is tremendous, but it is only a tiny fraction of the total commerce. A healthy purchasing power makes America the greatest market in the world regardless of tariffs.

Attempts to solve the problem of too many goods by curtailment of production is a negative approach. Of course, many adjustments will have to be made, and producers in some fields will have to be shifted to others. But the constructive solution lies in development of the earning, and, consequently, the purchasing power of the masses.

SOY BEANS.

The soy bean, which a few years ago was virtually unknown, is now an important crop. It is an annual leguminous plant native from northern India to Japan. Fifteen to twenty years ago there were only a few small fields here and there. Today 2,500,000 acres are devoted to the growing of soy beans. At first there were but a few varieties, whereas now the growers and seedsmen handle 60 kinds, and each season adds more.

Though the bean is native in China and Japan, these countries are behind in the development of the plant and its product in comparison with the United States. Here agricultural colleges have developed the plant to such an extent that it can be used for hay, pasture, silage, oil and oil meal.

Experiments on the farm at the University of Illinois reveal that the sowing of soy beans once in every four years makes the corn yield ten bushels an acre more than in fields where corn is planted year after year. Laboratory experiments are being conducted in the hope of finding some means whereby the soy bean may be used as food for human beings. It has been suggested that some day popped soy beans will be sold at street stands. American agricultural experiments have made great progress in the development of this leguminous native of southeastern Asia, and with continued experiments the progress along these lines may be even greater.

ANOTHER SCOURGE IN RETREAT.

When Governor General Wood returned from Manila in 1927 one of the principal objects for his trip was to aid the movement to obtain funds for the fight against leprosy in the Phillipine Islands. The campaign against leprosy was one of Gen. Wood's chief interests until the day of his death.

There were 3,000,000 lepers throughout the world a few years ago who had no hope of being cured. But through scientific research thousands of lepers have since been cured and returned to their families The Leonard Wood Memorial for the Eradication of Leprosy, under the direction of Perry Burgess, president of the board of trustees, has been seeking to raise a fund of $2,000,000. In the past three years since the campaign has been in progress 40,000 Americans have contributed to the fund, so that now less than $200,000 remains to be raised.

Of this fund $500,000 is to be used for buildings at Culion, for a leprosarium at Cebu, and for a new hospital boat. The leprosarium at Cebu with accommodations for 800 lepers is already completed, and the new hospital boat, the Governor Wood, was put into service in August. The remainder of the fund will be used over a period of fifteen years to carry on research work and the dissemination of knowledge, so that the cures already obtained at Culion may aid in the healing of lepers throughout the world.

Mr. Burgess says: "Since 1922 over 2,000 lepers have been dismissed from the Culion colony as cured. Leprosy is no longer an incurable disease. When the Philippine government opened its leper colony the patients were brought in by force, because they feared that they would be ill-treated, possibly left to starve, and even put to death by strange medicines. Many attempted suicide. Lacking all hope, they often refused to work and opposed treatment. Today the problem is to find room for those who come imploring aid. They learn a trade against the day of their approaching freedom. The creation of this new state of mind was necessarily the first step in the leprosy eradication program."

There's one thing about the kind of golf Bobby Jones plays. It doesn't necessitate telling the family about what might have happened with just a little luck.

DUTY TO CONSTITUENTS

From the Boston Transcript.

"The way to resumption," wrote Salmon P. Chase, in a generally misquoted epigram, "is to resume." We might reasonably, it would seem, apply the same axiomatic logic to other matters; for example, to representative government, saying that the way to representation is to represent. But is it so? What appears a truism has been challenged in some of the extraordinary campaigns of this most extraordinary year, until the question of the duty which a representative in Congress owes to his constituents is made a matter of doubt, or at least of serious dispute.

This question was acutely raised some months ago in the senatorial primary campaign in New Jersey. Mr. Fort, a representative in Congress, was a candidate for the senatorial nomination of the Republican party, as a recent and therefore zealous convert to prohibition; and he made it unmistakably known that he did not, or would not, if elected, feel bound to obey the wishes of his constituents, but would stand resolutely for prohibition, even though the people of the State showed themselves to be contrary minded. His conception of the duty of a representative was to represent his own conscientious convictions. Either in spite of or because of that attitude of his, the Republicans of New Jersey overwhelmingly decided not to have him for their representative in the Senate.

Now comes one of Mr. Fort's most distinguished colleagues in the New Jersey delegation in the House, Charles A. Eaton, with a precisely opposite profession of faith and practice. Before he forsook the pulpit for Congress he was one of the foremost clergymen of the Baptist Church in New York, and as such was a most aggressive advocate of temperance and for the abolition of the saloon and the liquor traffic. In this latter attitude he has not changed. But he conceives it his duty as an elected representative to carry out so far as possible the wishes of his constituents. And since the vote for Dwight W. Morrow was an overwhelmingly popular declaration against the eighteenth amendment, he now aligns himself with the prospective senator in favoring repeal of that amendment and remission of the liquor question to the individual States.

Again, in Illinois, Mrs. McCormick, in personal practice understood to be a dry, announces that if she is elected senator she will be guided in her official action by the will of the people as expressed in the referendum, which is to be taken simultaneously with the election. As the senatorial representative of the State, if Illinois votes dry she will vote dry at Washington, and if Illinois votes wet she will vote wet. At this the Antisaloon League, as was to be expected, adapts Farragut's remark about the torpedoes, "Damn the referendum!" And it puts forward another candidate, to split the Republican vote, defeat Mrs. McCormick and assure the election of the superwet, James Hamilton Lewis, as preferable to a dry who would so mistake her duty as to obey the wishes of those who elected her.

There is doubtless something to be said on each side of the question. We should have little respect for a man who converted himself into a mere rubber stamp, to approve anything that his constituents seemed to want, even against his own reason, judgment and conscience. Yet neither could we respect one who, elected as a Republican, went over to the Democrats, or vice versa, or who, elected as a protectionist, voted for free trade. We should say that if an elected representative found it inconsistent with his conscience or his reason to carry out the wishes of those who elected him the course of honor would be for him to resign his seat. It may, of course, be said that if a candidate, in advance of election, announces what his convictions are, and what his course of action will be, on any matter, and if he is then elected on that understanding, he has a right to adhere to his policy, whether his constituents like it or not. They elected him knowing what he would do, and they should abide by their choice. But we feel equally certain that if the people, by a referendum or otherwise, clearly declare their wishes on a certain matter, a candidate has no right to seek or to accept election at their hands unless he is willing to carry out the wishes they have expressed.

Keeping Mahomet From the Mountain Is Sending the Mountain to Mahomet.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

AMERICAN labor faces the greatest struggle in its history.

When labor unions exerted their influence to check the immigration of "pauper labor" from Europe and thus rid themselves of competition they paved the way for a migration of capital.

The records of the Weather Bureau give Greenville, S. C., an annual rainfall approximating that of Seattle, Wash., where the old Siwash doubted the Noah story because he had seen it rain much more than 40 days and nights without need of an ark.

Greenville is one of many small cities that nestle at the feet of mountains. And where there are mountains and abundant rainfall water rushes to the sea with sufficient force and volume to generate more electric power than an agricultural region can use.

Power companies harnessed the rivers and the stage was set for a new era.

Industry must have power, but the offer of power alone is not a sufficient inducement to make it migrate. It prefers a mild climate and the proximity of its raw material, but even these advantages are not attractive enough to make it forsake established plants. The thing it most needs and will go farthest to get is cheap labor easily handled.

The power companies, having harnessed the rivers, were able to offer this greatest of inducements to new customers.

Their advertising and descriptive literature, quoted and indorsed by chambers of commerce, make frequent reference to cheap and abundant labor easy to control.

It is truthful advertising.

In the South are a million and a half tenant farmers, most of them "furnished" through the summer, and thus in debt for the worth of their crop before it is harvested.

A country banker in the cotton region once said to me, "The average tenant farmer and his family never see as much as one hundred dollars of cash money in the course of a year."

Such people will work for low wages, for the meanest of wages seem high to them.

They attract industry that is eager to get away from "labor troubles."

Unorganized and easy to satisfy, they compete with labor in the North. As their competition increases it will fix the scale of wages.

For good or ill, the cotton cropper has entered the labor market, and immigration laws can't keep him out.

Chicago's Sham Battle.

(New Orleans Times-Picayune.)

The sham battle against Chicago's gangland rages with renewed vigor these fall days. Police authorities list 26 of gangland's leaders for arrest under an old vagrancy statute and all but 24 of them are already in the toils. Most of these on the list are reputed to have committed various crimes ranging from racketeering to murder, but probably it would be considered unethical to seek the apprehension of the higher-ups on charges of such a serious nature. A raid on a hotel frequented by gangsters, in which all but the important ones were caught, yields documentary evidence that gangland was in possession of supposedly secret police orders. We expect almost any day to hear that the gangsters have raided a police station and found the police in possession of documents relating to gangland's orders.

Behind this furious gasconnading, of course, is the fact that the November elections are at hand. Gangland and officialdom find it convenient and profitable to work hand in glove at ordinary seasons, but when the free, independent and intelligent voter is about to march on the polls his somewhat flexible conscience must be appeased by at least a semblance of antagonism between the lawbreakers and those whose duty it is to suppress lawbreaking. This calls for nice discrimination. The campaign against organized crime must be vigorous enough to satisfy the voter, but not so vigorous as to alienate the organized vote of the lawbreakers themselves.

Raskob vs. Shouse.

(New York Herald Tribune.)

Mr. John J. Raskob is still chairman of the Democratic national committee, and his enthusiastic indorsement of Gov. Roosevelt's eighteenth amendment "repeal" program has created a highly embarrassing situation for that governing agency of the Democratic party. The committee, under the guidance of former Representative Shouse as acting chairman, has been working to elect a Democratic Congress. It is supporting Democratic nominees everywhere without reference to their classification as wets or drys or their attitudes for or against repeal. The committee is officially neutral on the wet-dry issue. It is backing Democratic wets against Republican drys and Democratic drys against Republican wets. It is also backing Democratic wets against Republican wets and Democratic drys against Republican drys. It has been all things to all candidates, provided only that they are Democrats.

"Hootch-Hitching Tactics."

(Atlanta Constitution.)

The action of the New York Republicans in adopting a plank about prohibition that calls for a constitutional amendment in place of the eighteenth and containing a Federal guarantee against the return of the saloon, must be regarded as another clever dodge of the real issue of prohibition.

The majority of the people of New York undoubtedly are opposed to the present prohibition laws. The New York city and other large urban communities are overwhelmingly so. The political condition in the state is badly mixed.

The strategy of the Republicans is to bid strongly for New York city by naming a city candidate for governor standing upon their prohibition compromise plan above noted. On the other hand, the Democrats will propose Roosevelt and his straight-out stand for the absolute repeal of the prohibition amendment and the return of the liquor control subject to the states, where it properly belongs. Governor Roosevelt does not believe such return would be a necessary result of the repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The issue between the parties in New York should be easy to resolve. If the people of that state are so overwhelmingly for the repeal of prohibition they should say so in the strongest way—and that way is by a vote for Roosevelt and his proposal. But if they only imagine they want repeal they should vote for the Tuttle-platform proposal, which is one that will scarcely commend itself to the states, even if it could get a two-thirds vote in Congress for its submission to the people.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Dr. Bleacher's Prophecy Borne Out by Fine Showing of Sir Walter's Cohorts.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In a letter to The Post at the commencement of the baseball season I remarked that the Nationals would give a good account of themselves and hold their own in the first division.

Considering that the experts had already relegated them to seventh place, with sixth place a slim possibility, and the tail end likely, that must have seemed a right foolhardy guess in the mind of any one who may have given it consideration.

Of course, the seductive possibility of finally being able to say "I told you so," may have something to do with this remark, but it was not entirely without thought that the Griffs were placed higher than their standing as determined by the experts, who, of course, do not have as much leeway for guesswork as an unfettered fan. Viewing the team with an optimistic eye, it seemed the club possessed something which could not be summed up in columns of average, but without which, on paper, the best team in a league may, on the diamond, fail to win a pennant.

That something is popularly known as "pep," and is manifested in the spirit of the game—the spirit which forges to victory against odds. In fielding, it covers acres of ground and makes difficult plays look easy, while at the home plate it so concentrates the batter's mind on hits that the vim of his cut at the ball, even when he strikes out, is heroic—like that of Babe Ruth or Joe Cronin, for instance.

Seldom is the morale of a ball club better than that of this year's Griffs, and we need not look for much change in the team's personnel next season.

There may be a few fans who, if they had the chance, could show us how to give much greater strength to the line-up, but the Old Fox and Walter Johnson are too baseball-wise to so reshape the Nats. To do that would be to risk a loss of the pennant-winning spirit, which, it is well to understand, is not a product of the training camp. Such spirit becomes an integral part of a team only during the heat of a campaign such as that of last spring and summer.

HENRY WARD BLEACHER.

Mr. Ford's Thoughts on Some Aspects of the Traffic Problem.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Now ariseth a know-it-all to settle some of the vexing traffic problems of Washington, or at least to offer some destructive criticism, in manner as follows:

Problem 1. The boulevard system. In theory, it is correct to have a system of boulevards and arterial highways protected by stop signs, running the length and breadth of the city. In actual practice, they constitute extremely dangerous traffic hazards, for the reason that they are usually very wide streets, and motorists traveling on them, having the right of way over cross traffic, have a tendency to "step on it" and are loath to the point of collision to let cross traffic have a show for their white alley.

That the system is partially a failure is shown by the action of the traffic director in establishing lights on Rhode Island avenue and removing the stop signs. All motorists who have any regard for their life and machine worry when they come to one of these boulevards and are never sure that they will not be run down by a speeder claiming the right of way.

A system of lights on these streets would be better, provided that they were not operated to slow up traffic, as is now the case. Put lights on these streets, raise the speed limit to 30 miles per hour on them, and hold the green light all along them for a sufficient space to allow traffic to cover a half a mile or so before they turn red all along the line. Where lights are not practicable, remove the stop signs.

Problem 2. While the city is being plentifully sprinkled with traffic lights, why is not a light placed at Fourteenth street and Florida avenue northwest, one of the worst crossings in the city? I can not settle this, but can only hope and pray.

Being Always Alert Enables One to Rise in Business, Writes Miss Payler.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Unemployment ought to be crossed out of the dictionary because there should be no such thing as a person being wholly unemployed. Every one should be occupied either gainfully or profitably. If one's time is fully employed it helps to keep the world moving. Even thought is employment, as the greatest achievements come from right thinking. It is want of thought and concentration on any serious subject which defeats the person from becoming successful in any line of endeavor. It requires great mental activity to compete with other minds in business and one must be ever alert to grasp opportunity when it presents itself.

Men without education have become some of our foremost business men, because they remained alert, using their mental faculties to promote business. The day laborer can rise if he uses his brain as a help. For the mind plans and the body executes.

Mount Pleasant Cars Needed at Fourteenth and B During Rush Hour.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Why can not folks living in the Mount Pleasant section have a car at Fourteenth and B streets southwest at 4:30 p. m., such as is afforded those of other sections? During this summer not a half-dozen cars have been at this place at 4:30. The Mount Pleasant car is usually way below the Bureau of Engraving, and stays down there until all other cars are gone. It finally comes up so packed one can not get on. If you take another car and transfer you are at least 15 minutes late getting home. The service up to Eighteenth street and Columbia road has been bad all summer. All other sections have a car at this place, but Mount Pleasant residents are not provided for. The Wreco should do something about it.

ATTACK ON TARIFF AT BANKER SESSION

John W. Barton Calls High Duties and Immigration Wall Inconsistent.

BANKS IN GOOD SHAPE

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—An attack on the tariff and immigration laws of the United States was delivered at the convention of the American Bankers Association today by John W. Barton, vice president of the Metropolitan National Bank of Minneapolis and president of the national bank division of the association.

eH said creating a high tariff and at the same time raising the wall against the immigrant is an inconsistent policy.

"If the tariff wall tends to reduce our foreign trade, as I think it will, then we need more people to consume our surplus," Barton said. "Yet we further restrict immigration and at the same time continue to reclaim arid lands at an enormous expenditure of capital annually."

Warning Against Subsidies.

The announced purpose of high tariff proponents to retain a high standard of living in this country by raising a high tariff wall is defeated by the efficient methods of transportation and communication now being applied throughout the world, he said.

Barton advised that government stay out of industry, adding that "subsidies of any kind are absolutely unsound."

The general condition of banking in the United States is undoubtedly better than it has been since 1921, Dan V. Stephens, of Fremont, Nebr., and outgoing president of the State bank division of the association, said in an address before that division.

Optimistic Farm Note.

An optimistic note came from the farm region of Minnesota in an address by Charles F. Collisson, farm editor of the Minneapolis Tribune.

"They tell us that the farmer's dollar is worth less than the industrial dollar," he said; "that our best customer has lost his buying power. That's less than a half truth. The fact is, the products of the right kind of diversified live stock farming are all above or right in line with the general average of retail prices of the commodities the farmers buy even in 1930. Some farm products have been far above the merchandise price index for years."

Resolutions favoring the independent State bank as opposed to chain banks, and indorsing the cooperative dual system of cooperation between State and national banks, and expressing satisfaction with interest rates and service under the Federal Reserve system were adopted by the State bankers.

Next to the address of President Hoover Thursday night, interest centered on the report of the association's commission on economic relations, which was being prepared tonight.

Liberal Laws Asked.

Recommendation that national banks be allowed greater participation in the earnings of the Federal Reserve Bank, that more liberal laws be enacted as to investment and loaning powers, and that restrictions upon branch banking privileges be liberalized, was made to the convention today by its committee on national bank research.

The committee, named at the San Francisco convention last year to investigate causes for the diminishing influence of national banks and to make recommendations for strengthening the national banking system, found these three points and uncertainty over succession of trust powers and appointments in mergers of trust companies with nationally chartered banks, as the major causes for withdrawal of national banks from the Federal system.

PICKETS TURN BACK DANVILLE WORKERS

President of Plants Intimates He Will Offer Work to Those Willing.

PEACE MARKS STRIKE

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Sept. 29.—With the gates of the River Side and Dan River Cotton Mills closed as a reply to the strike of 4,000 members of the United Textile Workers of America declared in existence Sunday, public interest today centered on possible developments which might be expected should the mills reopen for operation in a few days, as intimated in a statement by H. R. Fitzgerald, president.

Mr. Fitzgerald, who is still in Charlottesville, asserted that the mills intend to maintain the status quo for a few days in order to determine, if possible, how many workers desire to return to their jobs and should the number be deemed sufficient to operate the plants, they will be reopened. This would bring the issue of who would or who would not work, which was not drawn today, to a head.

Strike Picket Issue Deferred.

Interest early today, before time for the mills to open, as focused on the question of what would happen when nonunion workers desiring work presented themselves and met the strike pickets, about 150 of which are maintained at the numerous mill gates. Closing of the mills, however, delayed the issue.

Meanwhile the first day of the strike passed peacefully with no semblance of violence in evidence. The only noteworthy incident to break the calm prevailing occurred when a group of fifteen workers, not affiliated with the union, sought to enter the gates through police persuasion in order to complete a task in No. 5 bleachery, at the Schoolfield division, which would have saved a large amount of goods in process of bleaching.

The union pickets, however, won the first tilt of the walkout when the would-be workers and the police, who acted as their spokesmen, were compelled to withdraw when their arguments failed. The set--to was without violence and was settled by words which lacked any tone of harshness. Francis J. Gorman, international vice president of the union, later defended the action of the pickets and complimented them on the way they had met the situation, concluding that no one but superintendents and overseers were to enter the gates.

Arrival of Tents Is Reported.

It was reported today that a large number of tents have arrived here with which to set up a tent colony should the mills evict strikers from the company-owned houses.

Gorman, who returned this morning after being absent since before the national convention of the union, which indorsed "drastic action" by the local union and lated approved the strike vote, addressed a large mass meeting today and charged that had the mill management acknowledged its workers as American citizens there would have been no strike.

He charged further that the mill has employed and brought into the city Communists, through whom the mills hoped to destroy the legitimate union movement. He also declared that the workers here had been subjected to every form of oppression and had been forced into a strike.

POLICE SHIFTS SEEN IN THREE PRECINCTS

Promotions and Changes Follow Voluntary Retirement of Capt. Sanford.

NEW RANK FOR BECKETT

Commanding officers of three precincts will be shifted following promotion of Lieut. James F. Beckett, of the First Precinct, to captain to fill the vacancy caused by the voluntary retirement of Capt. William E. Sanford, of the Fifth Precinct, effective tomorrow morning.

The Commissioners are expected to approve today the promotion of Lieut. Beckett to captain, Sergt. J. F. Holmes, of the Harbor Precinct, to be lieutenant, and Private Robert C. Pearce, of the Third Precinct, to be sergeant.

Capt. Beckett is to be given command of the Third Precinct, which has been under the command of Capt. William G. Stott for some time.

Capt. Stott is to take command of the Sixth Precinct, which has been commanded by Capt. J. M. Walsh since he was promoted a short time ago.

Capt. Walsh is to take command of the Fifth Precinct, command of which will be given up by Capt. Sanford. Lieut. Holmes will be assigned to the Third Precinct, and another shift will be necessary to fill the vacancy caused in the lieutenancy by the promotion of Lieut. Beckett. It is expected that Lieut. Fowler will be brought downtown and assigned to the First Precinct.

Coal Dust Pile Saves Life of Worker in Fall

Mishawaka, Ind., Sept. 29 (N.Y.W. N.S.).—Albert Taylor, 18, miraculously escape death today when the scaffold on which he and a companion were working at the top of a smokesstack gave way.

The men plunged 125 feet to the ground, and although Taylor went unscathed, the other workman, Alfred Lights, 27 was instantly killed. Taylor landed on a pile of coal dust.

Lung Trouble Imperils Lord Birkenhead's Life

London, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Anxiety was felt tonight for Lord Birkenhead who is suffering a recurrence of lung congestion. Concern over his recovery was increased when a bulletin issued by his physicians tonight stated:

"Lord Birkenhead's condition remains serious, though his temperature is slightly lower. There has been a further extension of trouble in the chest."

Girl Student and Man Held Slain by Robber

Stockton, Calif., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Miss Sophie Stetz, 19, Stockton high school student, and R. L. Morris, 46, driver of a rented automobile, were found dead here today. Police expressed belief they had been killed by a robber. The girl had been stabbed and the man shot to death.

Andrew Stetz, a brother, said that the girl had not been home for three days.

Shopping With Bab

DEAREST GENEVIEVE: Almost every day presents some delightful experience for the autumn shopper. Last evening the gala fashion opening at Jelleff's gave every one a chance to see the newest models worn by pretty local mannequins, and also an opportunity to see the changes in the various departments, making it almost like a new store. There will be other openings and fashion shows this week for which you will see announcements in The Post.

Sleeves Are Intricate And Elaborate

—in coats as well as frocks. You will find in the collection of coats at Schwartz, 1325 Connecticut avenue, the most unusual sleeve treatment. Homespuns, tweeds, basket weaves in vivid colors as well as the more conservative mixtures have fur collars and half-sleeves of fur, or applied bands of fur, lavishly fashioned. Prices are from $65 to $79.50, and sizes are as small as age 12.

Frocks for day and evening are priced from $16.50 to $39.50. A charming black chiffon velvet gown with deep cafe lace has little cap sleeves of lace and an Eton jacket of velvet. I do not know the price of it.

A Powder Blue Chinchilla Coat

—handsomely made, attracted my eye in the display of autumn fashions for children at the Baby Mode, 1770 Columbia Road. The famous Germaine Pilot weave may be purchased at Baby Mode for only $12.95. If you are familiar with this weave you know the price is higher in some other shops. Powder blue, navy and green are the colors, I remember.

Everything for babies and children up to and including six years may be seen now at Baby Mode.

The Anne H. Smith Co. Has Moved —into the Elizabeth Arden Building, 1147 Connecticut avenue. You will find this familiar dressmaking establishment occupying the spacious second floor, where wardrobes for autumn may be selected in peace and quiet.

As every one knows, Anne Smith Co. are designers and makers, giving special attention to slenderizing lines and adapting the mode to the needs of larger women. However, you may be beautifully gowned at Anne Smith's whatever your figure may be.

Miss Smith has only just returned from Paris, bringing with her scores of original models, which may be copied for you, in the materials you choose. Do stop in and see the things Miss Smith brought back, and order your gowns while the season is young. Anne H. Smith, second floor, 1147 Conn. Ave.

Augusta Blue Crepe Sewn With Crystals

—and made with the long tunic showing a finely pleated skirt has just arrived at Mme. Florenz, 1145 Conn. Ave. The price is $19.50. The lovely gowns at this price must be seen to be appreciated. At $16.50 there are so many delightful frocks, it would be a pity to try to describe them.

There is a green tweed wool crepe, nicely tailored, and light weight enough to wear later under a heavy coat. Another model shows a brown wool crepe skirt and a tunic blouse of lace wool in a deep cafe tone.

For only $59.50 you may select a crepe frock in that new shade, Noble Lady Red, with it's own little coat of black broadtail fabric.

Mme. Florenz continues to be a meeting place for Connecticut Avenue shoppers. They feel they are perfectly welcome in this delightful salon. Mme. Florenz is charmed to show the new things whether you are ready to make your selections or not.

Affectionately,

Bab

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Mr. Roberts Will Live in Quaint Home

House in Georgetown Is Known as Artists' Retreat.

IN a quaint old house in Georgetown, where many notable folk have made their home, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court and Mrs. Owen J. Roberts will soon establish their residence. They are giving up their hospitable winter house in De Lancey street in Philadelphia and will move their furnishings into the mansion at Thirty-first and O streets, which they have leased from Mr. Harold Phelps Stokes, of New York.

Although Justice and Mrs. Roberts are leaving behind a beautiful home in the Quaker capital, where they have held open house for so long, their new quarters offers the charm of a historical background, as well as attractive surroundings. It is a fascinating frame structure with old-fashioned galleries on the first and second floors and boasts a fine entrance with winding steps and iron balustrade.

The house is one of the early homes of old Georgtown and it is reported that Miss Fanny Washington, collateral descendant of Gen. Washington, lived there when O street was known as Beal street and Thirty-first street bore the quaint name of East Lane. It faces Christ Church and for several years between 1918 and 1921 served as the parish hall of the church.

Mr. Stokes, who is now with the New York Times in New York, purchased the house while acting as chief secretary to President Hoover, then Secretary of Commerce.

Baron C. G. H. van Boetzlaer van Oosterhout, formerly secretary and charge d'affaires of the Netherlands Legation, leased the place for a time. It was from the baron that Miss Mildred Tytus and Miss Victoria Tytus secured a short lease and there entertained for a season.

Once owned by Mr. Arthur Franklyn Musgrave, attache of the British Embassy, the place became known as the "Artist's Retreat," as Mr. Musgrave remodeled the place to his liking and converted into a studio a small building attached to it, where he passed many hours at his easel. Mr. Musgrave married a Miss Green, of Cleveland, also an artist, and they were favorite members of the art colony at Nantucket, where they passed the summers. Mr. and Mrs. Musgrave left Washington about five years ago and now are living in the West.

In the nineties, or before that period, the place was called the Curtis House as Mr. William Curtis, deputy commissioner of patents, made his home there prior to 1890.

The place boasts only a small garden but Justice and Mrs. Roberts probably will never lose interest in their 800-acre farm in Chester County Pa. where they carry on extensive stock and poultry raising and take pride in their fine flower and truck gardens. Justice Roberts is a connoisseur of chrysanthemums, dahlias and ferns. His gardens bear his name—"O. J. Roberts, owner and cultivator," whereas many estates in Chester County make exhibits under the name of their gardeners.

Mr. Guggenheim Delays Visit to Washington.

The Ambassador to Cuba, Mr. Harry F. Guggenheim, who was expected in Washington within a day or two, will delay his visit here until later in the week because of the death of his father, Mr. Daniel Guggenheim, in New York on Sunday.

Mr. Wilbur J. Carr, Assistant Secretary of State, who, with Mrs. Carr, is traveling in Europe, presided over the conference of American Consuls General of Central Europe at a meeting last Saturday in Stuttgart, Germany. With consular officers from Germany, Austria, Poland, Italy, Sweden and other European countries Mr. Carr attended a dinner given by Mr. Eugene Bolz.

The French Consul General at San Francisco and Mme. Maurice Heilmann announce the marriage of their elder daughter, Mlle. Helene Heilmann, to M. Edouard Lavergne. The wedding took place in Paris on September 11.

After a wedding journey in England M. Lavergne and Mme. Lavergne will make their home in Paris.

Mrs. Hoover Departs for Indianapolis

First Lady Plans to Join President Thursday in Cleveland.

Mrs. Hoover left last night for Indianapolis to attend the annual convention of the National Council of Girl Scouts of America of which she is honorary president. With the President she returned to the White House yesterday after spending the week-end at the Rapidan lodge where their son, Mr. Herbert Hoover, jr., is receiving treatment. While in Indianapolis Mrs. Hoover will be the guest of Gov. and Mrs. Harry G. Leslie.

On Thursday Mrs. Hoover will join the President in Cleveland, where elaborate plans are being made for their entertainment incident to the convention of the American Bankers Association. The President and Mrs. Hoover will return to Washington on Friday. Miss Mildred Hall, secretary to Mrs. Hoover, will accompany the First Lady on the trip.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover, jr., who was at the White House over the week-end, will return to the Rapidan camp early this week.

The First Assistant Postmaster General and Mrs. Arch Coleman entertained at tea in their apartment at the Broadmoor on Sunday evening for their daughter, Mrs. John G. L. Dundas, of Valetta, Island of Malta. Assisting Mrs. Coleman were Mrs. Frederick A. Tilton, Mrs. H. Hunter, Mrs. Aubrey Lawrence and Mrs. F. W. Coleman.

Mr. Dwight Morrow Is Capital Guest.

The former United States Ambassador to Mexico, Mr. Dwight Morrow, is passing a few days at the Carlton Hotel.

Miss Francesca McKenney and her cousin, Miss Frances Miller, of New York, left yesterday by motor for Hot Springs, Va., where they will occupy the cottage of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Miller, for the month of October.

U.S. Diplomat Will Assume Duties in Paris

Mr. and Mrs. Scotten to Sail Tomorrow for Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Scotten will leave for New York tonight, preparatory to calling tomorrow on the President Harding for Paris, where the former will assume his duties as first secretary of the American Embassy.

Mr. Scotten has been in Washington for the past three years, on duty at the State Department as head of the Bureau of Current Information. In Paris he will succeed Dr. Benjamin Thaw, who has been ordered to London, where he will be first secretary at the American Embassy. Mr. Thaw and his wife have been in Paris for about a year. They are among the most popular members of the American colony there.

Several farewell parties are being arranged for the Scottens before their departure. Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, jr., entertained a small company at luncheon in their home on Massachusetts avenue for them and today Mr. and Mrs. Emmons Smith will be hosts at tea in their honor.

Mrs. Scotten should make a most attractive "diplomatic hostess." She comes of a family long schooled in matters pertaining to affairs of nations. Her father, Col. Boyd, served in Paris as military attache at the American Embassy when this country entered the World War, and later he was on Gen. Pershing's staff.

Her stepfather, Capt. John R. Edie, U. S. N., who has made his home in Washington for a number of years, was one time naval attache of the American Embassy in the French capital.

Mrs. Scotten is visiting Capt. and Mrs. Edie at their home on Sixteenth street, having given up her apartment at 2546 Massachusetts avenue.

Admiral and Mrs. Coontz Are at Atlantic City.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. Robert E. Coontz, United States Navy, and their daughter, Miss Bertha Coontz, are passing a few days in Atlantic City.

Mrs. James R. Mann spent the summer in the Berkshires and has returned to her apartment at 2400 Sixteenth street.

Mrs. John H. Howard, of Washington, is a guest at the St. Regis in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. William L. Lowrie are spending the winter in Washington, t Wardman Park Hotel, while the former is on duty at the State Department.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. A. M. D. McCormick have returned to Washington after spending the summer at their home, Clermont, near Warrenton, Va Their house here in Phelps place has been reopened for the winter. Their daughter, Mrs. Morris Clark, with her little son, Richard Clark, has been the house guest of her parents at Clermont and has returned to Washington with them. She expects to remain in Washington until the middle of October, when she will return to her home in Santa Barbara, Calif Miss Nellie Jett McCormick also returned with her parents and will resume her studies at Holton Arms.

Senator W. H. McMaster, of South Dakota, is in Washington for a short stay and is a guest at the Willard.

Chief Justice Is Back From Speaking Trip

Associates in the Supreme Court Are Returning to Capital.

The Chief Justice of the United States, Mr. Charles Evans Hughes, has returned from Providence, R. I., where he went to make an address at the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of the Brown University Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, honorary society.

Mr. Hughes, an alumnus of Brown, sketched the history of Phi Beta Kappa from the time of its founding at the College of William and Mary in 1776.

With their vacations over, other members of the Supreme Court are gathering in Washington this week to be present October 6 at the opening of the court's new term.

Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes is expected to arrive the last of the week from his summer home near Boston, while Justice and Mrs. Van Devanter and Justice and Mrs. Butler are coming to Washington from Blue Ridge Summit, Pa., where they spent the summer.

Justice and Mrs. Sutherland and Justice and Mrs. Stone are already in the Capital. Both couples passed the season in Europe. Justice and Mrs. Stone visited Italy and Germany, where Mrs. Stone, an artist of ability, made a number of paintings.

Mrs. Charles J. Callahan and her daughter, Mrs. Thomas J. Ryder, with the latter's daughters, Miss Betty Ryder and Miss Nancy Ryder, who have been motoring in Europe for the past three months, are now in Paris at the Hotel Pierre-Ier. They expect to remain in Paris three weeks and then go to London, where they will spend a fortnight at the Park Lane. After a week's stay in Ireland they expect to sail for home from Southampton on the Statendam, October 25.

Mrs. Larz Anderson To Have Paris Guest.

Mrs. Larz Anderson will have as her guest the Vicomtesse de Salignac-Fenelon, of Paris, who sailed for this country on September 25 on the Ile-de-France, where she will visit in New York, Boston, and Washington.

Mr. William Jennings Price, former Minister to Panama, has returned from several months passed in the Blue Grass region of Kentucky, and is again engaged in his law lectures at Georgetown University.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Terrett announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ruth Louise Terrett, to Mr. Sherod L. Earle, of Hampton, Va. The wedding will take place this winter, although no date has been set.

Miss Ruth Carr Wed To Mr. John Hyde.

Miss Ruth Courtney Carr, daughter of Mrs. Landon Green, of Richmond, and Mr. John Knowles Hyde, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lawrence Hyde, of Washington, were married on Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the Mayflower Hotel, the Rev. Dr William S. Abernethy, of Calvary Baptist Church, officiating.

Miss Janice Marks, of Richmond, was maid of honor for the bride, and Mr. Lawrence K. Hyde was his brother's best man.

Following a short honeymoon trip in Fayettesville, Pa., Mr. and Mrs Hyde will return to Washington for a brief visit before going to Richmond, their future home.

Palmer-Marr Nuptials Held In Washington

Daughter of Late Capital Physician Is Wed in St. Patrick's.

Miss Mina Marr and Mr. George Palmer were married yesterday morning in St. Patrick's Church, the Rev. John Cartwright, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's, officiating. Miss Marr is the daughter of the late Dr. Samuel Stewart Marr who practiced medicine in central Washington for many years, and of Mrs. Marr, who was Miss Nina Talbot, of Charles County, Md.

Mr. Palmer, formerly of London, came to Washington in 1924 and for some months was the companion and instructor in gymnastics of the sons of Sir Esme Howard, former Ambassador of Great Britain. Mr. Palmer was connected with the British Red Cross during the World War and has received several decorations for his valiancy. With the support of Sir Esme, Mr. Palmer helped to train a troop of Boy Scouts in the Christ Child Society and he is now physical

BONDS OF GASTONIA CONVICTS FORFEITED

Court Confiscates $27,000 Posted for Seven in Police Slaying.

CASE WILL BE PRESSED

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Bonds aggregating $27,000, posted by the American Fund for Public Service, for the seven men convicted in connection with the slaying of O. F. Adkerholt, Gastonia police chief, were ordered forfeited by Judge Walter E. Moore in Superior Court today when the defendants failed to appear.

The plea of J. F. Flowers, attorney for the men and representing the American Fund for Public Service, Grace Hutchinson and other bondsmen, that the State's request for forfeiture of the bonds be denied, was overruled. Mr. Flowers gave notice of appeal and said he would carry his case to the State Supreme Court on the grounds of "irregularities" in the method of forfeiture. In arguing before Judge Moore he held that the bondsmen had not been properly served.

The whereabouts of the seven defendants, Fred Erwin Beal, George Carter, Joseph Harrison and Clarence Miller, each sentenced to serve 17 to 20 years and released on $5,000 bond; Louis McLaughlin and William M. McGinnis, sentenced to 12 to 15 years and released on $2,500 bonds, and K. Y. Hendricks, sentenced to serve 5 to 7 years and released on $2,000 bond, is unknown here.

The order to show cause why the bonds should not be declared forfeited and the money turned over to Gaston County was served on the American Civil Liberties Union, which had arranged bond for the men. Flowers told the court he did not know where the men are. During the summer Beal, Miller and Carter were reported to be in Berlin and Russia. The others have been reported in various Eastern cities.

Solicitor John G. Carpenter, who successfully moved for the forfeiture of the bonds, said today he had no intention of abandoning the case.

"Just because the bonds are forfeited," the solicitor said, "is no reason for dropping the case. If we can bring them back to serve their sentences we intend to do so."

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

HOW TO SLEEP.

THE notion that our sleeping posture causes us to be ewe necked or stoop shouldered is all wrong. One reason is that there is no sleeping posture. Drs. Johnson, Swan and Weigand conducted an investigation of the subject and this is what they found out.

Apparently the man whose pictures illustrate their report was put to sleep on a very comfortable bed, without a pillow or cover, in a well-ventilated, comfortable room and under a bright light. He had trained himself to sleep in such a light. A moving picture apparatus was set to photograph every change of position. The bed was equipped with automatic registering apparatus of various kinds. The experiment recorded was repeated with several other people of different ages and under different circumstances, the results about duplicating those set down as relating to this man.

In a comfortable night's sleep the man made 33 major changes in position. In the earlier part of the latter part he generally changed position about every five minutes. During the middle four hours he would go longer without shifting. Eight periods without change exceeded 20 minutes in length, one of which lasted 56 minutes, one 51, one 47 and one 43. During the night nearly every position imaginable—comfortable and uncomfortable—was assumed at some time or other. The legs, arms and neck were bent in nearly every direction. The investigators reported that the preferred positions seemed to be those that were contorted. Never did the body assume the position that we think of as that of complete relaxation.

The sleeper threw himself into a position that relieved the pressure and muscle tension caused by the previously held position and in that he remained until the pressure on his skin or the muscle tension became unpleasant, whereupon he automatically and unconsciously flopped to another one. The periods between flops lengthened toward the midsleep and shortened as the sleep time neared its end.

An uncomfortable mattress increased the number of shifts but decreased their variety. One conclusion was that beds should not be less than 39 inches wide. Another was that persons should sleep alone. Another was that bed and room should be comfortable. Finally, they say that to get a healthy person to spend the night in any one position one would need to strap him to a frame, or else to put him in a cast and then prop the cast.

To Gain Weight.

A. H. N. writes: What is the best thing to take to increase weight? I never see much about how to increase weight, but a lot on how to lose it.

Reply.

Get eight hours of sleep at regular hours each night. Take an afternoon nap. Cultivate calm and poise. Avoid worry, nervousness, and fidgeting. In addition to three regular meals of good, wholesome foods, eat a bowl of milk and crackers or sugared rice at least once daily, preferably at bedtime. Wild rice is the better kind for you.

Suicide Seen in Death Of Architect's Widow

Rockport, Mass., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Mrs. Thomas P. Barnett, widow of a prominent St. Louis architect, presumably shot and killed herself during the night, police said today after they had discovered her body lying in bed in her summer studio home here.

Yesterday was the first anniversary of her husband's burial.

Married Man Wounds Woman and Kills Self

Sacramento, Calif., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—After shooting and dangerously wounding Mrs. Dora Davis at her Sacramento apartment, William Stocker, a married man, drove to Roseville and ended his life near his home today.

He had been keeping company with Mrs. Davis.

What Today Means to You

"LIBRA."

IF September 30 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to noon, from 5 p. m. to 6:30 p. m. and 8:30 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 7 a. m. to 8:45 a. m. and 2 p. m. to 3 p. m.

Conflicting influences prevail on this date and caution must be exercised in all things and at all times. When you come to recount the joys of the day, the sweetest and most remembered will be that which came from an unexpected source, and as a surprise. Avoid speculative adventures.

The children born on this September 30 will have silent natures, and an almost impenetrable reserve. They will suffer through their shyness and sensitiveness, and will long to make friends more easily. They will be 100 per cent loyal, industrious and ambitions.

You are a sprinter, but not a sticker. You seldom cross the tape, because you exhaust your energies and your enthusiasms during the beginning of the course. You are too impatient to be off, too anxious to display all your tricks in the beginning, to leave anything for the grand and more difficult finish.

The planetary aspects favor partnerships for you, especially with persons older or of better position than yourself. You will gain position, power, money or dignity through your associates. You make friends easily and you have the wisdom to keep them. Although you are inclined to laugh at your own errors and weaknesses, you take kindly to criticisms from the right people, given in the right way. There are many people who "ruffle your fur," and to these you are almost rude, and you display a perverse and stubborn nature. You are not all things to all people. A successful marriage is indicated.

Successful people born September 30:

1 Jacob Estey, organ manufacturer.
2 Cyrus Northrup, president of University of Minnesota.
3 John W. Danenhower, Arctic explorer.
4 Winthrop More Daniels, commerce commissioner.
5 Isaac Newton Seligman, banker.
6 Emanuel Philip Adler, newspaper publisher.

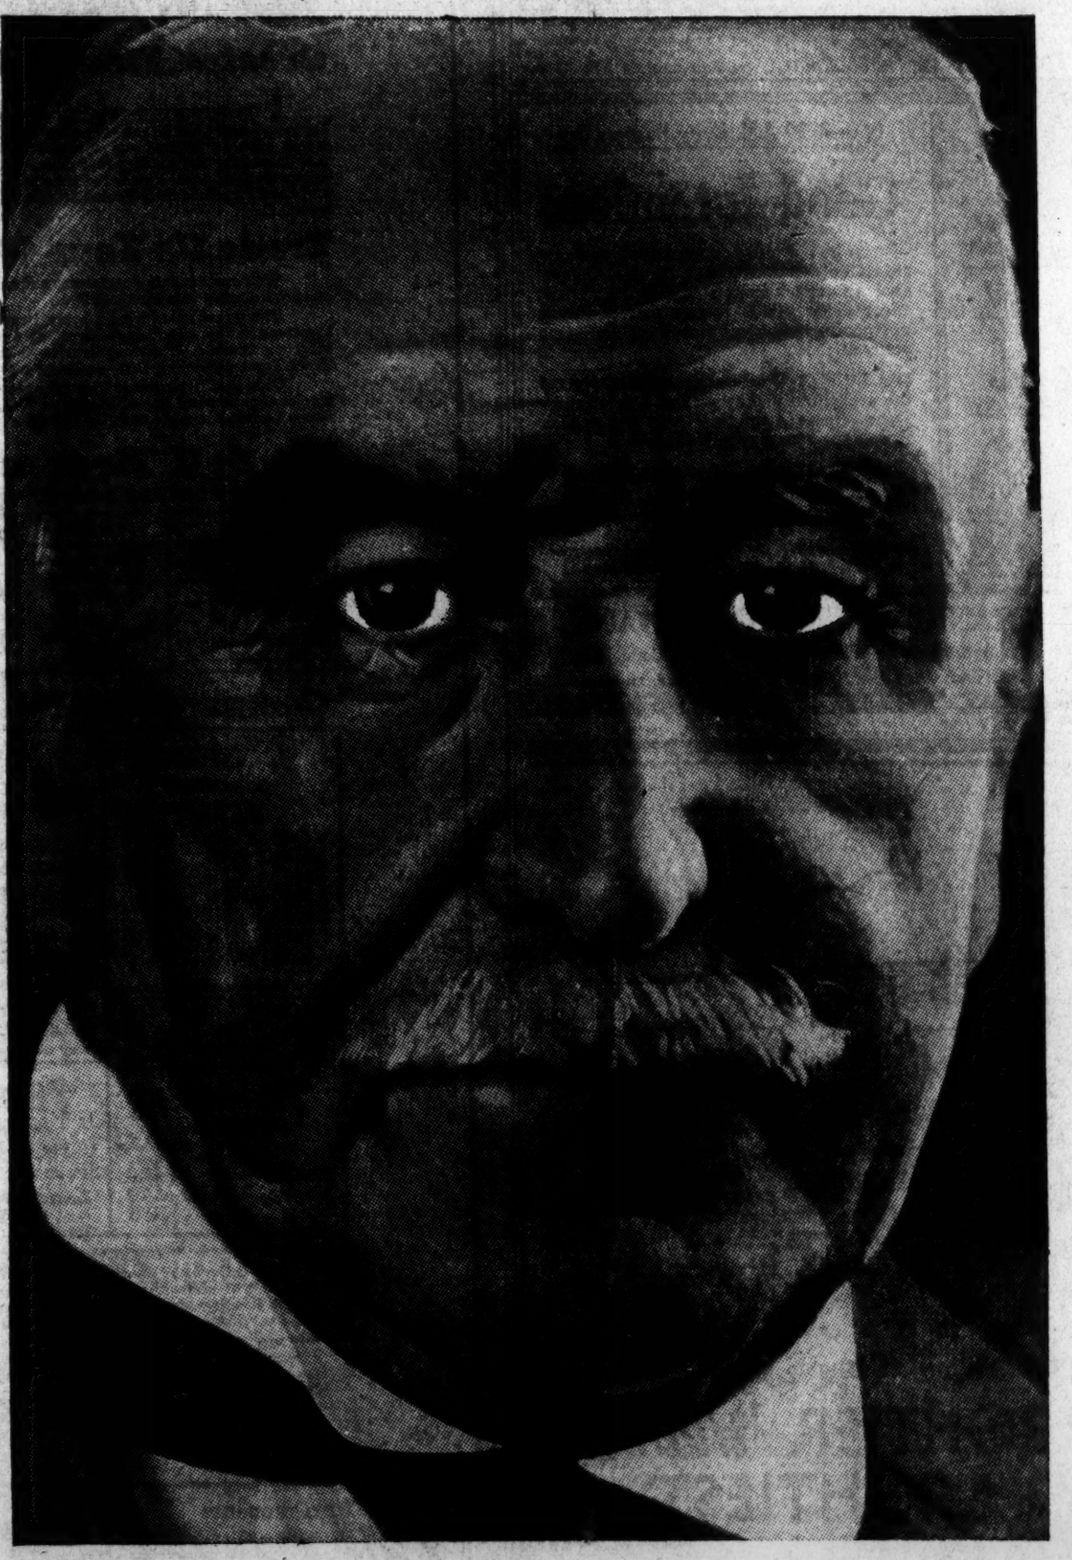
"AN ACCOMPLISHMENT WROUGHT IN THE FINEST TRADITIONS"



Says
WILLIAM L. WARD

President of Russell Burdsall & Ward Bolt and Nut Company
Director of the First National Bank of Portchester

"Patient research—that factor has characterized nearly every great scientific achievement, and the more public spirited the enterprise the more careful it is to insure successful results. Anyone who reads about your modern use of the Ultra Violet Ray in the 'Toasting' of the LUCKY STRIKE tobaccos cannot fail to recognize the long patient research and experiment that must have preceded it. I regard your development as an accomplishment wrought in the finest traditions."

William L. Ward

Consistent with its policy of laying the facts before the public, The American Tobacco Company has invited Mr. William L. Ward to review the reports of the distinguished men who have witnessed LUCKY STRIKE'S famous Toasting Process. The statement of Mr. Ward appears on this page.

LUCKY STRIKE—the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so TOASTING removes harmful irritants that cause throat irritation and coughing. No wonder 20,679 physicians have stated LUCKIES to be less irritating! Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why TOASTING includes the use of the Ultra Violet Ray.

COMMODITY PRICES TO BE CUT, FORECAST

Return to Normalcy Seen by Speaker at Chain Store Session.

BAITERS ARE ASSAILED

Chicago, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Lower commodity prices and a rise in the purchasing power of the dollar were forecast by officers today as the National Chain Store Association met for its annual convention.

R. W. Lyons, executive vice president, said that the end of financial depression could be brought about only through the cooperation of retail interests in restoring public confidence.

"It is generally conceded by industry as a whole that the present economic situation was brought about by the policy of many manufacturing and distributing organizations in attempting to maintain commodity prices at fictitiously high levels."

Normalcy will be the result of the inevitable reaction to facts and values, he declared.

Silas A. Strawn, Chicago attorney, told the committee that baiting of chain stores has now become the public hobby.

"Having exhausted their ingenuity in nagging the railroads, the public utilities, the boards of trade and a few other factors in our social progress, that ever-busy trio commonly known as 'Tom, Dick and Harry,' are now devoting their attention to baiting chain stores," he said.

"Tom," he explained is a merchant who has failed, "Dick" is a statesman, who "probably owes Tom a bill," and "Harry" is the "local economist who predicts dire results because of the growth of the chain store."

Classes Reduced In Night Schools

Subjects Are Also Limited to Cut Expenditure Per Pupil.

The number of classes and subjects in some night schools will be reduced this year so that there may be a more efficient distribution of funds on the basis of cost per pupil, it was revealed yesterday by Walter B. Patterson, assistant superintendent in charge of special schools.

Every effort will be made to reduce the cost per pupil in the neighborhood night schools, it was learned from Mr. Patterson. In accordance with this new policy, the Conduit Road Night School will have classes two nights a week instead of three as formerly. Subjects and classes will be regulated at other night schools in accordance with the enrollment.

The total night school appropriation for this year is $95,000. The white schools get 55.5 per cent of this money and the colored schools the balance. The night schools are due to open October 6. Night schools that have shown the best attendance in the past are the Business, McKinley and Hine.

director of the Boys' Club in the same society.

Miss Marr's attendant was Mrs. John T. Hill. Ardela Sissell was the flower girl. The bride was married in a traveling suit of wistaria blue crepe with a matching hat. Mrs. Hill's costume was of orchid crepe and with it she wore a wide-brimmed straw hat. The tiny flower girl wore a frock of buff organdie made in colonial style and carried an old-fashioned bouquet.

Dr. John T. Hill was the best man.

Mr. Palmer and his bride left for Atlantic City immediately after the ceremony. They will make their home in Washington.

The first secretary of the Polish Embassy, Mr. Victor Podoski, who has been abroad for two months, will arrive in New York October 12 on the S. S. Lafayette. Mr. Podoski spent six weeks traveling in Poland and then went to Moscow for a short visit with friends whom he had known when he was stationed there several years ago.

From Moscow Mr. Podoski went to Paris for a few days and then to London, where he was one time military attache.

Miss Laura Palmer, daughter of Admiral and Mrs. Leigh C. Palmer, of New York and Washington, sailed yesterday with her mother for a trip to South Africa on the new motor liner, City of New York. Plans for her debut, both here and in New York, will be completed upon their return. Her New York debut probably will be during the Christmas holidays at Sherry's.

Mrs. Arthur Wallace Dunn, wife of Lieut. Comdr. Dunn, is in Washington from Newport, where she passed the summer, and is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic D. McKenney, at their summer home in Kensington. Mrs. Dunn will leave shortly for Charleston, S. C., to join Commander Dunn until he comes to Washington for duty some time in November.

Lady Broderick, wife of the Commercial Counselor of the British Embassy, has returned to her apartment at Wardman Park Hotel.

Lord Marks, of London, England, has taken a suite at the Carlton where he will remain for several days.

Mrs. W. Brewster Hall and daughter, Miss Doris Hall, of Syracuse, N. Y., are guests at the Powhatan.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer A. Riggins, of South Bend, Ind., are at the Dodge Hotel for several days after passing some time in Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Merle Cochran are guests of the Martinique, having recently arrived from Paris where Mr. Cochran has been American Consul for the past three years. He is here for duty at the State Department.

Mr. and Mrs. Madison Bentley, of Ithaca, N. Y. have come to Washington for the winter and will be at the Potomac Park apartments.

After a summer spent in Fontainbleau, near Paris, Mr. G. W. O'Connor, instructor at St. Albans School, has returned to Washington.

Lieut. Col. K. Teramoto, assistant military attache to the Japanese Embassy, entertained a number of guests at a dinner party Sunday evening in the crystal room at the Willard.

Mrs. George Lewis Returns to New York.

Mrs. George Chase Lewis and daughters, Miss Flora Louise Lewis and Miss Virginia June Lewis, who returned early in the summer from a world cruise, have left for New York after spending a few days in Washington, where they formerly lived, occupying the house at 2140 Wyoming avenue. Col. and Mrs. Lewis have taken an apartment at 12 East Eighty-sixth street, New York, where Col. Lewis is now stationed. The Misses Lewis will attend the Brearly School in New York.

During their trip abroad Mrs. Lewis and her daughters were entertained by the former Minister of Egypt and Mme. Samy Pasha at their villa on the Nile.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar N. Snow have returned to town from Asheville, N. C., where they were called by the serious illness of their young son, Lee Overman Snow, who was visiting Mr. Snow's mother. Happily he is now quite recovered and will shortly return to school.

MIGHTIER than the MIGHTIEST WALL - - -

THREE hundred thousand men labored for fifteen years to build the mightiest of man's structures, the Great Wall of China. A masterpiece of engineering, it was erected as a barrier of protection from invasion, but it was also a barrier to communication.

TODAY, across America stretches the masterpiece of modern engineering—the network of telephone lines—not a barrier to, but a means of communication that enables you to talk from your own home to people in distant cities throughout the country as easily and as clearly as across the street. You simply give the city and telephone number you want to your operator and while you hold the line you're there.

MISS MYSTERIOUS - - - By LARRY LAWRENCE

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

Thelma Townley, affectionately called Babe by her friends at the university, is given a terrific shock when she gets a letter from her guardian, Clement Forseith, saying that he has lost all her money and is going to take his own life. The letter adds that her name is not Townley, and predicts that she will never learn her real identity. Babe tells this to her chum, Violet. A handsome young man, who calls himself Morgan, proposes to her, saying that he knows of her trouble. She suspects him of having a selfish motive, but does not know what it is, thinking that she is penniless. Peter Jones, Milwaukee senior, begs Babe to marry him, but she refuses, feeling that she has no right to marry until she has learned her identity. She is kidnaped. Pete rescues her. While in Milwaukee seeking work, a man, who gives the name of Mac, offers her a strange job. She accepts, meets Morgan at a gambling dive, and goes with him to his apartment. He tells her that Forseith is not dead, and she suspects that he is the man who is trying to capture her, but can not guess the reason. Morgan attempts to hold her in his arms, and Babe accidentally shoots him. Mac arrives at this moment, sees that Morgan is not seriously wounded, searches and finds two old brooches that had been stolen from Babe. She now realizes that she is in love, and can't tell whether she loves Mac or Pete the more, and is worried for fear she has inherited a moral taint from her unknown parents. It only strengthens her resolution to learn her identity. Mac reveals his peculiar game. He is seeking vengeance on a man who murdered some one dear to him many years ago. Babe tells her story, and they realize that the man Mac seeks is Forseith, her guardian and the man suspected of plotting against her. In order to get a line on Forseith, she feigns amnesia, and is arrested and held for mental observation. Forseith tries to get her out of the Emergency Hospital. Pete and Violet rescue her from the police, and Pete and Mac see that they are rivals. Mac is captured by a member of Forseith's gang and taken to the hideout of a Chicago gangster, where Forseith is staying. Babe finds the place, and is hurt in a wreck. Pete helps her, and they come near to love and an understanding, but when she insists on going to Mac, they quarrel. She runs away, and goes alone into the gangster's lodge. Mac is being tortured when she arrives. She is held prisoner. The gangster known as Scareye and the Boss is full of whisky. He fears that a rival gangster is trying to kill him. Forseith attempts to take a pistol from Lugo, drunken bodyguard of the Boss.

In the fight that follows Mac escapes his bonds, gets hold on Forseith's throat and nearly chokes him to death, trying to make him give up the secret of Babe's parentage. The Boss lumbers into the room, wild-eyed, and starts shooting.

The Boss in a fit of insanity shoots Forseith, who, dying, tells Babe her father was a brave good man. He gasps, "Money . . . brooches" and dies. Babe sets a doctor, the Boss and his guard escape, and Mac and Babe await the coming of police.

Pete and Violet find them and Babe tries to get them away before police arrive. Police arrive but fail. They are taken to jail.

CHAPTER XXXI.

Babe spent that night in jail. But it was not as bad as being locked in a cell. She was given a room in the sheriff's quarters. The sheriff's wife was kind to her. She said, "You're not under arrest. They just want to be sure you are here for the inquest."

Violet and Pete had seen her for a short time. Pete had seemed to be suffering but he said nothing of his father. Babe didn't ask. Mac had not talked much. He seemed buried in thought. Babe tried several times to comfort him until at last he had been taken away.

For most of that long night Babe had remained awake, minutely going over in her mind the details of the last month. She had found love only to lose it.

Pete had not mentioned his father. She knew what that meant. His father had refused to help her or Pete would have been jubilant. He would have told her all about his plans. Her feminine mind had hit upon the true state of affairs. She knew that Pete had been ordered to forget her. She also knew that he would not do it. Well, then it was up to her to make him forget her. How could she do this? By snubbing him? By telling him that she had been wrong? By telling him that she did not love him?

Could she do this now after all she had suffered? It would have been easier a few days ago when she was fighting with herself, not knowing whom she loved. But now that she knew she loved Pete more certainly than she had ever known anything else in life, she also knew that the only thing she could do was renounce him. The knowledge left a pain in her heart that nothing could heal she felt. At last the night ended. She had breakfast with the sheriff's wife. This good woman tried to be comforting.

"They can't do a thing to you, child," she said. "I've heard all about it from my husband. You poor child." This well meant kindness made Babe cry a little but she quickly dried her eyes. It was courage she needed now, not self-sympathy. She had almost forgotten the inquest in thinking of the sacrifice she must make. Pete did not come to the jail that morning but she knew she would see him at the inquest and planned to tell him that she had changed her mind, that she did not love him. That would be the bravest thing she ever did. It would be best for him. Somehow she knew this was the only honorable thing she could do.

But at the inquest she had no chance to speak to him alone. There he was, sitting with Violet. Babe was seated at the front of the room. Mac was with her. Mac whispered now, "Tell everything. Don't evade a question. Don't try to shield me." Mac was a sterling friend. She was grateful to him for those words but glad that he no longer thought he loved her. She knew in her heart that Violet loved him and was glad. There was the doctor who had seen Forseith die. Now he was testifying. He looked at Babe. She thought she saw a challenge in his eyes but he told the whole truth. He said that the dying man had made a statement declaring that he had killed himself by accident but pointed out that this was impossible because of the position of the wound. He told of fingerprints on the neck but testified that strangulation had not caused death or even been a contributing factor. Babe was glad he had put that in.

Then she was called. As she took the stand she saw Sammy, the reporter. She shuddered to think of all the publicity that was certain to come to her. Now she was talking. It was not as difficult to tell of the shooting as she had feared it would be.

Pete's eye did not leave her all the time she was on the stand. He seemed to be reaching out to her, trying to help her, but this only added to the dull, heavy grief that held her heart as in a vise, slowly squeezing the life out of her.

Mac followed Babe on the stand. His story was identical with hers. No one else was called. They waited in the room while the jury retired to discuss the evidence. Two deputies were there as if they were still prisoners.

The jury soon reached a verdict. Forseith came to his death by a gunshot wound from a weapon held in the hand of a person known only to the jury as Scareye and the Boss.

The district attorney told Babe that she was free, but warned her that she might be wanted at any time to give information; that she would be wanted to testify against Scareye when he was caught. He said that a warrant charging him with murder had been issued and that Chicago police had been notified. He spoke as if they would soon have him under arrest.

Mac was also free. When the attorney was advising him not to leave the State and telling him to be in readiness to testify against Scareye he smiled. "Your courts will never try that man," he prophesied.

Pete and Violet met them at the door. Violet clung to Mac's arm. Pete tried to embrace Babe. She held him off. He looked startled.

"Why, Babe, I thought—I thought ——"

She shook her head. Life seemed unbearable to her then. But she would not weaken. She had to return to Milwaukee, start all over, and now even the object of her search was gone. She felt as if she had nothing left to live for. Just a long, dreary vista ahead. She could tell Pete now, but she said nothing. Her words and actions seemed to come from outside of her. There was no real life inside. She felt as if she were nothing more than a machine, an old rusty machine.

Pete went for his car. They all got in to drive to Milwaukee. Pete at the wheel trying to pour out his love to her seemed far away.

She tried to think of other things she must do. There was the rented car. She must pay for the damage to that. She wondered if the company had recovered it yet. She must find work somehow. And go on through life, earning her own living without the man she loved. She had already caused him enough trouble and grief. She would not bring him more trouble.

They were in Milwaukee. Pete drove her to her hotel. She would not permit him to come to her room that they might talk alone. Mac had gone to his hotel. Violet had openly kissed him good-by. Babe was glad that they seemed happy. She marveled at the lack of conflict there had been before a perfect understanding had come to each of them. Why was she cursed with such misfortune?

Pete telling her good-by had seemed so sick at heart. She knew the feeling, knew the cause. That night she cried a little. Early the next morning she went alone to the car-renting company. She was glad there was some one thing she had to do at once. She took all of her money with her, expecting to have to pay a large sum for the damage to the car. The agency manager got out his bill.

It was nearly $100. The manager said the car had been reported and towed in. Babe was glad it had not cost more. She still had some money left and she hoped it would last until she found a job.

As she returned to the hotel she told herself that she must move at once, find a cheap place to live. That would be something else to occupy her mind for a time. Back in her room she surveyed herself in a mirror. Wan looking, she decided, but presentable. Her phone rang. Who could it be? She hoped it was Pete and then hoped that it was not. She was not ready yet to tell him that he must forget her.

"This is Mr. Jones. May I see you?"

"Yes," she answered, then sank down on the bed. One more ordeal. Why did he have to make life more miserable for her?

A tall, carefully dressed man of about 50 was at her door. Pete's father. Yes, Pete looked a little like him.

"Come in." Her voice was flat, colorless. She knew it. The experiences of the last few days had taken something from her.

"I have come to talk to you about my boy," the man began.

"Yes. Be seated," was her unemotional rejoinder. He sat down, put his derby on his knees. She remained standing.

"Now, you sit down, please," he urged. She obeyed. There were several newspapers on the bed. They all had headlines about the murder. They all had her picture. She faced them and wished they were not there.

Mr. Jones did not seem at ease, she noticed. Certainly she was not comfortable.

"My son tells me that he wants to marry you," he started again. Babe did not reply but waited for him to go on.

"Well, he can't do it. You can't have him. Do you understand?"

"Yes." Babe replied and there was almost no emotion in her voice. She had known that the wealthy, socially prominent Jones family would have none of her. This was not news to her. She had prepared herself for it through suffering.

"You do understand then?" he asked. His tone showed that he had not expected an easy victory.

"Yes."

"I am willing to pay you."

"No." Now she was sufficiently animated.

"Do you think I put a price on love?" she shouted at him. "I want nothing."

"Oh—ah—eh." Mr. Jones cleared his throat.

"You are a sensible girl. I thought you were a common, cheap, adventuress. I fear I did you wrong. But I would be glad to leave you a little check."

"No. Good-by."

"I want you to understand all this from our point of view."

"I said good-by."

"His mother, you know, has not been well. She could never consent to him marrying a girl who had—ah—eh—became unfortunately involved in such sensational news." Mr. Jones was now a little ashamed of his errand. He had seen that Babe was not a fortune hunter or gold digger. He had seen that she had spunk and he admired her for it.

"I said before that I understand." Babe spoke quite sharply and distinctly now. Her anger put a sting in the words. "I meant what I said. I had decided before you came that I would not marry your son and bring disgrace on him. You have insulted me with your offer of money. I did not think that Pete's father would do a thing like that. A moment ago I bade you good-by. I meant that, too. I love Pete. I have never really loved anyone else. I—— I——" Her anger had subsided and now her throat was choked with tears. She started again but words would not come. Sobs shook her body. Mr. Jones arose and stood turning his hat in his hand. His victory had lost its flavor. He was sorry for her. She paid no more attention to him. Then he walked out of the room.

Babe did not know how long she sobbed. She had dropped to the bed, face downward, after Mr. Jones had gone. Time seemed to have stopped. Everything had stopped but grief.

When she looked up Pete was standing beside her, holding out his arms. Now she must tell him to leave and never see her again. Could she?

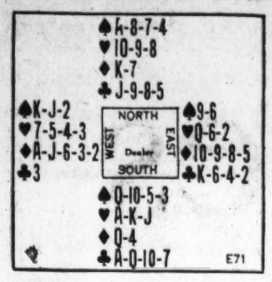
Health Means Clear Skin

"For nine years I was troubled with acne. I tried everything I could think of and everything people told me but it didn't do any good. Last winter a nurse where I was working told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to build up my system from the inside, so I did. When I had taken three bottles my face was 95% better. I kept on and now I haven't a single pimple on my face, chest or back."—Mary L. Heinitz, Carrington, North Dakota.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

WORK ON BRIDGE

COULD YOU HAVE DONE BETTER.



The above hand is an example of how a thoughtless play may result disastrously.

Playing Contract Bridge, South, with a count of 19 and four suits stopped, bid two No Trumps; and North, with a count of 8, bid three. At Auction Bridge South would bid one No Trump, which would not be overcalled.

The Trey of Diamonds was the original lead, and it was passed up to the Queen in the closed hand. Declarer then got in the dummy by the only possible way; viz, the Ace of Spades. Then the Club Jack was led. East ducked, and South played the Ten. Next dummy's Nine of Clubs was played and held the trick, East ducking again and South playing the Seven. A third Club lead from dummy, and South's Ace and Queen captured all the Clubs; then two Hearts were led by South, but the Queen did not fall, and consequently the adversaries took the remaining tricks.

Could you have done better?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

When the Trey of Diamonds was led, there was a slightly better chance that the leader held the Ace than that East held it; consequently dummy's King of Diamonds should have been played in the hope of winning the trick in the dummy, thereby enabling Declarer to make two leads instead of one therefrom. When the King won, the Clubs should have been played exactly as above described; and then the Ace of Hearts. Next dummy should have been put in with a Spade to try the Heart finesse which, as it happened, would produce game.

COTTAGE CHEESE CAKE.
(Bureau of Dairy Industry.)

1½ cupfuls cottage cheese.
1 tablespoonful butter.
¼ teaspoonful vanilla.
2-3 cupful milk.
1 tablespoonful cornstarch.
2-3 cupful sugar.
2 eggs.

Blend the cheese, butter, salt and vanilla until smooth. Mix the milk and cornstarch and bring to a boil, stirring to prevent lumping or sticking. Add the sugar to the cooked milk and cornstarch and heat. Pour the hot milk mixture over the slightly beaten eggs, stirirng thoroughly, and heat to a custard consistency. Add the cottage cheese mixture to the custard and pour into a deep baking dish which has previously been lined with shortcake dough. Bake until crust is done and slightly browned.

INDOOR AND OUTDOOR GARDENS

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me when to gather the flowers from the everlasting plants for winter bouquets. Also, please tell me the name of the vine of which I am inclosing a leaf.

MRS. H. S.

Cut when buds are about to open and hang flowers down to the rafters of a sunny cellar. The buds will then unfold and the flowers be free from dust. I am sorry, but I do not know the leaf you inclosed.

Please tell me the name of the inclosed blossom. I took it from a shrub.

MRS. P. F.

Anthony Waterer spirea.

The inclosed leaves were taken from a vine growing about my porch. Please examine the leaves and tell me the remedy for the disease which has attacked it.

J. L. V.

Better spray the vine with Bordeaux mixture. Spray now and again in late fall and early spring. The vine has been attacked by a fungoid disease.

I am inclosing a petal and a leaf from a lily which at present has four blossoms on it. Please tell me the name of the plant and whether it is hardy.

MRS. G. W.

The leaf resembled the leaf of a funkia. The petal, not being wrapped in waxed paper, was merely a smear of yellow when it arrived, so that I can not tell anything about it. The funkia is quite hardy.

Please tell me if the following flowers are perennial: Snapdragons, carnations, asters, cosmos, marigolds and gladiolas.

PATSY ANNE.

Some varieties of asters and some varieties of carnations are perennial, the remaining varieties are annuals.

Is it advisable to plant annual seed in the open ground in the late fall?

F. S. I.

No, better wait until spring to do this work.

Please tell me the plant from which the inclosed leaves were taken. Also tell me how to rid plants of small white flies.

MARY S. H.

The leaves resembled those at the terminal ends of magnolia shoots. Better spray your plants with cold, soapy water, and if this does not prove effectual use a nicotine spray. In either case you will have to make frequent applications of the insecticide.

Please tell me how to control the disease which has attacked my vine. I have used Bordeaux mixture and nicotine, but the disease is spreading, though the plant is growing and seemingly healthy in other respects. When cutting down lilies how much of the stalk do you remove? When do you do this work? Please tell me how to increase the size of the blossom on delphiniums. My plants are all choice varieties from reliable growers. I have spent a great deal of money and energy on them and yet the flowers are poor.

OLIVE M. W.

If you care to write again inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope we shall be glad to send you a circular containing a formula for a garden spray which has been prepared for readers of this column. If used as directed this spray should check the disease which is attacking your vine. Do not remove lily stalks until you are sure the blubs are ripe. When all the foliage has turned yellow cut off the stalks close to the ground. There is a small English book on delphiniums which should be in the library of every lover of larkspur in America. As a rule due to climatic conditions, an English book on a horticultural subject is of little use to American gardeners, but the delphinium book is an exception. If you care to know the name of this book I shall be glad to tell you.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

Boyd and Connor Plan Hop to England Today

Harbor Grace, N. F., Sept. 29 (A.P.). Capt. J. Erroll Boyd and his navigator, Lieut. Harry Connor, will hop off for Croydon, England, in the monoplane Columbia tomorrow morning if the weather is favorable, they said today.

The Columbia will not be refueled until immediaetly before departure. The fliers had the plane in the air for an hour yesterday.

Macaroni and Vegetable Salad.

1 package Elbow macaroni (cooked)
3 tablespoons onion (chopped).
3 tablespoons pickles (chopped).
3 tablespoons olives (chopped).
1 cup carrots (chopped and cooked).
1 cup peas (cooked).
1 teaspoon salt.
1 head lettuce.

Combine the cooked macaroni with onion, pickles, olives, carrots, peas and mayonnaise, tossing together lightly with a fork. Add the salt. Arrange the mixture on crisp lettuce leaves.

Prices realized on Swift and Co. sales of carcass beef in Washington, D. C., for week ending Saturday, September 27, 1930, on shipments sold out ranged from 11.00 cents to 21.00 cents per pound and averaged 16.70 cents per pound.—Adv.

Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

Paris, Sept. 29.

ONE must be very tall and perfectly slender, although the latter is not imperative, in order to carry well a lot of fur-trimming on a coat. This is the reason I'm sure, why garments which would otherwise lend themselves beautifully to a half dozen or so foxes for trimming—such as evening coats which could have a lavish fur border at the hem which extended itself all the way up the front, a huge collar, and enormous cuffs—are seldom seen anywhere except at the Maisons du Couture and on the stage and screen.

The very huge fox fur collars, however, made often of three or four skins, are not so difficult to wear, and very flattering. But to carry such a collar well, a woman must hold her head proudly, not sink it into the fur.

And, any way you look at it, fur trimming is oldish, except the little flat furs. If you must have fur for elegance, and you have clear-cut features, or a young face and figure, use the fur at hem and cuffs, and flatter your pretty face with a scarf collar, or a tiny, upright one, rather than soften it with a huge collar.

A pretty foot has always been a great social asset. There was a time when a Lovely Lady had a pretty foot or she didn't, and if the latter was the case, it was just too bad. But no longer! Today she either has a pretty foot or she gets one.

By that I mean, of course, that any woman today can have graceful feet if she but takes certain exercises that will strengthen ankles inclined to turn, or to give the foot a higher arch or a more pleasing instep.

But most important of all, she can dress her foot in a way to give it the most symmetrical line, and minimize an ungraceful one.

* * * *

There just is something about Heim coats! That something has a real reason for being, as I have told you elsewhere, and that real reason makes them what they are in smartness and in lines that fall easily around the feminine figure and flatter it.

The coat from this house that I have illustrated for you today is an example of Heim cleverness in the way the little back bolero is cut and falls right from the material that makes the body of the coat, and in the way the astrakhan is used for trimming—used to follow the line of the cut of the material.

Two new underskirts, or costume slips, as they used to be called. And a third one especially designed for evening dresses that have very little back bodice. That's what this week's illustrated leaflet tells you how to make, and easily. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post if you would like to have two new Paris underskirts in your wardrobe.

Vita-Minute Messages make sales at the Breakfast Table

"SNAP judgment" may have fallen into disrepute in the world of business—but it still is the method by which nearly all personal buying plans and expenditures are decided. During the few short minutes of the breakfast hour you make your plans for the day, solve your personal problems, and decide on many important personal purchases. And it works!

But, why shouldn't it? These first waking hours are the Vita-Minute hours—when the mind, refreshed by a good night's sleep, functions most quickly and accurately. The hurry and distraction of business affairs have not yet taken the edge off its keenness. Decisions made then prove sound, and mental impressions received are lasting.

That is why sales messages presented at the breakfast table—during the Vita-Minutes of the day—produce the highest returns in actual sales. And it also is why national advertisers and local merchants, alike, select The Post to carry their sales messages to the rich Washington territory.

The Post reaches its readers during the Vita-Minutes. It "sits in" on the daily purchasing decisions of the families that do most of the buying in Washington stores. (That's fact, not estimate.) And its reading extends into the surrounding prosperous counties.

To make your advertisements Vita-Minute Messages, place them in The Post.

THE CAPITAL'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

UTILITY FIRM BOOK VALUE CHALLENGED

Federal Trade Group Expert Sees Overestimate of $19,000,000.

(Associated Press.)

An accountant of the Federal Trade Commission testified yesterday that in organization of the present Carolina Power and Light Co., of Raleigh, N. C., capital assets had been entered on the books at a figure approximately $19,000,000 more than was supported by appraised valuation.

Carl H. Depue, the accountant, said: "During the years 1926 to 1928, inclusive, the company increased its facilities to the extent of over $20,000,000 and the total book value thereof December 31, 1928, was approximately $85,000,000.

"That total, however, includes an increase over predecessor companies' book value (unsupported by an appraisal or other evidence found), amounting to approximately $19,000,000, and it also includes over $3,000,000 of discounts, premiums, commissions and expenses in connection with the redemption of stocks and bonds of the present Carolina Power & Light Co. and its predecessors or constituent companies."

His testimony was received as the commission resumed its investigation into the activities of power companies. Although a number of the officers of the Carolina company were present, only commission witnesses were called. Robert E. Healy, chief counsel of the commission, directed the inquiry.

Robert J. Ryder, of the commission's economic division, the first witness, testified that in the three-year period, 1926-1929, seven of the fourteen directors of the Carolina Power & Light Co. were affiliated with the Electric Bond & Share Co. He added that since the organiaztion of the Carolina company in 1926 its operations were supervised by Electric Bond & Share.

Mr. Depue said that the Carolina company had contracted for services from the Electric Bond & Share, and that he was directed to be prepared today to discuss supervision fees charged by Bond & Share.

Guggenheim Funeral Rites to Be Held Today

New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Funeral services for Daniel Guggenheim, mining magnate, philanthropist and donor of the $2,500,000 Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics, will be held tomorrow afternoon at Temple Emanuel.

Mr. Guggenheim, who had been ill since his return from Europe two weeks ago, died yesterday of heart disease at his home near Port Washington, Long Island. He was 74 years old. Burial will be at Salem Field Cemetery in Brooklyn.

Stedman Post Aspirant Will Be Chosen Today

Hillsboro, N. C., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Charles H. Robertson, chairman, today called a meeting of the Fifth District Democratic executive committee for tomorrow, to nominate a candidate to serve Representative Charles M. Stedman's unexpired term in Congress.

A successor to Maj. Stedman, who died last Tuesday, will be elected November 4. The district Republican executive committee has not announced when it will nominate a candidate.

Washington, Monday, Sept. 29—8 p. m.

Forecast—For the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia—Fair Tuesday and Wednesday; little change in temperature; gentle winds, mostly north.

The northern disturbance continues to move slowly east-northeastward over Quebec and the Hudson Strait region, Father Point, 29.80 inches, and the Alaskan disturbance has reached the Arctic coast, Point Barrow, 29.40 inches. Pressure remains low from Montana and Idaho southward to the Gulf of California, Tonopah, Nev., 29.60 inches, and it is relatively low over the eastern Gulf of Mexico, Key West, Fla., 29.90 inches. Pressure is high elsewhere over North America and the Greenland-Iceland area, with principal centers over Greenland, Angmagsalik, 30.42 inches, and Manitoba, Winnipeg, 30.36 inches. There have been rains within the last 24 hours in portions of the Pacific States, Arizona, and from Arkansas and eastern Texas eastward to the Atlantic Coast, and in Ontario and Quebec, while the weather has continued fair in all other sections. The temperature has fallen in the Atlantic and East Gulf States, the interior of California and the Plateau region, and it has risen from New Mexico eastward over Oklahoma and the interior of Texas.

The weather will be generally fair, without material change in temperature, during the next two days in the Washington forecast district, except for local showers in the Florida peninsula on Tuesday.

Teacher-Aviatrix And Pilot Marry

Hagerstown Girl Becomes Bride of Man Who Instructed Her.

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., Sept. 29.—Already business partners in operation of the Hagerstown airport, Helen Cox, Hagerstown's flying school teacher and one of the twenty-odd female pilots who hold transport flying licenses, and Robert J. Clohecy, veteran test pilot, decided to become partners for life, so they went to Frederick, Md., yesterday and were married at the Lutheran parsonage by the Rev. U. S. G. Rupp.

The romance started when Mr. Clohecy taught Miss Cox to fly while she was still teaching school here. After she had received a license, she became flying hostess at the Greensburg, Pa., airport where Mr. Clohecy was test pilot.

Recently they came to Hagerstown and took over the airport, which they have been operating. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nesbitt Cox, Hagerstown, and the bridegroom's home was in Masontown, Pa.

YOU ARE PAYING
NEW PACKARD EIGHT
Why not own one?

AGAIN this year the story of the new Packard Eight is not a sensational one. Packard did not reach its world leadership among fine car manufacturers by sensational means.

The story of the new Packard Eight is the sound and sensible story of a fine car made even finer. That is what Packard has been striving to do and has done each year for thirty years. But no new Packard of recent years has embodied so many refinements and improvements as this one.

Eight years of successful eight-in-line experience result in a powerplant and chassis it now seems impossible to further improve. Precision workmanship is protected by automatic lubrication. Packard designed and built bodies—beautiful with the grace of line always characteristically Packard—increased power, still better performance, still smoother and more quiet luxury of travel—these things distinguish the new car. They are worth experiencing.

But the greatest thing we offer you in a Packard is a sound conservative investment in truly fine transportation—an investment never depreciated by needless changes in design—a long-time investment in motor car satisfaction.

You are probably paying for the new Packard Eight whether you own one or not. If you drive a car of its size and power, we know you are and we can prove it. So why not own one? Operating costs are no greater for a Packard Standard Eight than for any other car of its size regardless of its list price. Depreciation on the Packard is actually less, for you like others will keep it far longer than you would any ordinary car.

Records show that Packard owners keep their cars nearly twice as long as the cars they traded in, and that the chances are nine out of ten that you, having once bought a Packard, will never buy any other make of car!

Allow us to figure your ownership cost for you without obligation. You may find that a new Packard Eight can be yours for a surprisingly small down and monthly payment. If your used car is of average value there may be no down payment necessary.

HOOVER WORDS READ AT SAFETY SESSION

Pittsburgh Congress Also Hears Radio Address by Australia Governor.

BALTIMORE IS HONORED

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Ways and means of staying alive in this era of industrial expansion and fast moving life were emphasized today at the opening of the National Safety Congress and Exposition.

Chief executives of two nations praised 7,000 safety workers assembled here for their efforts to reduce the countries accidental death toll of 97,000 lives and the economic loss which it represents.

Governor Lord Somer, of Sidney, Australia, opened the congress with an address broadcast by short-wave radio from Sidney and another message from President Hoover was read. Addresses by Miller McClintock, Harvard University and Maj. Harry Steere-Clark, Vancouver, B. C., urging that the safety program be made international were broadcast to Australia by the short wave station of KDKA, in Pittsburgh.

The message from President Hoover which was read by C. E. Pettibone, retiring president of the National Safety Council, said:

"I deeply appreciate the value of the work of the National Safety Council in efforts to prevent the frightful loss of human life due to preventable accidents in industry and elsewhere. The death by accidents of almost 100,000 persons in the United States is a challenge to the resourcefulness of the Nation to devise measures to eliminate this disastrous loss both of economic assets and of precious human values. Most of it is preventable and your educational campaigns to teach the methods of such prevention are worthy of praise."

Louis I. Dublin, statistician of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., New York, outlined to the congress the statistics of accidents in the United States during 1929, showing that among males accidents accounted for more deaths than anything else except heart disease.

Baltimore, Md., was awarded the "safest city" emblem. The only activity tonight was the annual ball.

Watermelon Blamed For Fatal Shotgun Row

Steele, S. Dak., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Angered, the authorities said, because guests at his farm home did not eat enough watermelon to suit him, August Waullan, 61, began shooting.

One of the charges from his shotgun struck Edmund G. Motl, 31, one of the guests, as he was stepping into his automobile with his 2-year-old baby in his arms, killing his instantly. The baby was unhurt. Other shots wounded Henry Etten, 30, and Carl Sonnenburg, 10. Waullen was arrested.

Behind the Screens

With DON B. REED

EVERY now and then old John Law, who, under ordinary circumstances is entitled to the respect of the people he guards, pulls one for the book by stepping beyond all rhyme and reason in enforcement of one of his innumerable statutes.

Old John did this yesterday when a warrant was sworn out against Rodney Collier, manager of the Rialto Theater on Ninth street, for operating after 11 o'clock on Sunday night. As the information comes to this department, Mr. Collier has since paid his $20 and the threat of long hours behind the bars has been removed.

Rule 786930 or two other numbers says that theaters in the District may operate only between the hours of 2 and 11 p. m. on Sundays. And all the managers of local houses arrange their schedules to meet the requirement, the last show winding up a few minutes before the zero hour.

But "All Quiet" now showing at the Rialto drew out plenty of people on Sunday. Instead of the three-minute intermissions between shows it required ten or twelve to get one crowd out and the next one in. So it happened that when 11 o'clock rolled around, the last show was not quite completed. Rather than halt the picture half-way, Rialto authorities finished showing the film, only to find themselves in the clutches of John Law. Personally, I hate to think what John Law might have had to do if the Rialto had stopped the picture promptly at 11.

Anyway, it gave Rodney Collier a chance to pull the snappiest advertising line of the new season—"We did so much business I was arrested."

According to a special dispatch from Tom Olsen, bearer of tidings from the Fox Theater, a special preview of "The Big Trail," Raoul Walsh's feature based on the history of the Oregon Trail, will be given Friday night at the White House. President Hoover, members of his family and a number of invited guests will get to see the new Fox picture through the arrangements made by Harley L. Clarke, Fox Film Corporation president, who recently was a luncheon guest of the President.

Congratulations are in order the next time you meet Saul Resnick, genial manager of the Washington United Artists Exchange. The reason is the arrival of Gloria Joan Resnick, just a couple of days old, at George Washington University Hospital, where Mrs. Resnick and the baby are reported as "doing splendidly."

It is with genuine regret that this notice of the departure of Sam Rubin gets into public print. Sam, as you probably know, has been handing out Loew propaganda for lo, these many months, but now leaves Washington to do a similar stunt for Publix houses in Detroit. I might break into tears, but then Sam might collapse from grief on his way to the metropolis of Fords, so instead I simply say "au revoir." Whatever that means.

I understand that after learning of the Rialto's sad experience with the law Sunday night, Mike Cullen, commander in chief of the Loew forces in the Capital, has prepared for eventualities with a sign reading, "It is now 11 o'clock. We must stop the picture. Please return at 1 o'clock and we will show the remainder of the feature. Thank you."

Just a tip for the weaker sex (that's a laugh). Through the medium of considerable press matter dropped on this desk by United Artists' favorite mailman, I learn that Gloria Swanson will wear no end of gorgeous creations in her picture, "What a Widow," which opens at the Columbia Saturday. Don't say I didn't warn you.

When Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians return to the city to play a week at the Earle, beginning Friday, I, for one, hope that their program has not changed so much that "Rhapsody in Blue," by Gerschwin, will be omitted. Do I hear a second to that motion?

Just by way of variety, R. K. O.-Keith's, beginning Saturday, will offer an unusual picture called "Africa Speaks." It is reported to be a sensation in New York, and deals with the Ibani tribes, big game hunting and wild animals galore. Those who have seen it declare it contains plenty of thrills, but I live right on the edge of the Rock Creek Park Zoo, so I ought to feel right at home.

Only 86 days until Christmas.

'Respirator Girl' Well On Road to Recovery

Chicago, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Frances McGann, Chicago's "respirator girl," today was reported to be making rapid strides toward recovery. The girl, who was placed in a breathing machine nineteen days ago when her lung muscles were paralyzed by infantile paralysis, is sleeping and eating well and breathed naturally for two six-minute periods when taken from the apparatus within the past 24 hours. The machine produces artificial respiration by alternating vacuum and pressure.

Attendants at the hospital, where Frances was a student nurse, said today her condition was better than at any time since September 11, when she was stricken.

Wife of Josef Hofmann Is Mother of New Son

New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—A son was born last night to Mrs. Betty Short Hofmann, wife of Josef Hofmann, concert pianist. It is their second son. Their first, Anton, is 5 years old.

Hofmann was married to his beautiful protege in 1924, after his divorce from his first wife, Mrs. Marie Corcoran Eustis Hofmann. The pianist is 54 and his wife is 23.

Thief Gets $1 From 11 Safes.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—An optimistic yegg, going in for quantity production, pried open eleven safes along Speer boulevard. The reward for his night of industry was $1—counting two Canadian quarters.

JELLEFF'S STORE DELIGHTS THRONGS

New F Street Display Draws Crowd of Enthusiasts to Establishment.

THEATER IS IMPRESSIVE

The many visitors to last night's formal opening of the new store of Frank R. Jelleff, Inc., were impressed with the gem of a little theater, on the seventh floor, the first of its kind to make its appearance in any local business establishment.

A pretentious program of styles featured the evening under direction of Miss Eleanor Timminy, fashion expert from Frank R. Jelleff's Paris office. Society girls acted as mannequins. Informal promenades went on in every department throughout the store, and will continue through the week. Last night's show will be repeated today beginning at 12:30, with other interesting features scheduled for each day. A promenade of fur fashions will take place in the little theater Saturday afternoon.

The Jelleff Building now comprises seven stories, three additional floors, with elaborate changes in interiors and furnishing throughout. Modern art is the keynote of the scheme used. The second floor is done entirely in light maple woods, deep divans and chairs in dull rose and gold, panels in contrasting silks, indirectly lighted niches for the fashion figures. The fitting rooms are paneled in brocades with luxurious conveniences such as disappearing smoking paraphernalia and vanity equipment.

The rest room on the fourth floor excited enthusiastic appreciation of hundreds of guests. This room is elaborately appointed with mirrored walls, low lights, comfortable chairs and writing desks, all in the same color scheme adorning the second floor.

Beer Keg Accident Kills Man.

Chicago, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The bung of a keg of near beer blew out and struck Simon Langton, the bartender of an establishment in Monee, Ill., on the nose nine days ago. Today he died from the injury. Blood poisoning was the cause.

BANKING CONDITIONS IN HAVANA NORMAL

Governor of Federal Reserve in Atlanta Satisfied With Outlook.

NEW FUNDS NOT NEEDED

Havana, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—E. R. Black, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta, Ga., today announced that banking conditions are normal in Havana, and that the panic which followed upon the closing of two of Havana's banks Saturday had failed to last through the second day.

Mr. Black hurried here yesterday with $16,000,000 in cash to take care of any demands which might be made today of members of the Havana Clearing House.

He made $9,000,000 more available within a few hours and this, with $20,000,000 on hand in the local branch of the Federal Reserve, gave threatened banks extra cash resources of $45,000,000.

Late today Mr. Black said that none of the $16,000,000 brought here yesterday would be needed.

"I find banking conditions in Havana normal today," the Federal Reserve governor told the Associated Press. "Reports indicate that any excitement which may have prevailed there Saturday has subsided. "Our agency has ample funds in Havana. I do not anticipate the need or use of these funds. Havana banks have fully met the situation forced on them Saturday by the closing of the Bank of Commerce and a smaller institution.

"There is apparently every confidence on the part of depositors in Havana banks and the management of these banks feels that banking business in Havana and in the interior will proceed as usual. In this view I am glad to concur."

Former U. S. Envoy Better.

Paris, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Hugh C. Wallace, former United States Ambassador to France, who has been seriously ill with bronchitis and heart disease, was improved today. He left his bed for a couple of hours, but attending physicians said his convalescence would be slow.

Not Enough Money.

I WONDER how many people there are on earth today, who consider themselves happy if their only trouble was a lack of money, if they might wake up tomororw morning and have nothing on their minds, nothing weighing down their tired hearts but a shortage of money and the need to retrench. How many who are reading these lines would sing with joy and glad relief if they might change their cares and their heartaches for the problem that is making Martha "seriously consider divorce?" Will some of these hundreds write to Martha and tell her some of the things that other women are living through? Will you write and tell her why she should be glad and full of hope instead of filled with bitter resentment and destructive and unavailing rage? Life holds many forms of trouble. But shortage of money is not one of them. At most it is an annoying embarrassment, and an obstacle to be overcome. But it is not a thing to cause bitterness or rage as many a woman now wealthy and once poor will testify. Read Martha's letter, and help her if you can. Courage can sometimes be imparted if even a spark of it burns in the weakening spirit. Martha shows not even a spark, but that may be through lack of training. The spark may be there. Will some of the brave ones who are "carrying on" through thick and thin, fan the flickering flame with a few home truths?

Dear Miss McDonald: My religion forbids divorce, but I am seriously considering it just the same. I am married five years to a man who will never get anywhere, I feel sure. He has had three raises in five years. Is that enough? He says he knows his own business and that his future is right in the business where he is, but he must wait his chance. The owner is always handing him applesauce, sends us gifts at Christmas and wedding anniversary, &c., which I would like to return. He will spend $100 for a gift. Why not add that to the pay check? My husband's answer is that the boss can take what he likes out of his own pocket but is pledged to keep expenses down for a few years. We are still waiting for our honeymoon. They are too busy to spare my husband for more than a week, so no honeymoon.

Now when I married I had everything my heart desired, but my husband gets sore if I ask at home for money or things I want. Dad gave me a squirrel coat for my trousseau. I am still wearing it. I was promised a new one this winter, but am told now there will be no raises until "business picks up." I am sick of these alibis. And sick of doing without all the things that make life worth while. Right now I am in a state to do something I may regret. I can not feel the same toward my husband when he acts as if I should enjoy staying out of sight of my friends because I can not pay a lunch check. If I had known that marriage would be such a miserable experience I would never in the world have got into it. We can't afford anything I want, but my husband is still paying on stock he bought in the company. I want him to sell it to the boss or any one who will have it. He says plenty would love to have it, but it is not for sale. Do I count or don't I? I am so disgusted I can not sleep at night and when I wake in the morning I hate to see another day coming. We can not even have a maid. I do all my work and still have nothing. Last year was a little better, but now we are down again, and my husband's income is mostly bonus on business. Life is not worth living under such circumstances, and I feel like going back to my people and let him get a divorce or do what he likes.

I have thought of speaking to the owner of the business and asking him to buy out my husband's stock. Do you think it would do any good? I can not stand this another year. I would rather be dead.

MARTHA.

Now what do you think of Martha? And what do you thing of Martha's idea of marriage? And of life? What would Martha do if real trouble came along? Can you help her?

Vices Destroy Aborigines.

Melbourne, Australia, Sept. 29 (A. P.).—Prof. Radcliffe Brown, anthropologist at Sydney University, said here there would be no Australian aborigines a hundred years hence because these blacks, the most primitive human race, are being destroyed by vices of the whites.

STREET ANNOUNCES GRIMES AS OPENING PITCHER

Amateur Golf Attacked by Von Elm

Quits Ranks of Simon Pures, Charging Commercialism.

Does Not Call Self a Pro, But "Business Man" Golfer.

breaking match that went ten extra holes. He beat Jones for the championship at Baltusrol in 1926, in the final round.

"I have retired from amateur golf," he said in a formal statement today, "because competing in the American and British amateur and Walker Cup International match isn't worth the $10,000 a year it costs me.

"For ten years I've had Mr. stuck in front of my name and that insignia of amateurism has required more than $50,000 of hard earned money.

Business More Valuable Than Golf.

"I propose hereafter to play golf in such open events as I choose and on such occasions gamble my skill against the prize money. I want it understood at the same time that I have a business of greater value to me than I could ever hope to equal as a golf professional.

"It isn't nice to treat the subject of my amateur status in cold terms of dollars. The United States Golf Association's amateur championship is a highly organized commercial project. Fifty thousand dollars is paid in for the amateur show, while the 32 performers play their hearts out for honor and glory. Not a penny of that money is contributed by the U. S. G. A. to the expenses of the players. Tournament golf today is show business in a big way.

"The finger of suspicion points to many players of amateur golf today, but the show must go on and the U. S. G. A. is busy a good part of the time straining at gnats and swallowing camels.

No Longer an Amateur By the Rules.

"From this day henceforth I am no longer an amateur golfer as defined in the rules of the game. Neither am I a golf professional nor a professional golfer. I am not qualified by training of any kind to become a golf professional. I am simply a business-man golfer.

"If the money prizes in open tournament play are waiting when I post my scores, I shall treat the situation as I do any other situation in my business, where my income is involved. If the money doesn't meet the expense of competition, I shall thereafter give up tournament play altogether because I've reached the place in life where my business must come first."

$55,670 Tourney Gate Is Record for Amateur

Philadelphia, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The gate receipts for the national amateur golf championship tournament, played last week at the Merion Cricket Club and won by Bobby Jones, were $55,670, it was announced today.

This sets a new record for the event and surpasses the total for the United States open this year at Interlachen.

For the amateur, 3,091 six-day tickets were sold and 16,362 daily tickets. The crowds were considerably larger, however, because of the number of persons working in connection with the tournament and others who slipped in without paying.

ST. STEPHENS WORK OUT.

The St. Stephen's A. C., champions of the 150-pound section of the 1929 Capital City Football League and entrants this year in the unlimited division of the same league, will work out tonight at Seventeenth and B streets northwest.

Coach "Tex" Crouch, former Georgetown frosh luminary, requests all players to report at 7:30 o'clock. The Saints are seeking a game for next Sunday afternoon. Manager Malarkey can be reached at North 6642 any day between 5:30 and 6 p. m.

Club Costing Only $50,000 Led to Pennant by Street

Cardinals Demonstrate Successful Economic Methods; Haines, at $10,000, Costliest Player; "Farms" Provide Talent.

By E. K. BUTLER.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—That a pennant-winning baseball can be pieced together for less than $50,000 has been demonstrated by the St. Louis Cardinals, 1930 edition.

When Manager "Gabby" Street sends his team onto the field against the Philadelphia Athletics in the world series Wednesday the actual value of the players will me many times $50,000, but the original cost is under that sum.

Picking players young and developing them through a well organized farm system is the secret of building up a team without paying large sums for talent, take it from Cardinal officials.

The Cardinals will face in the world serie sone of the men who cost more than twice as much as their entire team. He is Robert Grove, for whom the Athletics paid approximately $1C0,000.

Bottomley, Gelbert Developed.

Stars developed through the Cardinal farm system will take a major part in this year's baseball classic. In the infield Jim Bottomley and Charlie Gelbert are two who have been developed by the Cardinals. The first baseman went to work for the Redbirds for less than $200 a month some ten years ago. Gelbert, a star with Rochester a couple of years ago, was brought in off the "farm" and has become an outstanding shortstop.

All three of the Cardinal outfielders were signed while they were in their youth, Taylor Douthit and 'Chick' Hafey were picked up in California. Hafey was a semi-pro player and Douthit a university man. Neither cost much. George Watkins was found down in Texas and after seasoning on Cardinal farms was brought to St. Louis this year. Gus Mancuso, brilliant young catcher, is another product of Texas. Playing semi-pro ball, a Cardinal scout signed him for less than $200 a month.

Six of the eight Cardinal pitchers who may see service in the World Series have been developed by the St. Louis club. Herman Bell was signed from the semi-pro ranks; Al Grabowski was developed on the Cardinal three-eye farm; Syl Johnson was drafted from the Vernon, Calif., club; Jim Lindsey and "Bill" Hallahan came up from the Cardinal farm in the Texas League, and Flint Rhem was signed after he starred in college.

Haines, at $10,000, Highest Purchase.

Of the tCardinal players, Jesse Haines came at the top price. He was bought for $10,000 from Kansas City. Burleigh Grimes came to the Cardinals in a trade for "Wee Willie" Sherdel and Fred Frankhoue, both of whom did not cost more than $1,000. Frankie Frisch was obtained in a trade for Rogers Hornsby, who cost the Cardinals $500. Ernest Orsatti cost the club $2,000.

The Cardinal farm system was started in 1921 when the St. Louis Club decided it could not compete with richer clubs in buying high-priced stars. It was a pet idea of Branch Rickey, vice president of the club. Houston, of the Texas League, was the first farm team. Now eight clubs besides the Cardinals are part of the system. "Finds" are sent to the farm teams by "ivory hunters" and when a player merits it he is advanced.

Best of all, the farm system is self-supportig, Rochester, Danville and Houston helping pay the way of smaller clubs that occasionally fall behind in finances.

Dairy Maid First Home In Young Pigeon Race

Homing to her loft one hour in advance of the next arrival, Dr. T. W. Sproesser's Dairy Maid handily won the annual 500-mile young bird race of the Washington Racing Pigeon Club. The competition was the biggest Washington pigeon fanciers ever have had for a long-distance race. One hundred and fourteen birds from seventeen lofts were entered.

After being liberated from the starting point at Cleveland, Tenn., Dairy Maid arrived at her loft, No. 26 Arundel avenue, Hyattsville, 14 hours and 28 minutes later. Clear weather and little wind prevailed the whole route.

The average speed per minute of the first return to each loft in yards was as follows:

Dr. T. W. Sproesser, 971; F. J. Voith, 909; John J. MacDonald, 908; A. E. Neitzey, 871; C. J. Krahling, 870; D. R. Mathews, 864; V. F. Burgess, 848; Buddington Loft, 803; Joseph Turowski, 797; James Krahling, 773; C. L. Parker, 743; J. D. Ciasett, 720; five lofts, no report.

DAVE SHADE BEATEN.

London, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Dave Shade, former California middleweight, lost a fifteen-round decision tonight to Len Harvey, British champion, in Albert Hall.

Louisville Wins, 14-7, In Jr. World Series

Parkway Field, Louisville, Ky., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The Louisville Colonels hit their stride this afternoon in their first game with the Rochester Red Wings, at Parkway Field and won, 14 to 7, by pounding four Wing pitchers. The series now stands three to two for Rochester.

Game in Coast League Mysteriously Canceled

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Sport writers said poor attendance was to blame, but be they right or wrong, a scheduled double-header game between Seattle ar Los Angeles Teams of the Pacific Coast Baseball League was not played here today.

The sun shone brightly at game time, but no players warmed up on the field. The teams, it was learned, left last night for Los Angeles, where eleven contests are expected to be held. No official comment on the situation was forthcoming.

All-Star Charity Grid Play Faces Dixie Ban

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—A ban on all-star charity football games among players of the Southern Conference was to be placed before members of the conference today by its executive committee, which met last night and voted against such contests.

The lone exception to the ban, the committee decided, was in the event of a member of the conference being invited to participate in the annual New Year's Tournament of Roses game in California.

The committee's recommendation followed a response to a questionnaire sent to the athletic committees of all the leading conference colleges, requesting their vote on whether or not conference players should be permitted to take part in post-season engagements.

GRID INJURY KILLS.

Shreveport, La., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Roy Alexander, 18-year-old high school student, died today of an injury said to have been sustained during high school football scrimmage three weeks ago. He was believed to have a ruptured blood vessel in the head, but it was not known he was seriously hurt until two weeks after the accident.

G. P. O. FEDERALS WORK.

Coach Henry Smith has scheduled a practice session for the G. P. O. Federals tomorrow night at 7. All players are asked to report at the Seventeenth and B streets gridiron.

4,000 Watch Knockout by Finnegan

Balduc Is Floored for Full Count in 2d Round at Fort.

Down for 5 in First; Right Uppercut Ends Battle.

DICK (HONEY BOY) FINNEGAN, battling before Washington fans after an absence of more than five years, last night showed that he still packs a punch when he scored a two-round knockout over Georgie Balduc, of Portland, Me., in the scheduled ten-round feature in the Veterans of Foreign Wars' card at Fort Washington. A capacity crowd of about 4,000 was on hand to greet the "Honey Boy" on his visit "home."

Balduc, highly touted and doped by many to beat Finnegan, was never in the running. "Honey Boy," in prime condition, opened with a fast attack and had Balduc down for the count of five in the first round. Balduc evidently still felt the effects of this punch when round 2 opened and Finnegan floored him once for the count of eight almost as soon as they left their corners.

Balduc In Corner for Five Minutes.

Balduc arose only to go down for good on a right uppercut to the jaw. Only 40 seconds elapsed before this round ended, although it was necessary to treat Balduc in his corner for fully 5 minutes before he was in any condition to leave the ring. Finnegan weighed 133½ pounds and Balduc 135¼.

In the eight-round semifinal Eddie Buell piled up a big early lead and outpointed Battling Levine for the second time in the same ring. Buell was too smart and clever at infighting for his opponent, whose only asset was aggressiveness.

Billy Mitchell, of Washington, registered the first knockout of the night in one of the preliminaries, slipping over a sleep producer on K. O. Salvatore, of Walter Reed, in the fourth round.

In the other bouts Clarence Sloat earned a decision over Whitey Saylor, of Birmingham, in a six-rounder, while Mickey Lavanda, of Fort Myer, won on points over Soldier Johnny Clark, of Fort Washington, over the four-round route.

Repentance Upsets Dope at Aqueduct

Aqueduct Race Track, Sept. 29 (A. P.).—The Preliminary Handicap, a 5½-furlong gallop, resulted in a surprise victory when G. A. Cochran's Repentance, 5-to-1-shot, was the winner, leading home Paentian and Surf Board. The time was 1:00 2-5.

As usual in the chute races run there has been a lot of crowding with no official rulings, and the race today was no exception. The field had not gone a furlong when there was bumping and crowding, with the contenders being knocked about.

Repentence, under Kelsay's hustling ride, managed to escape the crowding and rushed to the front after the field made the elbow into the stretch. He gradually drew away to win by 1½ lengths over Paentian, with Surf Board third, two lengths back.

War, Navy Heads Offer Legion Golf Play Cups

Boston, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The donation of a $500 silver trophy to the American Legion interdepartment golf tournament by Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley was announced tonight by the legion convention's sports committee.

This cup, which will serve as a perpetual trophy, will be awarded to the former Army golfer making the best score in the 36-hole interdepartment play that will be staged at the Wollaston Country Club, Quincy, on October 8. A similar prize, presented by Secretary of the Navy Charles F. Adams, will be given to the lowest scoring legionnaire who served in the Navy or Marine Corps.

Temple Pinmen Bow To Cornell in Upset

A distinct upset was registered in District Bowling League play last night on the Coliseum alleys, when the Cornell Lunch pinspillers took two out of three games from the highly-touted Temple outfit, which is a favorite to win the league title by virtue of the three-game record score it set a short time ago.

Cornell took the first game 556 to 550, and after dropping the second came back to win the third clash, 632 to 612. Temple captured the second contest, 610 to 563. J. Harrison, of the losers, had the highest score for the three games. His total of 381 was seven pins more than that of Santani, high point man for the winners.

CATCHES 48-POUNUD BASS.

While trolling off Piney Point, L. B. Huntington, of New York, recently caught a 48-pound channel bass and also a large catch of trout and bluefish. Drone bait No. 2 was used in catching the prize fish.

M. R. Thorp, a Veterans' Bureau employe, and E. Perry, who were guests of the New Yorker, witnessed the event.

Johnson's Conquest of 1924, His Defeat In 1925, Recalled as World Series Nears

12-Inning Victory of Barney Over Giants Climaxed Classic.

By BRIAN BELL.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

THE approach of the 1930 world series with speculation rife as to the heroes and the "goats" recalls to memory the conuest of the Washington team and Walter Johnson in the classic of 1924.

In 1924 Washington laid at rest the vaudeville sally, "first in war, first in peace and last in the American league."

The Nats, then managed by the youthful Bucky Harris and the Old Gray Fox, Clark Griffith, as president, were first in the American league and defeated the Giants in an exciting world series.

This series was the first to be attended by a President of the United States, and it also saw the triumphant return of Walter Johnson, the beloved "Barney" of the Washington pitching staff, after he had lost two games.

In the first game Johnson, the great fire ball sharpshooter, was stopped 4 to 3 in 12 innings. Tom Zachary, cool, calculating lefthander who can still beat the Giants, came back in the second game to even the series by winning 4 to 3.

Johnson Loses Fifth Game.

The next two games were divided and Walter Johnson was named to pitch the fifth game, with the series deadlocked. He lost, 6 to 2, Zachary was good for another victory, and in the sixth contest he turned the Giants back, 2 to 1.

The seventh game brought the big thrills. It continued 12 innings before Washington won, 4 to 3. Manager Harris resorted to some world's series strategy by sending Ogden out to pitch so he would get the Giants' line-up for righthand pitching in the game.

After Ogden had pitched to two batsmen Mogridge, a southpaw, was sent in.

In the ninth, with the score tied at three all, Johnson was called in.

Johnson Fans Kelly in Crises.

Twice Johnson had failed, but he did not fail this time. With the winning run on third base as a result of a triple by Frisch, he intentionally walked Ross Young and fanned George Kelly. In the tenth, in another crisis, he fanned Frisch, again walked Ross Young intentionally and forced George Kelly to miss a third strike again, with the winning run on second base.

Two "breaks" went against the Giants in the 12th. Ruel, the Washington catcher, might have been retired on a high foul had not the opposing catcher, Hank Gowdy, stumbled over his mask as he ran for the ball.

Ruel had made only one hit in the series, but with this "life" he doubled.

Johnson was safe on Jackson's fumble. When McNeely, young Nat outfielder, hit a hard ball at Lindstrom, it bounded over the New York third baseman's head and Ruel came home with the winning run.

Defeat by Pirates Following Year.

Washington lost the 1925 series to Pittsburgh after the Nats had won three of the first four games and the series looked like a breeze for the followers of Harris. The weather was the worst in years. It was cold in Washington and rain fell in Pittsburgh.

Roger Peckinpaugh, declared the most valuable player in the American league, made eight errors in the series, all the miscues charged to his team.

The seventh and deciding game, played under miserable weather conditions, was won by Pittsburgh, 7 to 5. Walter Johnson pitched the full game and permitted 15 hits, but might have escaped with better support.

Other world series have had their tense moments: Grover Alexander coming out of the bullpen to fan Tony Lazzeri in a pinch in the final game of the 1926 series, a wild pitch by Miljus in the 1927 set-to, three home runs by Babe Ruth in one game at St. Louis in 1928 and two astonishing rallies by the Athletics against the Cubs last year, after Howard Ehmke had given a sensational pitching performance to start the series.

Spitball Star Is Counted on To Beat A's

Rivals Regard Battle Tomorrow as "Only a Ball Game."

Mack Likely to Start Grove; Team Holds Secret Practcie.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Cardinals, champions of the National League came to Philadelphia today, not to open the world series Wednesday, but "just to play a couple of ball games." On arrival they found that the Philadelphia Athletics, too, regarded the opening contest as "only a ball game" and not an epic struggle.

Gabby Street, with his battered fingers bruised by the steaming slants of Walter Johnson and hundreds of other pitchers in his twenty years of catching, spoke for his Cardinals on their arrival at the battlefield this afternoon.

"There's nothing to get excited about," said the manager of the Cardinals as a whimsical smile covered his weather-beaten countenance.

"We are here just to play a couple of ball games. We won't tighten up and we will do our best. Of course we think we will win, but if we don't they can't shoot us."

Ticket Demand Only Worry of Mack.

Connie Mack, the soft-voiced manager of the Athletics, with 67 years of living behind him, 50 of the cycles in baseball, had only one worry. He was afraid his players would be taxed to the near breaking point by the demand of friends for tickets.

"This waiting for games to start is worse than the play itself," he said. "No, I won't predict the outcome of the series. I know we have a good team and the Cards must have a great one, considering their wonderful uphill fight for the pennant. That was one of the finest finishes any team ever made and I know that a crowd that can accomplish that is capable of doing anything."

The Athletics today took an extended batting drill with Jack Quinn, their spitball pitcher, throwing the balls up to the batsmen. The A's expect Burleigh Grimes to be the Cardinal pitcher in the opening game and Manager Street has made no secret of his intention to start the former Robin, Giant, Pirate and Brave.

"I pick him, not because I think he is the best," said Street, "but because the Athletics don't see much spitball pitching during the season and Faber, of the Chicago White Sox, always gives them trouble."

"Second Practice" Held by As.

After the batting drill the A's excused themselves from company and had a "secret practice," much on the order of a football team preparing for a big autumn game.

The Cardinals will practice at Shibe Park tomorrow afternoon for the first time.

All the American League champions were pronounced fit. The Cardinals reported two casualties. Jimmy Wilson, the first-string catcher, who suffered a sprained ankle some time ago, probably will not be able to take his turn behind the bat. Unless an emergency arises, Gus Mancuso, the young catcher with a big batting average, will do all the receiving. Sylvester Johnson, a pitcher, too, has suffered recently from an old injury, a fractured rib, but he will be able to pitch if called to the mound.

K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner, was one of the few "outsiders" who saw the A's do their undercover work.

Tris Speaker, former member of the Athletics and one of the greatest outfielders of all time, was another privileged spectator.

First of Tickets Distributed.

Talk of opening-game pitchers continued to name the two G's—Grimes and Grove.

Thousands of fortunate applicants for tickets today filed slowly past the ticket windows at Shibe Park and collected the bits of pasteboard entitling them to admission. Tomorrow the rest of the 30,000 whose ap-

TENNESSEE FACES BAN IN SOUTH

Conference Acts After Report of Football Drills in August.

ATLANTA, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The executive committee of the Southern Conference today ruled that the University of Tennessee must show cause at the annual meeting in December why it should not be suspended from the organization for violation of conference training rules.

Reports to the committee were that freshmen candidates for the first year team at Tennessee were gathered on the football field in Knoxville in late August and instructed by Tennessee coaches. The conference rules specify freshmen shall not practice before the start of school.

The Tennessee coaches were also said to have issued equipment to the freshmen in direct violation to conference rules.

Coach Admits Early Gathering.

Coach Bob Neyland, of the University of Tennessee, admitted the freshmen candidates were gathered for instruction early and uniforms were issued. N. W. Daugherty, of Tennessee, president of the Southern Conference, said the practice was carried on without his knowledge.

The executive committee also gave its sanction of "D" or scrub teams playing other scrub teams within the conference without the games counting as varsity competition for the athletes. It was decided, however, that the athletes on the "B" teams would have to keep up the same scholastic requirements as the varsity team players.

5 Major Cups of Golf Given to Jones' Custody

New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Robert T. Jones, jr., will have five golf cups in his custody for the next year instead of four. The United States Golf Association decided today that since Jones, who was captain of the last two Walker Cup Teams, had all the other emblems of national championships in his possession he should have the Walker Cup, too. It was shipped to Atlanta today.

The Walker Cup, emblematic of international amateur team supremacy, has been retained by the U. S. G. A. offices and never has been sent to an individual. Under the extraordinary circumstances attached to Jones' winning the open and amateur championships of the United States and the open and amateur championships of Great Britain, it was decided to place the five cups in one group.

In all probability they never will be together again.

League Heads Name Umpires for Series

Chicago, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—President Ernest Barnard today appointed George Moriarty and Harry Geisel as the American League umpires for the world's series between the Philadelphia Athletics and the St. Louis Cardinals.

New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—J. E. (Jack) Reardon and Charles Rigler will be the National League umpires in the world's series, President John A. Heydler announced today. For the Chicago City series President Heydler named E. C. Quigley and George Magerkurth.

JONES HOME; IS GREETED NOISILY

Wife and Child First to Greet Golf King at Atlanta.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The greatest trail of golfing adventures the world has ever known, which began at a suburban railroad station here in April, ended this morning at the same little depot as Bobby Jones came home to his friends.

Although no official welcoming program had been arranged, hundreds of friends and admirers crowded Brookwood station for a glimpse of Bobby as he stepped off the train. Automobile horns honked, train whistles blew and a score of cameras added their grinding noise to the general uproar. Newsreel photographers followed Bobby's every step until he was driven away to his home.

First to greet the emperor of the links was his wife, their young son, Robert Tyre 3d, and his mother. Bobby's little daughter, Clara Malone, saved her welcome until noon, since school started this morning.

There was no sign today of the official orderly welcome arranged for Bobby in July when he returned home from Interlachen with the two British titles and the American open championship. No organized welcome was planned. It was Bobby's wish that he be allowed to go on to his home, rest in quiet today and tomorrow, pick up his law practice where he left off two weeks ago.

Uluiniu Shows Way In Hawthorne Feature

Hawthorne Race Track, Ill., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Showing good speed from the drop of the flag, Mrs. R. Pollard's 5-year-old Uluiniu captured the Broadmoor Purse, the feature on this, the opening, day's card. It was a gallop of a mile and 70 yards for 3-year-olds and upward and carried a net value of $1,300 to the winner. E. J. Lehmann's Suitor was second, with Fleche d'Argent third. Uluiniu covered the distance in 1:42 2-5.

Taken into the lead right after the start, Uluiniu was rated along in wraps for the first 6 furlongs some two lengths in front of his field. As they straightened out for the run through the stretch, Jockey M. Knight gave the son of Rodgers his head, and he stepped out to win easily by three lengths. Suitor raced evenly in second position throughout, defeating the lightly weighted Fleche d'Argent by a length. Uncommon Gold, the secondary favorite, stumbled shortly after the start and was not persevered with thereafter.

RED SOX POST RESIGNED BY WAGNER

Quits After One Year; McCarthy Seen as Successor.

BOSTON, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Charles "Heinie" Wagner has resigned as manager of the Red Sox, that baseball club announced today. Wagner had served as manager only this season. His successor had not been named, it was stated.

Wagner took over the team after the retirement last year of Bill Carrigan, manager of the Sox when the Boston team held the world's championship. Carrigan, when he came out of retirement at the request of President Bob Quinn several years ago, induced Wagner, another veteran of championship days, to return as his assistant.

Wagner's Luck No Better Than Carrigan's.

Wagner's luck proved no better than Carrigan's, and the Boston team wound up its season yesterday in the familiar cellar position.

Although the club management denied a successor to Wagner was in view, speculation immediately centered upon the possibility that Joe McCarthy, deposed manager of the Chicago Cubs, might be induced to come to Boston. McCarthy was released by William Wrigley, jr., last week in anticipation of the expiration of his five-year contract at the end of the season and Rogers Hornsby was named to replace him.

The Post's Line-Up for World Series

ON the battle ground of the world's series, reflecting every phase of baseball's annual piece de resistance, The Washington Post will be represented by a staff of reporters with a wallop in every position in the line-up.

SHIRLEY L. POVICH, Sports Editor of The Post, who will report the happenings on the ball field, the drama of the ball games and the crowd, the "master minding" and the general progress of the series.

WESTBROOK PEGLER, noted sports chronicler, humorist and cynic, whose breezy, entertaining stories have emanated from every classic sports event.

H. I. PHILLIPS, famous humorist, who will carry his keen sense of satire to the playing fields at Philadelphia and St. Louis.

ALAN J. GOULD, Associated Press Sports Editor, who will cover the series in general, a veteran observer of world's series classics.

BRIAN BELL, of the Associated Press staff, who will report the series from the angle of the dugouts, the clubhouse and the locker rooms.

SUPPLEMENTED BY the entire sports facilities of the Associated Press and the New York World News Service, reporting the games in detail with the ball-by-ball and statistical accounts.

AND IN ADDITION, The Post will present the progress of the game pitch-by-pitch and play-by-play on its fascinating magnetic scoreboard on front of The Post Building, exactly as they happen on the ball fields.

HER GRACE SCORES IN HAVRE DE GRACE FEATURE

Parr's Racer Wins With Ease

Full Dress, Odds-On Choice, Next, After Poor Ride.

Nile Maiden Is Third; Blimp, 13-1, Cops in Fifth.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

HAVRE De Grace Race Track, Sept. 29.—The Shore Acre, mile and 70 yards feature here today, found Her Grace, owned by Ral Parr, of Baltimore, trimming the Glen Riddle Farm's Full Dress, the odds-on favorite, with W. R. Coe's Nile Maiden third. A field of five entered the stall gates, and when they left off running, Storm was in command, but Her Grace slipped through on the rail at the first turn to assume command. Swinging into the back stretch, Storm went up fast to again take the lead, but at the half-mile pole Leischman moved along the rail with Her Grace to be making the pace as the field swung out of the back stretch.

Her Grace Easily Draws Away From Field.

Once the field straightened out in the home lane, Her Grace easily drew away from her field. Erickson, who rode Full Dress, gave a miserable exhibition. He had the colt in no end of trouble and never seemed to make the right move until the race was over.

The Colgate Stable's Blimp, paying $28.70, ran a mile and one-sixteenth in the slow time of 1:47 1-5 to win the Middle Classes, the day's secondary feature. H. P. Whitney's Dustemall, the favorite, took command at the drop of the flag and led the field of six around the clubhouse bend and almost to the far turn, where Blimp, slipping through on the rail, was making the pace before the turn into the home stretch.

Dustemall refused to quit and came again in the stretch, which caused Jockey Quackebush to go to the whip to save the purse from Dustemall. Jollan was a fast-closing third. Annapolis, who was fourth, would have been dangerous but for being taken all over the layout.

Form players started off on the right foot when they installed W. S. Kilmer's Dark Magnate favorite, and the 2-year-old daughter of Traumer—Sun Magne led eleven others of her own age over the 5½-furlong route of the day's opener.

Dark Magnate, away slowly, was under a vigorous hand ride right down to the wire in order to overhaul Unusual, one that was taken to the top at the break by Sonny Workman, and who led to the sixteenth pole, where she tired badly. However, Unusual easily saved the place from Phantasime.

Tommy Boy Wins Second In Drive.

The Dixiana Stud's Tommy Boy, 2-year-old son of High Time—Rockpocket, made it a double at the meeting when he took down the purse in the second, a 6-furlong sprint that attracted a dozen thoroughbreds. Frankie Coltiletti, who won the opener with Dark Magnet, was astride Tommy Boy He was away slowly, but kept out in the center of the track, where he was clear of all interference. At the far turn Coltiletti rushed Tommy Boy on top, but was forced to go to the whip in the stretch to outlast Bonnie Bard and Fervid.

Long-shot players made the welkin ring when William Ziegler's Jr. Chianti, payine $51.70, the longest price of the meeting, stepped home ahead of Betty Beau and Al Green in the third, a 6-furlong sprint.

Eddie Watters kept Chianti well up with the early pace and, once straightened out in the stretch, went on to a handy score.

The Ascot Stable's Light View went postward looking all hot today and he proved just that by winning the mile and one-eighth of the sixth, with G. W. Campbell's Blazing Cinch taking the place from W. P. Gaines' Come On.

Light View Circles Field To Score.

Come On cut out a fast early pace, but Schaefer had Light View in his lap until the far turn, where he made his move to easily circle his field and win as he pleased.

Two long shots engaged in a thrilling stretch duel in the final race of the program this afternoon, with Cabellsdale gaining a nose verdict over Don Tinky. Tazewell was third, two lengths behind.

Cabellsdale, paying $20.80 in the $2 straight mutuels, moved up rapidly after the first half mile of the 1 1-16-mile route. Chickweed set the early pace, with Don Tinky always close up. Chickweed quit badly before the stretch turn was reached, and Cabellsdale was sent into the lead by Watters. Throughout the stretch it was a duel between Watters and Quackenbush on Don Tinky, but Cabellsdale held on determinedly and just lasted to the wire. Don Tinky was a 19-to-1 shot and paid $17.40 to place.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—DARK MAGNET, $5.60, $3.60, $2.50; UNUSUAL, $5.80, $3.20; PHANTASIME, $2.40.

DARK MAGNET, steadied along in the early stages, reached the leaders when urged, were UNUSUAL down steadily and was drawing away under mild urging at the end. UNUSUAL had good speed when the start saved ground all the way and finished gamely when challenged. PHANTASIME, prominent throughout, finished courageously. WHISKER was stoutly ridden the entire trip. PEACH BASKET showed a good effort.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:45. Off at 2:49. Winner, Dixiana Stable's b. c. (2), by High Time—Rock Pocket. Trained by P. M. Burch. Value to winner, $950; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 1-5, 0:48 2-5, 1:14 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TOMMY BOY, $5.80, $4.10, $3.00; BONNIE BARD, $13.20, $6.50; FERVID, $3.10.

TOMMY BOY, away in the first flight, raced into a brief lead in the first furlong, sprinted into a clear advantage rounding the turn, was shaken up in the final furlong and drew out again. BONNIE BARD improved her position steadily and finished with good energy to outstay FERVID. Latter made a determined bid entering the home stretch, but faltered in the final furlong. FLY GUY raced prominently and fought it out gamely. BLACK SHIRT could not keep pace. BELGIAN LASS lacked speed.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:20. Off at 3:26½. Winner, William Ziegler, jr.'s ch. c. (4), by High Time—Tuscan Red. Trained by C. Phillips. Value to winner, $950; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47 4-5, 1:13.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHIANTI, $51.70, $19.50, $10.80; BETTY BEAU, $4.90, $3.40; AL GREEN, $3.10.

CHIANTI settled in his stride shortly after the start, reached the leaders at the turn, assumed command when inside the final furlong and was under strong urging at the end. BETTY BEAU, in tight quarters and repeatedly blocked while following the leaders closely, was unable to get clear until approaching the finish. She showed a winning effort. AL GREEN weakened the last quarter mile. MY SIS was unable to improve her position. CRYSTAL DOMINO closed fast. PARTICULAR was never a factor.

FOURTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,600; allowances. For 3-year-olds. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:55. Off at 3:57½. Winner, Ral Parr's ch. f. (3), by Bright Knight—Markiluna. Trained by E. Truman. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $300; third, $150; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24, 0:48 3-5, 1:14 2-5, 1:41 1-5, 1:44 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—HER GRACE, $4.90, $2.20, $2.20; FULL DRESS, $2.10, $2.10; NILE MAIDEN, $3.50.

HER GRACE, following in close attendance of STORM, wore the latter down after seven furlongs, was kept under stiff urging and handily to withstand FULL DRESS. Latter broke fast, was taken off the pace, responded to pressure and closed gamely. NILE MAIDEN, a trailer early, saved ground in the early stages and came to the outside at the end to outfinish STORM.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,600. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:31. Off at 4:37½. Winner, Colgate Stable's b. c. (3), by Underfire—Corona. Trained by C. Holland. Value to winner, 1,100; second, $300; third, $150; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24, 0:59, 1:14 2-5, 1:41, 1:47 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BLIMP, $28.70, $10.00, $3.80; DUSTEMALL, $3.10, $2.30; IOLLAN, $3.90.

BLIMP, reserved off the pace until approaching the far turn, went up on the outside to take command, drew clear, but faltered fast in the last sixteenth. DUSTEMALL sprinted into a commanding lead early, saved ground and came again after losing the leadership. IOLLAN closed with a belated rush and was racing third strongest at the finish. ANNAPOLIS was never able to menace the leaders. ZEAL tired.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:05. Off at 5:09. Winner, Ascot Stable's ch. g. (7), by Rock View—Tread Lightly II. Trained by J. Hogan. Value to winner, $950; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24 3-5, 0:49 2-5, 1:14, 1:41 2-5, 1:54 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—LIGHT VIEW, $10.00, $6.10, $3.90; BLAZING CINCH, $5.50, $3.20; COME ON, $2.10.

LIGHT VIEW, allowed to remain off the early pace, moved up gradually when called on, came determinedly to wear down COME ON and, stoutly ridden nearing the finish lasted to stall off BLAZING CINCH. Latter, messed about for the first six furlongs, swung wide to secure passage when entering the home stretch and closed fastest of all under poor handling. COME ON opened up a winning lead in the first mile, but quit suddenly in the final drive. RUBY KELLER had no excuses.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:40. Off at 5:43½. Winner, H. Baker's ch. g. (5), by Gnome—Lydia A. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $950; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24, 0:49, 1:15 3-5, 1:42 4-5, 1:50.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CABELLSDALE, $20.80, $8.80, $4.90; DON TINKY, $17.40, $7.30; TAZEWELL, $2.90.

CABELLSDALE worked his way into contention steadily, closed resolutely under strong pressure and just lasted. DON TINKY moved up when called on, displaced CHICKWEED and fought it out determinedly. TAZEWELL, slow to get into best stride, closed with good speed. SUN RANGER showed an even effort.

Havre de Grace Notes

Special to The Washington Post.

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, Sept. 29.—Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Sun Beau, who will carry 126 pounds in the $20,000 Havre de Grace Cup Handicap, on October 4, looks the likely winner of that event. He may prove just as good a wagering proposition as Equipoise did in the $20,000 Eastern Shore. At least, he appears to stand that far out on paper.

Tony Wallace, racing secretary at Miami, was a visitor. He was well received by the horsemen. Many of the stables now racing here will take in the winter's sport at Miami.

Elmer Trueman went down to the old J. K. L. Ross farm near Laurel yesterday, where he looked over the yearlings he is breaking there for Howard Bruce, Ral Parr, J. S. Herkness and various other owners.

Raymond (Sonny) Workman, of Washington, contract rider for Harry Payne Whitney, of New York, is setting the pace in the fight for the $500 gold stop watch, which General Manager Edward Burke, of the Harford Agricultural and Breeders Association, is offering to the leading winning rider at this meeting. Workman has averaged one winner per day during the past five days' racing.

Albert Robertson, second-string rider for H. P. Whitney, who finished third in the Eastern Shore on Magnifico, left this morning for New York.

Jockeys J. O'Hara and Eddie Ambrose, who incurred the stewards' displeasure last week, resumed riding today.

Ral Parr, well-known sportsman of Baltimore, has purchased Dunlin's Lad at private terms from Harrison Nesbit, of Pittsburgh.

Woods Dickerson, track superintendent at Laurel, where the Maryland State Fair's 23-day fall meeting opens on October 7, was a visitor today. He stated that there was absolutely no truth to the rumor that there was a shortage of water at Laurel and that the meeting would open on time. Dickerson was here alloting stalls to the horsemen.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

Special to The Washington Post.

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, Sept. 29.—With the exception of the Gadabout Purse, the third number on the card, and the day's opener, in which maiden 2-year-old colts and geldings will travel 6 furlongs, tomorrow's program here is made up of claiming events. The Gadabout will be the feature, and it attracted ten entries overnight. Only 2-year-old fillies are eligible, and the distance will be 5½ furlongs.

T. E. Pendleton's POLLY PLAY may be the winner. This miss won her first start at Hawthorne last month very easily. She came back a week or so later and was beaten a length by Doris Jean, which raced 5½ furlongs in 1:06 1-5. In this latter contest POLLY PLAY displayed high early speed. She wasn't disgraced when Doris Jean licked her. The latter won several races in Chicago the past summer. H. P. Whitney's AVENGER is very fast and her recent trials at this track have been very good. She may be the one to beat. DARK EDWINA beat a big field of 2-year-old platers in fast time at this track the other day. She has only to repeat that race to hold TAMOUR safe in the Gadabout.

FIRST RACE—The two best horses in the day's opener are on the eligible list. One or both may get em, however. WAR, the highest priced yearling sold in this country last year, has been to the post two times. His last effort here was very good. He gave evidence that he won't be a maiden long. WAR'S stable mate, BACK GAMMON, is last among those eligible. Buddy Stotler believes this is a good colt. DARK HERO went well in his only start. This is the fastest youngster in the H. BOZEK WINNING REGULAR PLACE IN G. U. BACKFIELD

Bozek Looms As Regular For G. U.

Former Gonzaga Ace Displaying Old Form to Coach Mills.

Loyola Game Friday to Bring Clash of Similar Systems.

By JACK ESPEY.

JOHNNY BOZEK, Washington's favorite among Georgetown's gridmen, seems due to win a regular berth at left half back on the Hilltop eleven before its game with Loyola in Chicago Friday night. Heretofore this season the former Gonzaga High School star has been in the background in the Blue and Gray varsity picture.

In yesterday's practice in Griffith Stadium Bozek ran through the plays with the first-string back field, the other members of which were Johnny Scalzi, quarter back; Russell Danieu, right half back, and Leroy Bordeau, full back.

Coach Tommy Mills said nothing about the probable starting array of the back field for the Loyola game, but the fact that Johnny was in there with the regulars was particularly significant, inasmuch as he had been generally considered a third-stringer up to last Saturday.

Was Standout in St. Mary's Game.

Bozek gave a shining performance in the Mount St. Mary's game, displaying his old capability at broken field running and adding a demonstration of blocking that was an improvement on anything of this nature he had shown previously.

In the scrimmage scheduled today Bozek should have another chance to prove his right to a regular position on the team. It will be the final local workout of the Hilltoppers before the game. They will depart tomorrow afternoon for Chicago and will drill there Thursday night.

The Loyola contest may prove the making or breaking of the Hoya outfit, which now is uncertain of its strength.

Loyola uses the same system of play and to beat this team will give Georgetown a great deal of self-confidence. Loyola has been employing Notre Dame methods for seven or eight years while Georgetown only this year adopted them.

Victory Will Raise G. U. Morale.

The morale of the Hilltoppers will be considerably buoyed if they win, for it will be no easy task to defeat Loyola. The Ramblers are much more respected in the college football world than might be supposed. Little has been heard of them in this section of the country, but in their own territory no rival takes them lightly.

Coach Mills looks upon the impending clash as a big test. He said yesterday: "If we beat Loyola I promise you we'll make it plenty tough for our other opponents. But it's going to be hard to beat Loyola. They've got a fine first team, which if able to play throughout without substitutes, will give us probably as much opposition as any team on our schedule."

Navy Expects Battle From William-Mary

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 29.—William and Mary gridders, who will assist the Middies in opening the local season Saturday, will match the home team in poundage and may give it a close game, according to Head Coach "Navy Bill" Ingram and Lieut. Comdr. Jimmie Hall, who scouted the Indians Saturday.

They report that the Southerners have pretty much the same team as last season, with the exception of the center and Ryan as quarter back. Scott, fleet half back, was on the injured list Saturday and did not play, but likely will be used against the Tars.

plications were accepted will get the tickets.

Wednesday morning 3,000 bleacher tickets will be placed on sale in the order of first come, first served. One man was in line tonight, but tomorrow he will be joined by many others.

The distribution of tickets proceeded in an orderly manner today. Seventeen ticket booths, each guarded by two policemen, were in operation at Shibe Park during the day. Each holder who presented an order for one or two tickets for each game was given his tickets when cash was offered.

There was a line waiting at every booth when the sale began, but it soon disappeared, so rapidly were the pasteboards distributed.

Hovering near Shibe Park were speculators eager to buy tickets or orders. The city police and Government internal revenue agents are keeping a close watch on them. Under a ruling of the Internal Revenue Bureau, speculators can not operate without first registering with the bureau and all tickets sold must have the sale price on them. When such tickets are presented at Shibe Park on the days games are played, the management has announced the holder will be refused admission on the ground that they were purchased from speculators.

This has made the speculators' business rather precarious, and police report they are not doing as much business as in former world series years.

Colonials Expect Battle From Rutgers Saturday

Surprise Beating Received by New Brunswick Eleven in Opener Expected to Make G. W.'s Task All the Harder.

SURPRISED at the news of Rutgers' defeat at the hands of Providence College last saturday, George Washington University's football team is expecting even more trouble than it at first anticipated in meeting the Rutgers team in its opening game of the season Saturday at New Brunswick.

Aware of the fact that Rutgers is boasting its best team in six years, the Colonials look upon its defeat Saturday as one of the usual early-season "upsets" and know that its first foe will be out for blood and revenge this week-end. It would have been bad enough to have met Rutgers even in a normal state of mind, but to go into its season's baptism of fire against a team enraged by the apparently cruel hand of Fate spells little good for the G. W. U. Eleven.

The Colonials also know that a player who received numerous honorable-mentions in selections for the all-America team last year will be in the Rutgers line-up against them Saturday. It is Frank Grossman, 190-pound fullback, who has proven invaluable to his team.

Despite G. W.'s seemingly preponderance of heft in the forward wall, it will face an equally heavy line Saturday as Rutger's flank last week-end averaged 192 pounds from end to end. Its backfield is by no means light, either, the quartet of ball carriers having a weight average of 185.

After the first day's lay-off in three weeks Sunday, the Colonials resumed the practice at the Tidal Basin yesterday with the coaches still seeking to settle upon definite positions of some of the men. After the day's work-out, Head Coach Pixlee was still undecided about the starting line-up and declared that he would not name the team which would take the field until a few minutes before the game on Saturday.

Colonial fans, eager to support their team, are with them to the end, and many of the students have signified their intention of accompanying the squad on Saturday.

Edmunds New Line Coach Of Virginia A. C. Gridders

Alexandria High Opens Home Season Friday; Physician's Orders Keeps Episcopal From 100 Per Cent Grid Turnout.

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Sept. 29.—"Buck" Edmunds, former All-Navy football star, today was named as assistant coach of the Virginia Athletic Club football team. He will devote his entire attention to coaching the line. Edmunds played at tackle and was one of the best in the independent game when he was performing regularly.

Manager Pat Gorman, of the Virginians, stated that he would probably open the season next Sunday, either in Alexandria or Richmond. Gorman is dickering with several teams for games.

Alex, High Meets Training School Eleven.

The Alexandria High School football team will inaugurate its 1930 home gridiron season Friday, opposing the National Training School team at Baggett's Stadium. The D. C. gridders held Emerson Institute scoreless in the opening tussle, while the Twins, playing on a foreign field, won from the Episcopal "B" team.

Out of a total enrollment of 220 students, 200 are bidding for positions on the Episcopal High School football teams. Coach "Bick" Cardwell said the twenty not out for football were advised by physicians not to enter into too strenuous exercises.

Burton Fitton, youthful Alexandria boxer, is expected to take part in the national amateur championships this fall. Fitton boxes in the 135-pound class. He is also a tennis player of exceptional ability.

Duncan Breaks Wrist; Out For Season.

Joe Duncan, star football player with Mount St. Joseph's College in Baltimore, who resides in Alexandria, is out of the game for the season. Duncan sustained a broken wrist in Saturday's tusale.

George Moore, all-District tackle in 1929, is again out for the Celtics Eleven. Moor reported for practice today. He is a policeman in Washington and is on the traffic squad.

Episcopal High School Varsity Eleven will entertain Technical High gridders in their second game of the season Saturday on Hoxton Field. The Cherry and Black Team defeated Eastern in last week's encounter.

W. Va. Wesleyans Play In New York Saturday

Buckhannon, W. Va., Sept. 27.—West Virginia Wesleyan will make her first football invasion of the East on next Saturday, when the Bobcats go to the Yankee Stadium for a battle with Chick Meehan's powerful New York University eleven.

Wesleyan's annual appearance in New York City to meet the Meehanites usually brings out one of the largest early season crowds in the metropolis, the 'Cats playing before 35,000 at the Polo Grounds last year, when the Violet downed the West Virginians 26 to 0.

Coach Cebe Rose' proteges have made things hot for the New York eleven on every occasion, outplaying the big Meehan team last year, but losing through a weakness on forward passes and intercepted heaves. The game with N. Y. U. will be the second of three tough engagements for the Methodists, the locals being in Morgantown today for their annual battle with West Virginia University. Georgetown University will be played at Washington, D. C., on Friday night, October 11, after which Wesleyan takes on Glenville State at Buckhannon.

PRACTICE FOR PREP ELEVEN.

The Northern Preps will practice tomorrow night at 7:30 on the gridiron at Georgia avenue and Piney Branch road. Curtain and Connors, in particular, are asked to report by Coach Artie Wendrack, former Tech High and Maryland University star. The Northerns are entered in the 150-pound class of the Capital City Football League this season.

HARD WEEK'S WORK AT V. P. I.

Coach to Drive Team Correcting Faults of Opener.

Special to The Washington Post.

BLACKSBURG, Va., Sept. 29.—"My boys show promise of playing some real football before December rolls around," was the way Orville Neal, new V. P. I. head coach, summed up the Gobblers' 9 to 0 victory over Roanoke College in the inaugural tilt here Saturday.

"Of course no one can say the team wasn't a bit stingy in scoring," he added, "and the tactics were far from impressive after drives had carried close to Roanoke's goal, but many of my youngsters were in there getting their baptism of fire, and they have a lot to learn.

Players Sure to Gain Confidence Before Long.

"I had passers who were cool and deliberate under fire but the boys on the receiving end fizzled scoring chances in clear fields by letting the ball dribble through their fingers. These boys are bound to gain the confidence and steadiness of veterans before long.

"Just because impressive yardage totals and a flock of first downs never win ball games unless the last white line is crossed we are going to have one of the busiest weeks on record, starting tomorrow. Coaches, particularly new ones, can always learn a lot in the first game, and we are going to profit this week by new discoveries. Several of my backs showed nice drive for an opening game. Well, they are going to get plenty of chance to keep it up in scrimmage before Carolina comes to town."

Coach Neal is inclined to take more stock in the 24 first downs rolled up by his boys on offense and their total gains of better than 300 yards from scrimmage than in their lone touchdown and Roanoke's gift of 2 points. He had nice things to say about his guards, Red Jones and Gene Hite; about the defensive play of his line, and the sterling all-round performance of Buckner Green, veteran right tackle.

Mit Owens, now starting his third year at full back, topped the ground gainers, but Frank Howard, his sophomore successor, and Sam Hardwick and George Cubberly, reserve half backs, came through with fast footwork in the Maroon second and around the enemy flanks.

Neal will most likely enroll this pair in the shock troops this week and tune them up for lots of service in coming battles. Like all other members of the first two teams, these boys will be fighting for a part in next Saturday's headliner in the stadium with University of North Carolina.

DRILL FOR TRINITYS.

The Trinity A. C., which will enter its 135-pound eleven in the Sport Mart League this fall, will practice tomorrow night on the gridiron at Thirty-fifth and O streets. All candidates for the team are asked to report.

MERIDIANS IN NIGHT DRILL.

Night practice has been carded tomorrow for the Meridian 135-pound club at the Iowa Playground, Georgia avenue and Upshur street. All players, both old and new, are urged to attend.

PLANSKYS TO MEET.

The Plansky A. C. 150-pound team, which will play independent football this year, will meet Thursday night at 3615 Prospect avenue for the purpose of perfecting a definite organization and giving out plays. The meeting is carded for 7:30.

C. U. DRILLS FOR F. & M. GAME

Escapes Battle at Hub With None Seriously Injured.

BEARING marks of their crushing defeat at the hands of Boston College last Saturday, the Catholice University football players yesterday resumed practice in Brookland Stadium, where they will meet Franklin and Marshall next Saturday in their second game of the season.

None of the injuries suffered at Boston are serious but they are sufficiently painful to hamper the Cardinals in preparation for the coming contest.

Oliver to Be Back in Action Saturday.

One bright note entered the doleful sounds on the campus yesterday when it was learned that Johnny Oliver, best of the Cardinal back field men, would be able to play against Franklin and Marshall. Oliver, a good field general as well as a speedy, elusive ball carrier, was withheld from the Boston game on account of an ankle injury.

Franklin and Marshall was beaten last Saturday by St. John's of Annapolis, but it is believed that the Lancaster team is stronger than that result indicates. St. John's won by two touchdowns from the team that held Pennsylvania to a 14-7 count last year. St. John's generally is not rated in F. and M.'s class.

Night practice may be instituted for Catholic U. by Head Coach Bergman in the near future as many of the Cardinal players are scheduled to attend classes in the afternoon.

Wash.-Lee High Eleven Is Rounding to Form

Coach Driver is rapidly rounding his Washington-Lee High Little Generals into the form the Virginians displayed last year against the District's high school squads. Although graduation left four vulnerable spots in his line-up, two back berths and two line positions, Driver believes he has found hardening material in Eaton and Bragg, back fieldmen, and Ellis and Hammond on the line.

Washington-Lee served warning last Saturday that it was very much in the fight for high school supremacy in this sector by defeating Episcopal High at Alexandria, 7 to 0, in what was called a practice game. While the winners were found somewhat wanting on the offensive, they never permitted the Alexandrians to advance nearer than 40 yards to a tally.

Friday the Generals meet Eastern High at Eastern. The Lincoln Parkers more than met their match when they tackled Episcopal last Saturday.

Capital City Grid Leagues Anticipating Best Season

New Clubs Enter Circuit Sponsored by The Post; 150-Pounders Meet Tomorrow, Unlimited on Thursday.

WITH stringent eligibility rules already adopted at meetings last week, representatives of the teams which will compete in the two divisions of the 1930 Capital City League, sponsored again this year by The Washington Post, will meet this week to draw up schedules and assign playing fields.

Managers and coaches of the nine elevens who have signified their intentions of participating in the 150-pound section of the league this fall, will gather in French's Sport Store tomorrow night at 7 o'clock. The seven clubs which comprise the unlimited section will be represented at a meeting Thursday night at the same hour and place.

Best Series in History Promised.

Competition this year in both sections promises to be the best since The Post first established the league. More teams have been added to both sections, each club has been strengthened materially by the addition of numerous players, and enthusiasm among the participants is running high. There are no outstanding favorites in either section at this writing.

Most of the clubs have been practicing for several weeks under the watchful eyes of competent coaches. And incidentally, these coaches have difficult problems on their hands to select the best available men for duty.

Player eligibility in the 150-pound section is confined strictly to those men without previous high school or college experience. The unlimited section bars college football players. As a result, the overwhelming majority of the players in each section are on the same plane and the coaches have their jobs cut out for them to decide who's who.

St. Stephen's, Mercuries, Seat Pleasant, Brookland, Quentins, Marions and Alpha Delta Omega fraternity, of Alexandria, will be represented this season in the unlimited section. Of these clubs, the first three named, together with the Mohawk Preps and the Friendship A. C., constituted the 1929 five-team 150-pound section. But this year the Preps, runners-up to the championship St. Stephen's outfit last fall, have disbanded, and the Friendships have consolidated with the Quentins.

Four New Clubs Enter in 150-Yard Class.

Four new clubs, the Northern Preps, the Del Ray A. C., from Alexandria, the Centennials, and the Petworth Pennants, have entered Capital City League competition for the first time this autumn. Together with the veteran Palace-D. G. S. A. C., Columbians, Mardfelts, Brentwood Hawks, and Wolverines who participated last year, they will comprise the 150-pound section of the League.

There is room for one more team in the 150 lb. class. Applications for this vacant berth should be made either to the Washington Post or to William Flester at French's Sport Store.

October 8th has been set as the last day on which all players in the 150 lb.. division can weigh in at French's. Games in both sections will start Sunday, October 12th.

MARYLAND U. DISCOVERS PUNTER

Wood Impresses and Will Do Booting in Yale Game.

COACH CURLEY BYRD'S Maryland squad got down to serious business yesterday afternoon to inaugurate five day's of intensive preparation for the all-important Yale game, next Saturday, at New Haven.

With "Buck" Miller, veteran half back and best punter on the team, temporarily incapacitated with a bad shoulder injury, Coach Byrd spent a long practice session trying to discover a kicker for the Terrapins should Miller be unable to start against the Elis, which seems almost probable at this writing.

Byrd Seeks Punter From Back Field.

Shorty Chalmers, Ray Poppelman, and Al Woods, Black and Gold backfield artists who are certain of starting next Saturday's battle, were put through a long practice session in punting and catching punts. Woods had a slight superiority over his two mates in getting off long spirals and will be groomed further to take Miller's place.

It was Miller's superb booting which had a prominent part in Maryland's 13-13 deadlock with Yale last fall, and until Woods came through yesterday with some splendid kicking, Coach Byrd had a big problem on his hands.

The ends also came in for a great deal of attention from the College Park mentor. One of the glaring weaknesses which cropped up in Maryland's overwhelming 60-6 defeat of Washington College in the season's opener last Saturday, was the unsatisfactory work of the wingmen in covering punts. Coach Byrd, therefore, put his ends through a heavy workout yesterday in an attempt to remedy this defect.

Scrimmage Listed Today and Tomorrow.

The rest of the squad spent the afternoon running through signals. Scrimmage will be held today and tomorrow, with Thursday being given over probably to polishing up any defects which may become apparent from the rough work.

The entire Black and Gold squad, with the exception of Miller, is in excellent physician condition. The spirits of the players are at a high pitch and the men feel confident that they have at least a 50-50 chance of beating the Elis, who were but little extended to take their usual curtain-raising contest with Maine last Saturday by a 38-0 score.

NOTRE DAME FEARS AIR ATTACK

Defense Stressed in Drill for Southern Methodists.

CHICAGO, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Coach Knute Kenneth Rockne has always placed great emphasis upon defense against forward passes in developing Notre Dame football teams, but his efforts in that direction were redoubled today as the Ramblers prepared for their opening game with Southern Methodist University at South Bend Saturday.

Assistant Coach Heartly "Hunk" Anderson, who scouted the Southern Methodist-Howard Payne contest last Thursday, reported the Mustangs accomplished their 26-to-7 victory without being forced to reveal any of their heralded aerial plays.

Joe Savoldi, the wandering Italian from Three Oaks, Mich., today was moved up to regular full back, because of his improved showing on defense against forward passes.

Purple Practices Offensive Formations.

Instead of the customary light Monday practice, Coach Dick Hanley sent his Northwestern squad through a long drill on offensive formations, after which the Pickers spent another long period under Hanley's eye. Hank Bruder outshone the rest of the booters and will do the kicking against Tulane's Green Wave Saturday.

Illinois' practice featured passes and end runs and Bob Zuppke was anything but cheerful over the conduct of his squad, both today and against the Freshmen last Saturday. He told the candidates they "have a long way to go" before they become a football team, and backed up the statement by ordering a stiff signal drill and scrimmage. Capt. Olaf Robinson was on the side lines nursing bruises, but will be ready to start against Iowa State Saturday.

Ohio State, which opens the Big Ten season with Indiana Saturday, went through a light session, while the Hoosiers worked long on blocking and tackling, in which the ends and backs looked extremely weak against Miami Saturday.

VA. GRIDDERS FACE HARD TASK

Four Tough Games in Offing Starting Saturday With Duke.

UNIVERSITY, Va., Sept. 29.—With two contests behind them the Virginia Cavaliers now face a difficult assignment. They have to play Duke, Pennsylvania, Virginia Military Institute, and Kentucky in order, all away from home.

Virginia will have only four afternoons for practice this week. It's team must leave at noon on Friday in order to be down in Durham in time to get a night's rest before the Duke game.

Scrimmages Due Today, Tomorrow.

Scrimmages probably will be called for by the Cavalier coaches on Tuesday and Wednesday. Earl Abell, head coach, and his staff, are still far from satisfied with the way the men run some of their plays and they'll want the entire routine gone over again and again.

Duke is the first of seven Southern Conference rivals to be met by the Cavaliers this fall. In fact, the game with Penn on Franklin Field, October 11, is the only one of the eight to come that is not with a member of the Dixie loop.

Defeating Duke and the other teams to be played in October and November will be very different from winning over the two Virginia Conference elevens faced in September. The green line and comparatively untried back field of the Cavaliers will have plenty of seasoning experiences before they are through.

Peyton Only Experienced Wing Man.

All the Virginia ends, for example, except Johnny Peyton had little or no varsity experience when the season began. Last year Peyton played much less than a trio of veteran ends who were completing their third year of eligibility. And this fall a bad leg has kept Peyton on the bench much of the time.

In the back field the Cavaliers have only two lettermen, Bill Thomas and Herbert Bryant. These form a pair of accomplished performers, but the men with whom they must work have still to earn their spurs.

STETSON WALKS THE FIRST TEN MILES!

By that is meant simply this... the ten mile stretch of misery usually required to "break in" a pair of new shoes is done by Stetson machines and methods instead of by your feet. Comfort, in Stetsons, starts with the first step . . . not at the tenth milestone. The softening and limbering of the fine imported leathers is all taken care of by the Stetson system of progressive assembly. The silky, talc-smooth ease raises admiration—not blisters. A miracle in shoe craftsmanship, yes—but a blessing on your feet. The smartness is lavished on the style — not on your sensitive skin and tendons. Being a true lover of silken comfort, your Fall and Winter Shoe selections should naturally be Stetsons. . . . Style without a sting!

STOCKS ENCOUNTER NEW LOW GROUND

GAS CUTS AFFECT OILS

New York, Sept. 29. (A.P.).—Efforts to reverse the downward trend of share prices found Wall street still steeped in pessimism at the beginning of the new week today, and were quickly abandoned, permitting the general level to sink still further into new low ground for the year.

Selling was in heavy volume in the final hours of the session, and the day's turnover of 3,762,290 shares was the largest since June. The price index of 90 shares dropped 3.4 points to 149.8, or less than 10 points from the bottom touched in the October-November crash of 1929. During the morning, several issues rose 3 points or so, but by early afternoon, this upturn had been erased.

Bear pressure was said in brokerage circles to have been in important volume, but the belief persisted that real liquidation of long holdings of stocks was still going forward. Selling off the oils, rails and several industrial specialties was particularly heavy. Further heaviness of the commodity markets was a reciprocal influence in the renewed pressure against stocks.

Surveys Rather Gloomy.

Business surveys issued by investment advisory services over the week-end were none too cheering, and corporate and trade news was not encouraging. While most observers still believe that the worst of the business depression has been seen, there is now an increasing tendency completely to avoid predictions as to when real improvement may be expected, and speculative circles, apparently, prefer will o' the wisps to unbroken darkness.

Further cuts in gasoline prices, with Standard of Indiana following Standard of New Jersey in its recent drop of 2 cents a gallon, prompted further selling of the oil issues. A break of more than 3 points in Texas Corporation, normally a stable issue, was distinctly unsettling, and so were declines of more than 2 points in Standard of New Jersey and Standard of California. A long list of miscellaneous issues was depressed by bearish rumors over the maintenance of dividends; Wall street has expected that several more dividend reductions or omissions would be announced during the next few months, but there was little in the day's news to shed any new light on the situation. A cut in Texas Corporation's $3 annual rate was even talked of, but this was discredited in quarters close to the management.

Long List Slumps.

J. I. Case touched 131½, off 12¾ points, and within 1½ points of its low of last November. Canadian Pacific closed down 8 points, and shares finishing the day 4 to 6 points lower included Loew's, Warner Bros., American & Foreign Power, A. M. Byers, Johns-Manville, Worthington Pump and Vanadium.

Shares closing 2 to 3 down embraced such issues as Bethlehem Steel, Dupont, Westinghouse Electric, North American, Atchison, American Smelting, International Telephone, United Aircraft and Union Carbide. U. S. Steel common sagged to a new low for the movement at 156¼, then rallied to close at 156⅝, off 1⅞. United Corporation and General Motors lost as much.

American Telephone and General Electric were relatively well supported, losing only a point. Radio Corporation sank to new low ground, but was off only a fraction at the close.

Shorts Refuse to Cover.

Shorts showed little disposition to cover their commitments, save at falling prices. Bears have achieved considerable success of late in covering their contracts in one group of shares while keeping the list unsettled by shifting their attack to another group.

An assortment of speculative commodities again dropped to record low levels for recent years. Wheat, cotton, silk, rubber and sugar were under pressure. Wheat lost a cent and more a bushel, touching the lowest levels since 1907. September wheat sold at 72¾ cents. Cotton futures lost 65 cents to $1.05 a bale, recording the lowest levels in fifteen years. Corn dropped more than a cent, then regained much of its loss.

Foreign exchange rates moved irregularly and without definite trends. Sterling cables touched $4.86, off 1-32, and the French franc eased. The Holland guilder and Japanese yen, however, ruled at the best levels of the year. Spanish exchange was again under pressure.

FOREIGN BONDS LEAD DECLINE IN MARKET

Averages Show Recession for First Time in More Than Fortnight.

PERU'S ISSUES SLUMP

New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Sellers took the initiative in disposing of foreign and stock privilege bonds today and the price level of the bond market as reflected in the averages showed a slight recession for the first time in more than a fortnight.

Featured by the weakness of Peruvian issues, more than three dozen foreign bonds broke to new lows for the year, and the activity in the stock privilege group in the domestic division was at a high level as quoted values declined in sympathy with the break in the stock market.

In contrast was the forward movement of some seasoned rails and other high grade domestic issues to new high levels for the year, and the strong tone of United States Governments. Several issues in the Government group surprised or equalled the year's high prices and there was a particularly strong demand for Liberty fourth 4¼s, and Treasury 4s, the latter advancing more than ¼ of a point. Sales for the day surpassed the highest figure of last week.

Interest Default Rumored.

The wide break in Peruvian governments was ascribed to a rumor that interest payments might be defaulted.

The fiscal agents for the republic, J. W. Seligman & Co. and the National City Bank, however, announced that they had received the entire amount required for interest and sinking fund payments, due Wednesday, on the first and second 6s and the 7s. Pefu 7s dropped from 91 to 77, and the first 6s of 1960 reacted 5½ points, both obligations reaching new lows for the year.

Virtually every active German obligation registered a net loss, many dipping under the previous lows for the year established early last week. Losses ranged from a large fraction to more than 3 points. The largest turnover was in German governments, the 7s and 5½s, each sagging ½ point to hold above the year's low.

Other Latin Issues Sink.

In contrast was the strength of French governments. Both the 7½s and 7s were well bought. The break in Peruvian issues unsettled many other Latin-American issues. Brazilian 8s, Chilean 7s, 6s of 1960 and 6s of February, 1961, Cuban 5½s and Buenos Aires 6½s made new 1930 lows.

Turnover of stock privilege issues was the heaviest in weeks. American I. G. Chemical 5½s, down 2½ points; Baltimore & Ohio convertible 4½s, St. Paul adjustment 5s, off ¾; Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron 6s, off ¾, and Texas Corporation 5s were heavily liquidated. The sharpest loss was suffered by Warner Bros. 6s, off 6¾ points, to 78¼, a new 1930 low.

Offerings tomorrow will include $2,000,0000 Montreal Tramways 5 per cent bonds.

BANK CALL REVEALS DEPOSITS INCREASE

Many Keeping Out of Stock Market, Is One Reason for Situation.

SHORT VACATIONS CITED

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

The fact that many Washingtonians are keeping out of the stock market and holding their money in the banks was, in the opinion of numerous local bankers, again demonstrated yesterday by the results of Comptroller of the Currency Pole's third bank call for the year, revealing deposits in the 40 local banks amounting to $265,660,778.63, an increase of $3,607,849.75 over those of the July call. The facts that merchants have at present less money involved in their businesses than usual and that many persons did not take extended vacations this summer or spent them at home were also cited as reasons for the gain in local deposits.

Yesterday's call was for deposits as at close of business September 24. It showed deposits in the twelve National banks of the District to be $144,966,613.33, or $3,218,699.95 more than those of the preceding call date; that those of the 22 savings banks aggregated $41,748,431.80, or $569,255.54 above those of the previous call date.

But two national and six savings showed a decrease in deposits compared with the July call. Deposits of four of the six trust companies gained over those of the prior call but total deposits of this division, $79,145,731.50, marked a decline of $180,105.74 from those of the preceding call.

Call Surprise to Many.

The call was a surprise to many bankers who were not expecting it until later this week or the first of next. On Saturday the forms issued by the comptroller's office, on which information desired is listed, had not reached the various banking institutions. They came, as sometimes happens, shortly before the issuance of the call yesterday morning.

Total deposits of local banks as of June 30, date mentioned by the July call, were $262,052,926.88, which was an advance of $5,182,005.95 from those of the call for deposits of March 27.

The January call for deposits of December 31, 1929, revealed a total of $255,702,038.64. This first call after the stock market collapse, showed a recession in local deposits of $13,923,158.26 from the total of October 4, 1929. A complete tabulated chart of the returns of the latest call is published in this issue.

Telephone Companies Report.

Operating revenues of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., of Baltimore City, for August amounted to $1,158,293, the report of operations just filed with the Maryland Public Service Commission shows. Expenses during the month were $926,074, making net revenues $232,219.

Operating revenues for the eight months ended August 31 amounted to $9,384,165. Expenses during this period were $7,395,921, making net revenues $1,988,244.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Reports of demoralized wheat trade conditions at Liverpool and persistent offerings there by Russia led to further breaking of low-price records today in Chicago. Smashes in Winnipeg wheat quotations to the lowest level ever registered on that Canadian exchange, 68 cents a bushel, were likewise a depressing factor, and so also was a big new increase in the United States wheat visible supply, already the largest ever known. Nevertheless Chicago wheat prices at times today rallied to above Saturday's finish, and talk was current that some buying of future deliveries was done here for Russia to offset recent sales.

The Chicago wheat market closed nervous at the same as Saturday's finish to 1½ cents lower. Corn closed ⅛ to 1⅜ cents down, oats unchanged to ¾ cent up, and provisions varying from 20 cents decline to a rise of 25 cents.

Until word came that the close today at Liverpool showed increasing acute depression, wheat prices in Chicago were displaying a strong upward trend after a sharp drop at the opening. The initial fall in prices here, reflecting earlier breaks at Liverpool, had been followed by active speculative buying in Chicago, buying which in some quarters was ascribed to belief that successive downturns in values were largely due to hysterical and ignored constructive factors. With reports at hand showing, for example, that arrivals of wheat in Winnipeg today were smaller than either last week or a year ago and that prices were deteriorating in Australia, the Chicago wheat market not only recovered from early tumbles but scored material gains as compared with Saturday's close.

Sensational breaks in final quotations on wheat at Liverpool and almost simultaneously at Winnipeg proved to be too much of a handicap, however, for friends of higher prices here. In the face of reports that dearth of wheat in the domestic winter wheat territory Southwest was causing concern and that wheat is now selling below corn at rural points in every State in this country, the gains in wheat prices here were soon more than wiped out. Throughout the last part of the day wheat values here were dominated largely by news about the United States wheat visible supply increase and by assertions that Argentine crop advices were bearish. Among other disturbing influences was announcement that permanent duties hoisted its wheat import duty 23 cents a bushel today, apparently to shut out wheat from Russia.

Corn prices fluctuated mostly in line with wheat, notwithstanding predictions of frost tonight over parts of the corn belt. Oats averaged lower with other cereals, but showed stubborn resistance to selling pressure.

LABOR CHIEF LAUDS CATHOLIC CHARITIES IN CONVENTION TALK

Secretary Davis Declares His Aids Are Cognizant of Work Done.

PUBLIC AGENCY HELP ASKED FOR JOBLESS

Society Alone Can Relieve Unemployment That Is Permanent, Claim.

Preservation of the family hearth and rehabilitation of delinquent children are two of the principal tasks confronting charity organizations, Secretary of Labor James J. Davis told the National Conference of Catholic Charities last night at the Willard Hotel.

Secretary Davis told delegates to the sixteenth meeting of the conference that child hetith work should be developed on a Nation-wide basis. In support of his contention that preservation of the family hearth and uplift of the delinquent young is needed, the Secretary of Labor pointed to the fact that 2,000,000 delinquent children passed through courts last year and that 45,000 boys and girls are in institutions.

The Catholic Charities, the speaker added, should help to infuse into this country a spirit of conciliation. This spirit, he said, is growing daily, and is being evidenced by the gradual coming of peace in industry, he said.

Opportunities Are Cited.

Mr. Davis declared that opportunities for men in this country are greater than ever before. He read two actual cases in which ignorant men have been elevated to lives of achievement, and pointed to this work as illustrative of the rehabilitation that charity organization should undertake.

The speaker had high praise for work that Catholic charities has done, declaring that the head of the children's department of the Department of Labor had told him of the invaluable service being rendered by the Catholic organizations.

Secretary Davis was introduced by Miss Teresa R. O'Donohue, president of the League of Catholic Women and one of the pioneers in charity work in the Catholic Church.

Other Program Features.

The features of the evening program were the reading of a paper on sociological work by the Rev. Jones Corrigan, of Boston College, and a talk on Catholic Women and Communiti Movements by Mrs. E. J. McDonald, of Waterbury, Conn.

Unemployment and its various phases throughout the country were given a careful scrutiny yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the committee on social and economic problems of the conference. The speakers were the Rev. Walter E. Foery, of Rochester, N. Y.; Mgr. R. M. Wagner, of Cincinnati; E. J. Galbally, of Philadelphia, and Dr. Frank O'Hara, professor of economics at Catholic University.

These speakers told what their respective cities are trying to do to alleviate unemployment. The points they brought out were discussed by Dr. John Ryan Devereux, of Washington.

Rochester Work Described.

Father Foery told of the civic unemployment committee that has been formed in Rochester with eight subcommittees. He explained in detail the objectives of these subcommittees. Rochester, the speaker said, refused to recognize the unemployment situation until last March, although it had existed for several months.

He expressed belief that considerable unemployment can be eliminated by reorganization of industry and introduction of a principle providing for an increase in working men instead of hours.

Mgr. Wagner, as director of Catholic Charities in Cincinnati, blamed industry for unemployment by refusing to employ men in many cases over 45 years of age. Mr. Galberry attributed mergers by industries as responsible for considerable unemployment.

Fewer Women Workers Urged.

One of the speakers at the committee meeting recommended reduction of the number of women workers. In discussing this point, Dr. Devereux declared that women are forced to work out of the necessity to help support their children.

Dr. O'Hara told of the system of parish credit unions, pointing to this system as "able to take most of the sting out of unemployment." Members of a parish join the union by buying shares at a small sum a week, Dr. O'Hara explained. Loans are extended in worthy cases, enabling many unemployed to tide over until work comes their way again, the speaker said.

Dr. O'Hara pointed to the credit union system as a protection against loan sharks. By the way of familiarizing his audience with methods of loan sharks in Washington, Dr. O'Hara told of recent series of stories in The Post exposing the loan shark business in this city. After quoting those portions of the articles in which it was shown what an exorbitant interest is obtained, the speaker said that the situation was not peculiar to Washington, adding that it existed in all parts of the country.

Slow but encouraging work is being done by the local employment bureau of Catholic Charities, Dr. Devereux told his audience. He said that work has been found for 40 out of 150 applicants thus far.

The committee on social and economic problems will meet again today.

Committee on Families Meets.

The committee on families met yesterday morning. One of the principal speakers, Miss Louise McGuire, of Washington, and representative of the National Catholic School of Special Service, declared that private agencies have demonstrated that they can not meet the ills of social needs on a wholesale scale when those ills include caring for unemployed cases growing out of industrial depression. She pointed out that there are always chronically unemployed persons in the best of times.

REPUBLICANS PLAN CAMPAIGN IN COUNTY

Marlboro Meeting Decides to Draft Platform for Prince Georges.

CARD PARTY ANNOUNCED

Republicans of Prince Georges County yesterday inaugurated their campaign for the November elections with a meeting of the Republican State central committee for the county and the Republican candidates at Upper Marlboro.

S. Gardner Cole was elected chairman and treasurer of the State central committee and Mrs. Lula A. Bickford, of Berwyn, was reelected vice chairman. Thomas A. Baldwin, of Mount Rainier, was chosen secretary, and Mrs. Helen B. Cardoza, of Seat Pleasant, was elected vice secretary.

Following the organization meeting of the State central committee, a joint meeting with the candidates was held at the Eastern Shore Trust Co. office.

The meeting decided that a platform which would set forth the aims and promises of the Republican party candidates in the coming election should be drafted. Oliver Metzerott, former member of the House of Representatives, who is running for the Maryland House of Delegates, was chosen chairman of the committee to draft the platform, to be assisted by the other candidates for the House of Delegates.

This is the first time that a county platform has been offered by either of the major parties. Both parties in the past have announced certain principles which they have promised to incorporate in their policies but this will be the first time that a pritned platform has been distributed.

Plans for the registration today and October 14, and revision day, October 17, were discussed.

A card party, to be given by the Women's Democratic Club of the Seventeenth district, will be held Wednesday night. The event will be held in the Star Hall, Mount Rainier.

Eight Prince Georges fire companies labored for more than seven hours yesterday to extinguish a forest fire, which burned a 2-mile tract near Ardmore, Md. The fire-fighting forces were called out yesterday morning, and succeeded in getting the blaze under control by noon. About three hours later, however, the fire started up again and the companies were recalled and remained until early last night.

The fire departments of Hyattsville, Branchville, Cottage City, Bladensburg, Riverdale Heights, Glendale, Brentwood and Riverdale were those called out.

Alcoholism Is Fatal To World War Veteran

Special to The Washington Post.

Cherry Run, W. Va., Sept. 29.—William T. Freshour, 44, World War veteran, was found dead in a road near the home of brothers, whom he had been visiting, here early this morning. A physician pronounced death due to acute alcoholism, and a coroner's jury concurred in the finding. There were no marks of violence on the body.

It was believed that he dropped dead while trying to reach his home after leaving the automobile of a friend following a trip to Hagerstown. He was a native of this section. Surviving are his widow and four children, residing in Martinsburg, and three brothers, residing in this section.

Escaped Convicts Are Back in Cells

Special to The Washington Post.

Woodstock, Va., Sept. 29.—Three of the four prisoners who braved a fusillade in escaping from the Shenandoah County Jail last night were back in their cells tonight. Harry Seibert, recently sentenced to one year in the penitentiary on a dry-law charge, was captured today at Toms Brook, 4 miles north of here. Dayton Shifflett, alleged leader of the outbreak, was taken just south of here last night. He suffered two bullet wounds. Ed Ryman, another prisoner, got no farther than the jail kitchen in his break for liberty. Clyde Rosenberger, regarded by officers as the desperate member of the quartet, was still at large tonight. He was sentenced to a five-year term last week for attempted burglary and assaulting officers.

The four prisoners rushed Sheriff G. Luther Sheetz as he was locking them in the cells last night. The sheriff was knocked down. He fired five times at the fleeing prisoners, but did not halt them. When Shifflett was recaptured it was found two of the shots had struck him. This jail break is the third within a year here.

U. S. Court Opens With Light Docket

Nearly All Defendants at Cumberland Accused of Rum Violations.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Sept. 29.—The fall term of the United States Court opened here today with about half the usual number of cases to be disposed of. Practically all involved violations of the prohibition act.

Judge William C. Coleman of Baltimore, who is presiding, paroled Thomas P. Wharton of Frostburg, who pleaded guilty to possession of liquor and maintenance of a nuisance, following a sentence of 75 days in jail. The clemency was granted because the prisoner was suffering from pulmonary tuberculosis. He is paroled in the care of C. Edgar Keller, deputy clerk of the United States Court, and must receive medical attention as directed by Keller and submit reports of treatment every fifteen days to Keller, who will report to the court every thirty days during the life of the probation. Tenane Hanna and Emmett Judy were given jail sentences. Fines were imposed on Floyd Paler Riser, Jake D. Shanholts, William S. Kelly and Herbert Stallings.

The $1,000 bond of John Corrigan, charged possession of liquor, with two prior records, and charged also with maintaining a common nuisance, was ordered forfeited when he failed to appear. William Ankosky, accused of liquor possession, also forfeited his bond, by nonappearance.

Judge Moss Selects Anne Arundel Panel

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 29—Judge Robert Moss, presiding judge of the Anne Arundel County Circuit Court, today drew the panel of 48 talesmen for the October grand jury term of court, which begins October 20.

He designated Joshua S. Linthicum, prominent farmer and business man of the Fifth District, as foreman of the grand inquest, the other members of which will be selected on the opening day.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

"WHENEVER anybody has an ax to grind," declared Luella, "they write a book."

"They do? What leads you to that observation?"

"The proof of the pudding," she said, coining another expression, "is in the eating."

"I should think the proof of the book would be in the reading."

"Only the proofreaders see the proof," she told me, tossing a volume in my lap—"Ex-Mistress."

* * * *

AN ax to grind. She meant, of course, an Ex. Certainly, a lot of Exes have written books. Ex-Wife, Ex-Husband, and now Ex-Mistress. Pretty soon, I forecast, there will be one by Ex-Lover.

"I'm thinking of writing one called Ex-Sweetheart, she declared, causing me to stand aghast.

"Luella!"

"Oh, you know what I mean——"

"No, I don't know what you mean. Aren't you my sweetheart?"

* * * *

SHE came over and put her head on my shoulder. "Certainly, I am," she smiled, "but that wouldn't stop me from writing a book telling all the secrets of sweethearts, would it?"

"I suppose not, if sweethearts have secrets."

"Don't they?" she asked.

"Perhaps—but not like wives and husbands and mistresses and——"

"You need go no farther," she cautioned, "or you'll be writing a book yourself, called Ex-Rounder——"

"So, you think I was a rounder, eh?"

"You used to go around a lot before you met me, didn't you?"

"Yes," I confessed, "and I've gone around so much since I met you that sometimes I'm dizzy in the head."

* * * *

SHE was huffed. "If that's a slam," she said; "I can add another. You were dizzy in the head before you met me."

"Perhaps that's why——"

She started to cry.

"There, there," I soothed, "go ahead and write your book, Ex-Sweetheart, and if I've said anything to hurt your feelings, Ex-cuse it, please."

She did, and made her Ex-it.

METHODIST GROUP TO ACT ON COUNCIL

Holston Conference to Face Many Important Issues at Bristol.

PULPIT CHANGES LIKELY

Bristol, Va., Sept. 27 (A.P.).—Bishop H. M. DuBose, serving his second quadrennium as presiding bishop in the Holston Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, will convene the 107th annual session of the conference at Bristol, October 9.

Important business to come before the conference includes appointments of preachers and the vote on the judicial council, constitutional legislation handed down by the general conference, to become law if ratified by a three-fourths majority vote of each of the 38 annual conferences into which the church territory is divided. If adopted, the legislation will set up a Supreme Court within the church to decide controversial questions formerly settled by the College of Bishops and the committee on appeals.

Will Select Preachers.

Appointments of preachers for the year are to be decided at an executive session of the bishop and his cabinet of presiding elders held prior to the conference meeting. Bishop DuBose is to be assisted by the following cabinet:

The Revs. I. P. Martin, Abingdon district; P. L. Cobb, Big Stone Gap district; J. A. Burrow, Bluefield district; J. M. Carter, Chattanooga district; R. N. Havens, Knoxville district; E. E. Wiley, Morristown district; J. R. Brown, Radford district; M. P. Carico, Sweetwater, district; S. D. Long, Tazewell district; and R. B. Platt, jr., Wytheville district.

According to Methodist procedure, it is imperative that a presiding elder be moved after four years of service in the same place. Dr. Martin is the only one of the ten who has been stationed in his present district for four years.

Pastors may be returned to the same charge annually, but are usually moved at the end of four years, if not before. Those serving four consecutive years in the same pastorate follow:

Virginia—The Revs. L. D. Yost, Boissevain; L. W. McFarland, McClure; P. P. Tabor, Lebanon; D. F. Wyrick, Cedar Springs; H. G. Holdway, Fries; Z. F. Mayberry, Independence; W. M. Ellis, Rural Retreat; S. L. Payne, Woodlawn, and L. M. Burris, Wytheville.

West Virginia—The Revs. B. T. Sells, Bramwell; R. H. Ballard, Iaeger, and H. S. Hutsell, Kimball.

Tennessee—The Revs. C. N. Kennedy, Ooltewah; M. C. Weikel, Pikesville; E. H. Cassidy, Rossville; B. H. Greene, jr., Tyner; H. C. Brown, Knoxville; J. W. Hamer, Macedonia; C. H. Fisher, Knoxville; W. B. Peck, Rogersville; P. P. Martin, Pulaski; W. A. White, Ducktown; N. D. Guerry, Madisonville; F. B. Wyatt, Cleveland, and M. A. Stevenson, Sweetwater.

Five Years in Charges.

The following have served their charges five years: The Revs. S. C. Beard, Appalachia, Va.; H. B. Wilson, Clinchport; R. G. Farmer, Jonesville, Va.; C. T. Gray, Northfolk, W. Va.; J. M. Mysor, Roderfield, W. Va.; J. R. Belcher, Wilcoe, W. Va., and J. E. Gilbreath, Cleveland, Tenn.

Other pastors especially subject to change because of long terms of service in one place are the Revs. C. G. Eastwood, Greenville, Tenn., six years; J. S. French, Bristol, Va., 7 years; J. L. Mullens, Lafollette, Tenn., ten years; H. S. Hamilton, Jonesboro, Tenn., ten years, and J. C. Orr, Emory, Va., eleven years.

Besides Bishop DuBose, conference officers are: the Revs. J. A. Burrow, Bluefield, Va., secretary; E. A. Shugart, Marion, Va., J. F. Benton, Welch, W. Va., and J. E. Wolfe, Morristown, Tenn., assistant secretaries and J. M. Wysor statistical secretary.

Other conferences in Bishop DuBose's area are Tennessee and Memphis. It is significant that Bishop DuBose presided over his present conferences during the past quadrennium and was returned by the 1930 general conference, since a bishop is usually moved at the end of four years.

Crash Victim Expires; New Wreck Hurts Trio

Havre de Grace, Md., Sept. 29 (A.P.). George Jolly, Camden, N. J., injured Friday in the collision of a truck and a motor bus bound for the races here, died last night about the time three persons were injured in another collision.

The driver of the bus, bound from Philadelphia to Washington, in the second collision, was held under $1,500 bond pending the outcome of the injuries to the passengers. None was believed to be in a dangerous condition. The driver is Frank Meottel, Audubon, N. J.

DEMOCRATS OUTLINE FAIRFAX CAMPAIGN

Strong Effort to Be Made to Restore County to Ranks in November.

SMITH MAKES ADDRESS

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

The Fairfax County Democratic executive committee met yesterday morning in the boardroom of the Fairfax County Courthouse and made plans for the coming congressional election. It was decided to make the committeeman in each precinct responsible for the votes cast in his precinct. He was granted authority to obtain as many assistants as he thought necessary to carry the votes of the precinct.

The meeting was largely attended, and the reports from each precinct were very optimistic in the results so far obtained. The organization this year is closely knit and is determined to swing Fairfax County back into the ranks of the Democratic counties. The Republicans have carried it in the last two general elections. The Democrats expressed great confidence that Judge Howard Smith, of Alexandria, the Democratic nominee for representative from this district, would have very little difficulty in carrying the majority of the county's votes.

Judge Smith addressed yesterday's meeting, describing the foundation and history of the Democratic party. He stressed the difference between the Jeffersonian and Hamiltonian ideas of government. He urged the voters of the Eighth Virginia Congressional District to stick to the old Jeffersonian policies of government by the "common people," so that they might have a real "government of the people, for the people and by the people."

The Fairfax Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, will hold its meeting tomorrow at the home of its president, Mrs. Nora V. Allison, on Payne street, in Fairfax.

The Great Falls Grange will hold its meeting tomorrow evening in the Grange Hall at Forestville.

The regular meeting of the Woodlawn Gavel Club will be resumed tomorrow evening in the I. O. O. F. Hall at Accotink.

The Women's Guild of the St. John's Episcopal Church at McLean will meet this afternoon in the rectory of the church. Luncheon will be served by Mrs. J. G. Sadtler and Mrs. W. T. Weaver.

The School and Community League of Annandale will hold its meeting tomorrow evening in the schoolhouse there. Invitations have been issued to the patrons from Springfield and Lincolnia, whose children are being transported this year to Annandale School, to affiliate with the local league.

Capital Man and Two Others Hurt in Crash

Clifford Jarrell, said to be of Washington, and two other persons were injured last Sunday night when a Philadelphia-Washington bus crashed into a vegetable truck near Havre de Grace, Md. State police and passing motorists removed the injured to Baltimore hospitals.

Jarrell and John Yulli, of Baltimore, sustained only minor injuries, but Mrs. Walter Greenwood, of Morristown, N. J., was reported to be in a serious condition. The driver of the bus, Frank Meottel, of Audubon, N. J., was held pending an investigation.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE TOURNAMENT GOLFER'S DREAM.

I.

THE sun was shining brightly o'er the country's toughest course
As the greatest stars of golfdom met to battle on the gorse;
I had no apprehensions and I didn't feel a care
For I never had a doubt that I would win with lots to spare.
But my confidence was bettered when I asked in carefree tones
"Who's the feller I'm to play with?"
and was told, "With Bobby Jones."
As a rule I take some practice but I didn't bother now
For I heard Jones wilt and whisper,
"Here is where I'm whipped—and how!"
"What a break for me!" I muttered as I walked to Jones' side
And he greeted me aquiver with a fear he couldn't hide.

II.

"TAKE it easy, Bob," I told him
as we walked up to the tee,
"Pull your little self together and forget you're playing me;
"Don't be dazzled by my shooting,
don't be awed by what I do—
Just remember, Mr. Jones, that I was once as bad as you!"
Well he looked at me a minute and he tried to force a grin
But I knew the way he trembled that he knew he couldn't win;
I could hear his heart a-thumping and his brow was bathed in sweat
For he knew I had his number as a golfer men forget;
"Don't be nervous, champ," I told him, "brace yourself and be a man—
I will be as easy on you as a great opponent can."

III.

"I'M upset by all these people," said Sir Robert with a tear;
"That I'll miss the ball when driving is an ever-present fear."
"Just forget that they are watching,"
I implored him with a smile,
"Concentrate on golfing rhythm; try to cultivate a style."
Pale and quivering he thanked me, then he reached and took a club
And he took a stance remindful of a public golf course dub;
"Tell me, mister," he beseeched me,
"when you think I'm doing wrong—
I'll appreciate suggestions from you as we go along;"
Then he took a swing prodigious that had power and to spare—
But the ball was unmolested; he had simply fanned the air!

IV.

JONES was seven off the tee, sir, and the ball that he had hit
Was a feeble Texas leaguer and it landed in a pit;
He was helpless with his niblick as he thrashed and whiffed about,
So to end the strain and torture I just let him throw it out!
"Tee it up right in the fairway,
Jones," I said, "and take a sock;"
But he topped it and lost yardage when the pellet hit a rock.
"What's that make me?" he inquired,
now quite furious and mad;
"Twelve," I told him and he answered, "Well, for me that isn't bad!"
"Where are you?" he next inquired as he struck while looking up—
But I hadn't nerve to tell him, for my ball was in the cup!

V.

HE took sixteen on the first hole;
I had made a nifty ace;
Lack of rhythm was his trouble and he had no golfing grace;
On the second he was feeble and his ball went in a lake
(I was inches from the pin and knew a 2 was what I'd take);
Playing three beside the water he next missed the blooming ball
And was five far off the fairway up against a stony wall;
"Don't let my fine game upset you,"
I implored him, "please be cool,
And remember I can't help it if I'm just a golfing fool;"
Then he took a mashie-niblick, gave a hard resounding sock, Missed the ball again completely,
sunk the divot and a rock!

VI.

JONES was twenty to the second; I had bagged a lovely deuce;
As he staggered to the third tee Bobby muttered, "What's the use?"
Here I gave him some suggestions on the way that he should stand
And they helped him, for his next drive was for Jonesey rather grand;
It was almost 30 yards, sir (fully 20 in the air),
Giving him a lot of courage that he needed then and there.
Slicing sent his second zooming far into a field of wheat,
And on his third the distance was about 11 feet;
It was there I up and left him as he gave a piercing scream,
That aroused me, more's the pity, from the golfer's sweetest dream.

TRY IT SOME NIGHT.

Tom Thumb bridge is the latest. You play it in the kitchenette under arc lights and keep the score on the back of a postage stamp.

The Aga Khan is to sell his race horses. He is down to his last fifty million, they say on the continent.

People who are contributing to the fund for a consolation cup for Sir Thomas Lipton can only hope that his halyards will hold out until he gets it.

Ad Similes: shaking like a museum piece as Henry Ford approaches.

A DIFFICULT MANEUVER.

"What's that feller twisting and turning about like that for?" asked Mrs. Elmer Twitchell as she observed a politician of the safety first school behaving like a contortionist.

"He's just sensed the public attitude on prohibition and is coming out of a straddle," explained Elmer.

CLAY'S BIRTHPLACE TO RECEIVE MARKER

Tablet in Hanover County Will Be Unveiled With Appropriate Rites.

STATE SENATOR TO TALK

Ashland, Va., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The birthplace of Henry Clay in Hanover County will be marked with appropriate ceremony October 22.

Arrangements are now being made for the unveiling of a tablet erected by the Hanover Branch of the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities.

State Senator Henry T. Wickham, of "Hickory Hill" will be the orator of the occasion, and George E. Haw, jr., of Richmond, will draw the veil. The Rev. Dr. Foster, pastor of Ashland Baptist Church, will give the invocation and the Rev. Samuel B. Chilton, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Hanover Courthouse, and Emmanuel Episcopal Church, Old Church, will pronounce the benediction.

Henry Clay was born at "Clay Spring," near Peake, in Hanover on April 12, 1777, and the marker will be unveiled in the front yard of the old estate. The design was given to the A. P. V. A. by William C. Noland, of Richmond, and carries out the idea of Clay, "the mill-boy of the Slashes." Two mile-stones, placed one on the other, the lower being the larger, are surmounted by another millstone set upright, and it is against this that the bronze tablet has been erected. The upright stone is held in position by native rock brought from "Airwell" near Beaverdam. The three millstones were found in various sections of the county. Over the bronze plate the name of the place "Clay Spring," is cut into the millstone.

The marker has been placed through the landmark committee of the A. P. V. A., of which Miss Mary Overton Haw is chairman. Other members include Mrs. Henry T. Wickham, Mrs. Rosewell Page, Mrs. D. R. Midyette, and Mrs. J. G. Hughes. Miss Haw and Senator Wickham planned the inscription with the assistance of Dr. H. J. Eckenrode, head of the history division of the State Conservation and Development Commission.

Former Slave Dead at 103.

Hinton, W. Va., Sept. 28 (Special). Beverly Standard, a Negro, 103 years old, is dead, having succumbed after an illness at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Lenora Jones, at Talcott. Mr. Standard, who was well known throughout this section, was formerly a slave of Elott Fowler, of near Alderson. His age is said to have been authenticated.

Miss Ella Mae Bowles to Marry.

Lynchburg, Va., Sept. 29.—John B. Bowles, of Danville, has announced the engagement of his daughter, Miss Ella Mae Bowles, to Warde W. Moseley, of Lynchburg.

EQUALIZATION HEAD OUTLINES PROGRESS

Attorney Emery N. Hosmer Reviews Problems That Confront Board.

PLANS FOR WATER LINE

ARLINGTON COUNTY,
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Discussing the work of the board of equalization, Attorney Emery N. Hosmer, chairman, issued the following statement last night:

"The work of the board of equalization for Arlington County is rapidly progressing in the three magisterial districts of the county in accordance with comprehensive plans formulated at the time of organization of the board. In undertaking to accomplish the real purpose of a board of equalization, necessitating the expert and careful consideration of a great many tax assessments, the board is most fortunate in having the services of A. F. Thelander, architect, and Harris Levy, realtor, both of whom are ideally qualified for the undertaking by reason of training and experience.

"The survey of the board has disclosed a real need for equalization in tax assessments in Arlington County for the benefit of all, which need becomes more apparent as the work of the board progresses and the many inequalities appear. The ratio of assessed values to actual values established must be applied uniformly throughout the county to accomplish the desired result. A large area in the three districts has already been covered by the members of the board and the large number of individual assessments reviewed by the board and to be acted upon now necessitates the public and individual notification of hearings so that these matters may be disposed of as the work of the board progresses. An increase in the assessments of acreage, more particularly that which has been subdivided and improved since the last assessment, is indicated, which in increasing the revenue to the county should inure to the benefit of the home owner and small taxpayer, whose assessments have been found in a larger proportion to justify a decrease.

"Any taxpayer may apply to the board for equalization of his assessment, including errors in acreage. Information and forms may be obtained and complaints filed in the office of the board which is located on the third floor of the courthouse any time during the hours of 9 in the morning to 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

"The term of the board expires the night of December 31, of this year, during which time, in so far as it is able to do so, the board desires to accomplish the end that the burden of taxation shall rest equally upon all taxpayers of Arlington County."

In conclusion Mr. Hosmer said that "prompt action on the part of all taxpayers having cause for complaint will facilitate the accomplishment of the work which the board has set out to do."

Pursuant to policies of the county board of supervisors adopted at its recent meeting to extend county water mains wherever possible, County Engineer C. L. Kinnier stated yesterday that he will submit a number of applications for extension of water mains to the board at its meeting today.

A special committee composed of Mrs. Catherine M. Rogers, Thomas J. Crack, and Ray Cogswell will appear before the board at its meeting today and make formal application that mains in Ballston be done this fall or as soon as it is possible.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Robert E. Lee School will hold its first meeting of the school year at the schoolhouse tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Election of officers will be the principal business to come before the meeting.

Citizens of Arlington interested in proposals for a change in the county government are asked to attend the monthly meeting of the Arlington Citizens Association to be held in the Patrick Henry Schoolhouse tonight, when Hugh J. McGrath and C. K. Lewis, members of the Civic Federation committee, which spent several months making a study of the question, will present the report in detail.

Speakers will point out advantages and disadvantages of the three forms of government available for Arlington County, incorporation, commission form and the county manager plan.

The Woman's Club of Lyon Village will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. I. C. Buchanan, 100 North Spruce street, Lyon Village.

There will be a meeting of the executive committee of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce Thursday night at 8 o'clock in the Reese Building, at Clarendon.

Attention is called to all voters of Arlington County who wish to participate in the coming November election that it is necessary that they register on or before Saturday, October 4.

Registrars of each of the eleven voting precincts have given notice that on that day they will sit for the purpose of registering all persons otherwise qualified to vote.

With the view of creating more interest in the work both of the Arlington Post, No. 139, American Legion, and the auxiliary unit, a joint meeting of the executive committees of both organizations was held last night in Clarendon to formulate plans for extensive activities during the coming winter months.

It was announced that a report of both committees with their recommendations will be submitted to their respective organizations at a special meeting October 8.

FAIR AT LA PLATA TO OPEN TOMORROW

Charles County Exhibits Managers Hopeful of Best Show Yet.

NOTABLES WILL SPEAK

Special to The Washington Post.

La Plata, Md., Sept. 29.—The seventh annual Charles County Fair will begin Wednesday morning and continue for four days. The board of managers has prepared a program which, it feels, is the best in the history of the fair. An amplifying system has been installed that will enable all speeches and announcements to be heard in each building and about the grounds.

Notwithstanding the severe drought in this county for the past three months, the directors feel that the display of farm and garden crops will surpass previous displays.

Three Horse Races.

There will be three horse races, a mule race and two musical programs each day of the fair. Household articles will be judged the first day. Wednesday, October 1, will be known as governor's day. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon State Senator Walter J. Mitchell will introduce Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, who will address the crowd. Stephen W. Gambrill, representative in Congress from this district, also will address the crowd.

The second day of the fair is to be live stock day. Thirty pure bred bulls and heifers will be sold by auction this day. All live stock will be judged.

The third day is designated as sportsmen's day. A Southern Maryland trap shooting contest will be held in the morning. The Charles County finals in the horseshoe pitching contest will be held at noon.

Broening to Speak.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon Mayor William F. Broening will address the crowd. He will be introduced by Thomas B. R. Mudd.

The last day of the fair is children's day. All Southern Maryland children will be admitted free that day. There will be a 4-H Club judging contest, a Southern Maryland baby health contest and five athletic contests for school children.

Other things on the program for the day are: Pony show, tug of war between McConchie Grange and La Plata Fire Department, rolling pin throwing contest, and a husband calling contest. A pure-bred yearling bull is among the prizes to be awarded.

Lynchburg Man Weds in St. Louis.

Lynchburg, Va., Sept. 29. — Mrs George Green, of St. Louis, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Millye Green, to David Godfrey Myers, also of St. Louis, which was celebrated there August 19. The groom is a native of this city, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs D. W. Myers, live here.

Native of Allegany County Dead at 85

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Sept. 29.—Thomas L. Hinkle, one of the oldest native-born residents of Allegany County, died yesterday at his home on the Baltimore turnpike, 5½ miles east of this city, aged 85. He was born near the site of the farm on which he lived all his life.

He is survived by two sons, John A. Hinkle, Stephens City, Va., and Lester E. Hinkle, Baltimore turnpike, and four daughters, Mrs. Henry A. Hinkle, Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs. I. T. McElfish, this city; Mrs. P. E. Nixon, Paw Paw, W. Va., and Miss Wilma Hinkle. Addison G. McElfish, cashier of the Cumberland Savings Bank, and Charles V. McElfish, treasurer of the Cumberland Milling Co., are nephews.
